I Introduction

Fidelity Funds (the "Company") is an open-ended investment company established in Luxembourg as a société d'investissement à capital variable ("SICAV"). It has an umbrella structure and its assets are held in a number of different funds ("sub-funds"). Each sub-fund is a separate portfolio of securities and other assets managed in accordance with specific investment objectives. Separate classes of shares in the Company (the "Shares") are issued in relation to the sub-funds. Each sub-fund provides an investment opportunity in professionally managed pools of securities in different geographical areas and currencies, with the investment objective of capital growth, income or a balance between capital growth and income.

Shares are authorised for sale in a number of jurisdictions and may be listed on the Luxembourg Stock Exchange's Euro MTF market. However, shares in the Reserved Funds and the Institutional Reserved Funds are not presently listed. Further information on the stock exchange listings can be found on https://www.bourse.lu/official\_list or may be obtained from the Management Company upon request.

II Financial Statements

The Board of Directors of the Company (the "Board") submits its report and the audited financial statements for the year ended 30 April 2019. The audited financial statements are set out on pages 165 to 802 of this Annual Report, with results for the year appearing in the Statement of Operations and Changes in Net Assets on pages 703 to 730. Dividend information for the sub-funds is detailed on pages 766 to 786. A copy of the Annual Report may be obtained upon request from either the offices of the companies registered as distributors or from the Registered Office of the Company. Alternatively, please go to <https://statutory.fidelityinternational.com/fidelity-funds-annual-reports/>. Comparative figures for the previous year can be found in the Annual Report of the Company for the year ended 30 April 2018.

III Activities during the year

During the year, the company followed the normal activities of an open-ended investment company. The Investment Manager's Report that follows gives an overview of performance. As at 30 April 2019, the number of registered Shareholders worldwide totalled in excess of 50,000. However, the total number of investors in the Company is much greater than the number of registered Shareholders due to the fact that certain registered Shareholders may represent the holdings of many underlying clients. Assets under management as at 30 April 2019 exceeded USD 119.9 billion.

The Directors may from time to time close sub-funds as well as launch further sub-funds with different investment objectives, subject to the approval of the Commission de Surveillance du Secteur Financier ("CSSF").

At the year end, the Company consisted of 149 active sub-funds.

Details of changes to the range of sub-funds during the year are provided in the Notes to the Financial Statements on pages 756 to 802.

IV Board of Directors

The Directors of the Company as at 30 April 2019 are listed on page 6. Five of the twelve Directors serving as at 30 April 2019 are considered by the Board to be independent of the Investment Manager and free from any business or other relationship which could materially interfere with the exercise of their independent judgment.

There has been the following change to the Board of the Company during the year to 30 April 2019:

- Mr Glen Moreno was appointed with effect from 4 October 2018.

V Management of the Company

FIL Investment Management (Luxembourg) S.A. ("FILMILUX") as the Management Company is responsible for the investment management, administration and distribution functions of the Company. FILMILUX may delegate part or all of such functions to third parties, subject to overall control and supervision. With the consent of the Company, FILMILUX has delegated the investment management function to FIL Fund Management Limited ("FFML") and the distribution function to FIL Distributors ("FID").

FILMILUX provides services to the Company in connection with keeping the Company's accounts, determination of the Net Asset Value of shares in each sub-fund on each Valuation Date and despatch of dividend payments.

FILMILUX is formally responsible for the Annual Report and Accounts of the Company for each financial year, which are required under general principles to give a true and fair view of the state of affairs of the Company. In accordance with those same principles, FILMILUX is responsible for:

- selecting suitable accounting policies and applying them consistently;
- preparing the Annual Report and Accounts on a going concern basis;
- maintaining proper accounting records which disclose at any time the financial position of the Company; and
- complying with both the Luxembourg Law of 10 August 1915 on commercial companies and the Luxembourg Law of 17 December 2010, as amended, on undertakings for collective investment.

Conducting Officers

As at 30 April 2019 the Conducting Officers (COs) appointed by FILMILUX were as listed on page 6.

Conducting Officers' Responsibilities

The COs have a duty to ensure that the tasks delegated to FFML and to FID as well as the administrative functions carried out by the Management Company are performed in compliance with Luxembourg Law, the Company's Articles of Incorporation and the current Prospectus. Amongst other things, the COs ensure compliance with the investment restrictions of the Company and oversee the implementation of the investment policy of each sub-fund by the appointed Investment Manager.

The Management Company and/or the COs report to the Board on a quarterly basis and the COs inform the Management Company and the Board without delay of any materially adverse matters resulting from the actions of the Investment Manager, the General Distributor or of the Management Company in relation to the administrative functions.

VI Role of Investment Manager and Central Administrative Agent

FFML provides day-to-day investment management of the Company, under the supervision and subject to the control of the Board and FIMLUX. FFML is authorised to act on behalf of the Company and to select agents, brokers and dealers through whom to execute transactions and is required to provide the Board and FIMLUX with any reports it may require.

FFML may receive investment advice from, and act upon the advice of, any company within the holding company FIL Limited ("FIL"), including affiliate companies of FFML, and may execute, transact and otherwise carry out its functions, duties and obligations with or through any of these Fidelity companies. FFML remains responsible for the proper performance by such companies of those responsibilities.

The duties of the Investment Manager include the design, implementation and maintenance of controls and procedures to administer the assets of the Company and to manage its affairs properly. The process extends to operational and compliance controls and risk management. In addition, the Company and FIMLUX have appointed FIL to provide services in relation to the investments of the sub-funds including valuation, statistical, technical, reporting and other assistance.

VII Corporate Governance

The Board applies a clear and transparent corporate governance framework for the management of the Company's affairs.

1. The Board has adopted the principles of good governance as set out in the ALFI (Association of the Luxembourg Fund Industry) Code of Conduct issued in June 2013 and considers that the Company has been in compliance with it in all material respects throughout the financial year ended 30 April 2019.
2. There are contractual arrangements in place governing the relationships with FIMLUX, FFML, FID and FIL as well as other third party suppliers to the Company.
3. The Directors take decisions in the interests of the Company and its Shareholders and refrain from taking part in any deliberation or decision which creates conflict between their personal interests and those of the Company and its Shareholders.
4. The Board meets at least four times a year. The Board requests and receives reports from relevant Committees, the COs, FIMLUX, FFML, and FID on the various activities including compliance controls and risk management undertaken by the relevant FIL companies. Senior representatives of FIMLUX, FFML and FID attend meetings by invitation, thus enabling the Board of Directors to question the reports presented to it.
5. As part of the control framework within FIL, all FIL group employees are subject to the FIL Code of Conduct and its associated policies, which, amongst other things, set out procedures for personal account dealing in securities. The Board receives regular reports from the FIL Ethics Office on Employee Personal Trading to ensure that any conflicts of interest between personal accounts dealing by FIL group staff and the interests of the Company are properly managed.
6. The Board has established an Audit and Risk Committee which consists exclusively of independent Directors and which is charged with reviewing the annual accounts, the external audit process, sub-custodian arrangements and the relationship with the external Auditor, including the recommendation to Shareholders of its appointment and level of fees. The Audit and Risk Committee meets at least twice a year and reports to the Board, making recommendations where appropriate. The Audit and Risk Committee meets with the external Auditor in the absence of representatives of the FIL group at least once a year.
7. The nomination of new Directors is considered by the Board and is subject to the approval of the CSSF and ultimately the approval of Shareholders at the Annual General Meeting. The level of Directors' fees is put to Shareholders for approval, in accordance with the Articles of Incorporation. Directors who are employed by FFML, its holding company FIL, or its subsidiaries have waived their fees for the year ended 30 April 2019. For those Directors that have not waived their fees, the remuneration earned for the year ended 30 April 2019 was in aggregate USD 604,075 subject to Shareholder approval, as set out on page 762 of this Annual Report. For comparison purposes the EUR equivalent was EUR 539,324.
8. The Directors are committed to ensuring that Shareholders are kept informed of matters relevant to their investment and that all Shareholders are treated fairly. The maintenance and integrity of information concerning the Company on the Fidelity website is the responsibility of FIL. FIMLUX is responsible for the accuracy of translations of documents which may be available to investors in languages other than English. The Directors consider and, if thought fit, approve the English form of the financial statements presented to them at the relevant Audit and Risk Committee and Board meetings.

VIII Other Information

Proxy Voting

FFML has a policy of voting on equity securities where it is possible to do so, unless the loss of liquidity as a result of attendant share blocking is deemed to outweigh the expected benefits to be gained. Such voting is undertaken in accordance with written proxy voting guidelines employed by the FIL group, of which FFML is a part, and takes account of prevailing local market best practices. The Board reviews and approves the proxy voting policy, activity and guidelines annually. FIL's Principles of Ownership, which summarises how FIL engages with companies in which the Company's sub-funds have invested, can be accessed from the Corporate Governance section of FIL's website (<https://www.fidelityinternational.com>).

Commissions and Interfunding

FFML uses supplemental research in the course of its work for the Company and other clients provided by brokers through whom the Investment Manager executes transactions for the Company and other clients. All dealing commission paid by the Company and other clients on trades with brokers account only for the costs of executing the trade. However for funds where FFML sub-advises to a firm outside of the wholly owned FIL Limited group in other jurisdictions such as the United States or Canada, soft commissions may be used to pay for services in line with applicable local regulations. All supplemental research used by the Investment Manager is valued and paid for separately from execution and other relationships with brokers in accordance with inducement regulations.

The Company participates in the Investment Manager's interfunding programme whereby FIL's traders, on occasion, identify situations where an account or sub-fund managed by FIL is buying the same security that another account or sub-fund is selling. If a trader can confirm that it would be in the interests of both accounts to execute a transaction between them rather than in the market then an interfund transaction is executed. These transactions amounted to USD 322,690,507 during the year under review.

Swiss investors

Swiss investors are advised that with the exception of Asian Equity Fund, Asia Pacific Multi Asset Growth & Income Fund, Greater China Fund II, Greater China Multi Asset growth & Income Fund, Institutional US High Yield Fund, the Fixed-Term Bond Funds, the Institutional Target Funds, the Reserved Funds, the present sub-funds of the Company have been authorised by the Swiss Financial Market Supervisory Authority for distribution in Switzerland.

Performance Overview - 12 months ending 30 April 2019

Equity Markets

Global equities gained in US dollar terms over the 12-months to April 2019. Healthy corporate earnings provided support, while rising US interest rates, trade tensions, political uncertainty in Europe, and worries about emerging markets elevated volatility. Equities came under pressure in the fourth quarter of 2018 as concerns over global growth intensified. Nonetheless, investor sentiment improved in 2019 amid expectations of a US-China trade deal and the accommodative monetary policy stance in major economies. Notably, the US Federal Reserve (Fed) signalled a possible end to interest rate hikes at its January meeting. The European Central Bank (ECB) announced that it will launch a new targeted subsidised lending programme in September 2019, while pushing back guidance for future interest rate moves at its March meeting. The Bank of Japan clarified its intention to keep interest rates very low for a prolonged period. Chinese authorities also introduced measures to support growth. Meanwhile, the UK delayed Brexit after politicians rejected deals to withdraw from the European Union (EU).

Against this backdrop, equities in the US and Pacific ex Japan advanced, while Japanese and European stocks fell. Emerging market equities declined, underperforming developed markets. Overall, returns in US dollar terms were undermined by its appreciation against the euro, sterling and the yen.

European equities ended a volatile 12-month review period in negative territory. The period was influenced by tighter financial conditions, higher trade policy uncertainty and a China-led global slowdown, all of which hurt investor sentiment. Further volatility was caused by uncertainty related to the UK's exit from the EU and tensions between Italy and the European Commission, before the two reached a compromise on Italy's budget and plans to reduce its deficit. Equities were particularly weak in the fourth quarter of 2018, as investors worried about rising US central bank rates, a sharp slowdown in eurozone business confidence, weaker Chinese growth and rising geopolitical concerns. However, markets rebounded in 2019.

UK equities declined over the period. Markets started the period on a positive note but fell sharply towards the end of 2018 due to concerns around weakening economic growth and tightening by central banks, particularly the US Fed. However, the central bank adopted a more accommodative monetary stance, alleviating investors' concerns, and markets rebounded. On the policy front, the Bank of England (BoE) raised interest rates by a quarter of a percentage point, from 0.5% to 0.75%, in August 2018, but decided unanimously to leave interest rates unchanged at its latest meeting. Overall, the technology, basic materials and health care sectors outperformed, while telecommunications stocks lagged the broader market. Meanwhile, large-cap stocks outperformed their mid and small-cap peers.

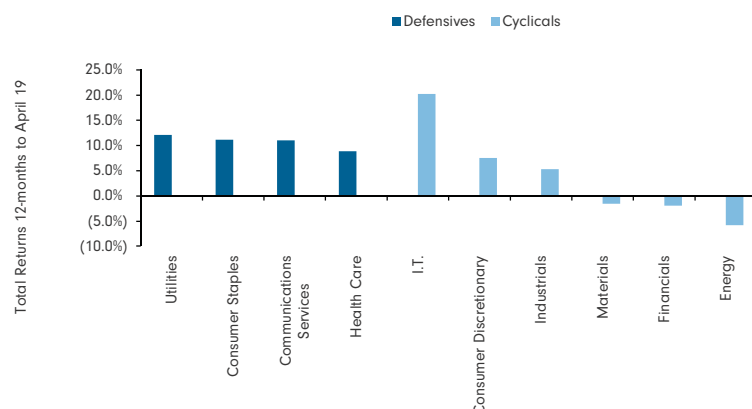

US equities rose during the 12-month review period, as expectations of a truce in US-China trade frictions and strong corporate earnings supported stock prices. However, market returns were weighed down by a sharp decline in the fourth quarter of 2018, amid the longest US government shutdown in history. Despite this, overall market conditions remain favourable, supported by upbeat corporate earnings and robust economic data. The US Fed increased its benchmark interest rate three times by a total of 0.75%, to now range between 2.25% and 2.50%. It also signalled a possible end to interest rate hikes and suggested a flexible approach to balance sheet reduction. At a sector level, information technology, consumer staples and utilities stocks were among the leading gainers.

Japanese equities fell over the period. Persistent worries about ongoing trade frictions between the US and China and the increasing impact on global trade and manufacturing weighed on investor sentiment. Nevertheless, stock prices rose in 2019, supported by an accommodative monetary policy stance by the US Fed and receding concerns over US-China trade frictions. The Japanese economy recovered in the fourth quarter following the decline in the previous quarter amid a number of natural disasters. The improvement was mainly led by higher capital expenditure and private consumption; however, the outlook remains uncertain. Earnings expectations have moderated, but stock valuations are supportive, and the monetary policy remains very accommodative. In terms of style, larger companies performed relatively better than their smaller peers, while growth names outpaced value stocks. From a sector perspective, energy, financials and materials were among the biggest decliners, while the communication services and health care sectors recorded positive returns over the year.

Pacific ex Japan equities advanced over the 12-month review period. Concerns about a potential slowdown in global growth and fast-paced interest rate increases in the US unnerved investors in 2018. However, markets regained ground in 2019. Hong Kong and Australian equities advanced on encouraging global cues. On a less positive note, Chinese and South Korean markets declined. China announced a host of monetary and fiscal stimulus measures to support economic growth. At the sector level, utilities and materials outperformed the broader market, while information technology was the key laggard.

Emerging market equities fell as concerns over the US-China trade war and slowing economic growth in China, the world's largest developing country, unnerved investors. A strengthening US dollar and interest rate increases by the US Fed hurt sentiment. In Asia, Chinese equities slid following the escalation of the trade war between the US and China as both imposed tariffs and counter-tariffs on exports. This resulted in a sell-off across riskier assets. In Latin America, Brazilian stocks declined as the government re-introduced price controls and subsidies. Encouragingly, political uncertainty ended with the appointment of Jair Bolsonaro as President. Elsewhere, Russian equities rose after the Robert Muller report concluded that there was no Russian interference in the 2016 US Presidential elections.

Defensives Outperformed Cyclical

Source: Refinitiv DataStream, Sector based on MSCI World, 30.04.2019

Global defensive sectors outperformed cyclical sectors over the period. Defensive utilities, consumer staples, communications services and health care companies performed positively in a highly volatile market environment. An improved earnings outlook further provided support to the utilities and communications services sectors. Among cyclicals, information technology companies saw the strongest performance. However, concerns around the global economy as well as weakening corporate earnings growth expectations led to the underperformance of most other cyclical sectors. Consumer discretionary and industrials advanced, but underperformed defensives. Materials and energy companies were weighed down by weakness in commodity and crude oil prices. Financials also came under pressure as flattening yield curves weighed on investor sentiment.

Bond markets

Fixed income markets posted positive returns over the 12-month review period that was characterised by a changing monetary policy regime. Led by US Treasuries, sovereign bond yields fell as central banks across the world adopted a cautious monetary policy stance, reflecting a combination of weak economic data and continued uncertainty over US-China trade negotiations. In the US, yields on 10-year Treasuries touched its lowest level in almost 16 months. The moves in US debt rippled out into other bond markets as well, with yields on German bunds and UK government bonds (Gilts) edging lower over the period. Meanwhile, credit markets recorded strong performance due to the rally in government bonds, thus offsetting the widening in credit spreads.

Government Bond Yields Fell

Source : BofA Merrill Lynch, 30.04.2019

This was a period of two halves for fixed income markets. Yields rose in the first half in line with US Treasuries as the US Fed increased interest rates but fell in the second half as major central banks shifted towards an accommodative monetary policy stance. Some leading indicators pointed towards a slowdown in the US economy. In addition to concerns about domestic US growth and inflation, external factors, such as the slowdown in China and weak oil prices, accounted for the change in monetary policy stance by the US Fed. The eurozone economy also witnessed a disappointing end to 2018 as business growth slowed to its weakest pace in over two years, with momentum continuing into 2019. Meanwhile, the BoE raised interest rates in August 2018 after backtracking on expected interest rate rises in a couple of previous meetings amid disappointing economic data. Looking further ahead, it is likely to wait for greater clarity regarding Brexit before making any further changes to its monetary policy, but we expect it to remain on the side-lines in 2019.

Performance notes on Fund Reviews

Cumulative Returns are calculated from published Net Asset Value price to published Net Asset Value price with gross income reinvested on ex-dividend dates. For sub-funds where the price adjustment policy has been applied as per note 2 on page 758, the Cumulative Returns are calculated to or from the adjusted Net Asset Value price.

This calculation does not include any initial charge, and represents the true investment performance of the sub-fund.

The performance figures reported under the column "Since Launch" in the tables are calculated from the commencement of operations until 30 April 2019.

Annualised performance is an alternative way of expressing a sub-fund's total return. It assumes a steady compound rate of growth during the period in question and is not the sub-fund's year by year performance, which fluctuated over the periods shown.

Please note that the Manager's Overviews are based on the first Share class disclosed for each sub-fund. Performance data is expressed in the Share class currency of denomination, indicated by the ISO code shown.

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2019 : USD 4,157 MILLION

Manager's Overview

US equities rose during the review period, as expectations of a truce in US-China trade frictions and strong corporate earnings supported stocks. However, market returns were weighed down by a sharp decline in the fourth quarter of 2018, amid the longest US government shutdown in history. Despite this, overall market conditions remain favourable, supported by upbeat corporate earnings and robust economic data. The US Federal Reserve (Fed) increased its benchmark interest rate three times by a total of 0.75%, to now range between 2.25% and 2.50%. The US Fed also signalled a possible end to interest rate hikes. At a sector level, information technology (IT), consumer staples and utilities stocks were among the leading gainers.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year, primarily due to the lack of exposure to growth and momentum stocks. Not holding large-cap IT stocks, such as Microsoft and Amazon, weighed on relative returns. The fund avoids mega-cap technology companies given its consistent value bias. The holding in luxury fashion company Tapestry detracted from returns, though it continues to witness growth in its Coach brand. The position in generic and specialty pharmaceuticals company Mylan also declined. CVS Health fell as it issued weak guidance for fiscal-year 2019. Conversely, shares in Dell Technologies rose as investors reacted positively to its share exchange programme, which offers a higher cash component and better exchange ratios. Utility company Exelon gained as it continues to execute well and is expected to benefit from nuclear subsidies and cost optimisation. The position in Abbott Laboratories advanced given its track record of delivering robust earnings over multiple quarters.

The fund has an overweight stance in financials, in particular insurance and diversified financial services. Key positions at the end of the period include Berkshire Hathaway and Willis Towers Watson. The materials sector is a key overweight, with active holdings in Valvoline and Linde.

Manager's Overview

US equities rose during the review period, as expectations of a truce in US-China trade frictions and strong corporate earnings supported stocks. However, market returns were weighed down by a sharp decline in the fourth quarter of 2018, amid the longest US government shutdown in history. Despite this, overall market conditions remain favourable, supported by upbeat corporate earnings and robust economic data. The US Fed also signalled a possible end to interest rate hikes. At a sector level, information technology (IT), consumer staples and utilities stocks were among the leading gainers.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year, due to stock selection in the consumer discretionary and energy sectors. A fall in oil prices negatively impacted energy holdings such as Concho Resources and Marathon Petroleum despite their solid fundamentals. Within health care, the position in HCA Healthcare was buoyed by improving earnings. The holding in Worldpay benefited from sustained earnings growth as well as revenue and cost synergies post its merger with US rival Vantiv. Its shares also rose following the company's acquisition by Fidelity National Information Services.

The fund invests in attractively valued, high quality companies to provide long-term capital growth. The manager looks for businesses with dominant market shares and ownership of unique assets. For instance, the fund holds Leidos Holdings, which is the largest player in the pure-play government services industry. It provides IT services such as cyber, intelligence, sensors, data collection and analysis to the US government. Mastercard is likely to benefit from the global trend towards an increase in card-based payments. The fund also holds JPMorgan Chase given its strong balance sheet and well-diversified business mix, with industry leading positions.

Manager's Overview

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year, driven by stock selection in the IT and health care sectors. The position in Worldpay benefited from sustained earnings growth as well as the revenue and cost synergies that it has achieved from the merger with US rival Vantiv. Its shares also rose following the company's acquisition by Fidelity National Information Services (FIS). However, not holding Microsoft weighed on relative returns as its share price rose.

The manager invests in companies that are benefiting from long-term secular growth trends and those that can significantly grow their earnings as they benefit from strong pricing power. The fund has exposure to IT stocks such as FIS, which provides software and payment processing solutions to financial services companies. In communication services, Alphabet is a key holding in the portfolio, given its dominant market position and high-margin advertising business. Broadband-focussed cable company Charter Communications has a strong market position that translates into high pricing power.

Manager's Overview

Equities in the ASEAN region started the year under review on a negative note amid concerns about a global economic slowdown and US-China trade frictions. Thereafter, markets pared some losses in 2019 on an easing monetary policy stance globally and expectations that the US and China are likely to resolve their trade dispute. Selling activity by foreign institutional investors hurt Thai equities. Losses in communication services companies weighed on Singaporean and Malaysian equities. Sentiment towards Indonesian equities received support on expectations that incumbent President Joko Widodo would return to power following the mid-April general elections. Buying activity by foreign institutional investors and easing inflationary pressures boosted investor appetite for equities in the Philippines.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year. Security selection in the financials and industrials sectors boosted performance. Bank Rakyat Indonesia Persero rose on expectations that it is likely to benefit from effective cost controls, a strong digitalisation strategy and an improvement in net interest margins in a benign interest rate environment. Aircraft operating leasing company BOC Aviation advanced on expectations that higher delivery of aircrafts would result in an acceleration in revenue growth in the near term. Elsewhere, processed meat producer Charoen Pokphand Indonesia ended higher in light of its robust earnings growth momentum, aided by healthy broiler prices.

The manager favours businesses that are enduring franchises with sustainable competitive advantages; a reasonable runway of future growth; attractive valuations with a good risk/reward profile; solid balance sheet; and management with integrity and superior capital management ability. Convenience chain store operator CP All has favourable valuations and robust growth prospects for its 7-11 business. The conviction position in future leader BOC Aviation is also maintained given the resilient nature of its business, high earnings visibility and diversified global operations. Mispriced names such as Pakuwon Jati are also favoured. Although the company is priced as a cyclical property developer, it is a leader in the retail mall space, with recurring rentals constituting nearly half of its revenue stream.

Manager's Overview

Asia ex Japan equities retreated over the period. Concerns about a global economic slowdown and uncertainty around the US-China trade frictions weighed on investor sentiment. Chinese stocks slid amid worries about a slowdown in economic growth in light of the domestic deleveraging campaign and trade issues with the US. Weak macroeconomic data and the depreciation of the Korean won against the US dollar held back equities in South Korea. Losses in communication services companies weighed on Singaporean and Malaysian equities. On a positive note, equities in India and Taiwan outperformed the broader market. At a sector level, health care and materials were key laggards.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year, largely due to security selection in the financials and health care sectors. Insurer AIA Group advanced amid expectations of steady growth, supported by the liberalisation of the Chinese insurance sector. India's third largest private sector lender Axis Bank gained on the back of an ongoing turnaround in asset quality and expectations of an earnings rebound under a new management team. Meanwhile, Zhejiang Supor Cookware posted robust growth for small kitchen appliances in the domestic market. Conversely, the holding in online retailer Vipshop Holdings detracted from returns as its earnings were negatively impacted by the weak macroeconomic environment and subdued growth in its 'active customer base'.

The fund is focused on its core investment philosophy, which is to invest in high-quality businesses run by strong management teams that benefit from the region's long-term structural growth drivers. Overall, the fund is overweight in the financials, information technology and energy sectors, due to positions in companies with solid fundamentals. HDFC Bank and Bank Central Asia have robust franchises, excellent management teams and solid asset quality. Among energy stocks, China Petroleum & Chemical Corporation is held for its structural growth opportunity as it moves towards new fuel standards. The move is likely to lead to higher and less volatile margins.

Manager's Overview

Asia Pacific ex Japan equities started the year on a negative note amid concerns about a global economic slowdown and US-China trade frictions. Thereafter, markets rebounded in the first four months of 2019 as the US Federal Reserve (Fed) announced a pause to interest rates increase and there was progress on China-US trade talks. Chinese equities initially declined, but advanced towards the end of the period driven by hopes that fresh stimulus measures are likely to aid the economy. Taiwanese and Australian equities gained, led by consumer discretionary and real estate companies, respectively. Buying activity by foreign institutional investors buoyed Indian equities. Meanwhile, weak macroeconomic data and the depreciation of the Korean won held back South Korean equities.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year, due to rewarding security selection in the consumer staples and financials sectors. High-end baijiu maker Kweichow Moutai (A) is likely to benefit from its strong pricing momentum, supported by resilient demand and supply constraints; and product mix upgrades. The position in Hong Kong-based insurance services provider AIA Group added value. It received regulatory approval to set up new sales and service centres in China, which is likely to boost growth in the value of its new businesses. India-based HDFC Bank rose on expectations that steady loan growth led by continued strength in its retail segment would buoy its earnings outlook. Selected real estate stocks also enhanced returns. Australian property developer Charter Hall Group advanced. Strong growth in its assets under management (AUM), higher performance fees and margin expansion are likely to bode well for its earnings growth prospects.

The manager focuses on bottom-up stock selection and favours companies that have an understandable business model, above-average earnings growth rate relative to market expectations and trade at attractive valuations. Kweichow Moutai (A) is held for its dominant position in China's high-end liquor market, product mix upgrades, superior brand name and solid bargaining power. HDFC Bank is retained given its retail driven high-growth business model, strong balance sheet, robust earnings profile, management's superior track record and healthy operating leverage.

The holding in Indonesia's Bank Central Asia gained in light of robust loan growth. China's premium liquor producer Kweichow Moutai (B) advanced amid resilient demand for its products. Conversely, concerns around short-term weakness in smartphone demand subdued sentiment towards phone casing manufacturer Catcher Technology. The position is retained for its competitive advantages, which should help it to gain market share as the industry consolidates in favour of stronger players.

The fund is focused on companies in three categories – restructuring candidates where the manager finds catalysts for an improvement in returns; those that have global technology, scale or cost leadership; and strong franchises that benefit from long-term structural drivers. For instance, HDFC Bank and Bank Central Asia have robust franchises, excellent management teams and solid asset quality. Taiwan Semiconductor Manufacturing is held for its growth potential from emerging technologies such as artificial intelligence, the internet of things, automation and gaming. ## FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2019 : USD 881 MILLION

Asian smaller companies slid over the year amid concerns around global growth and ongoing trade tension between the US and China. In terms of market capitalisation, small-cap stocks lagged their larger counterparts, particularly in South Korea, India and Indonesia.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year. An overweight stance in selected Indonesian stocks proved rewarding. In particular, Bank Rakyat Indonesia Persero and Fast Food Indonesia buoyed performance. The former rose on expectations that it is likely to benefit from an improvement in net interest margins in a benign interest rate environment, while the latter advanced given its strong earnings growth. Elsewhere, the holding in aircraft operating leasing company BOC Aviation rose. The position in storage battery manufacturer Sebang Global Battery proved rewarding amid positive growth prospects. Conversely, Indiabulls Housing Finance retreated due to weaker than expected earnings growth given a challenging liquidity environment in the Indian non-banking finance sector.

The fund is managed with an absolute returns perspective. The manager invests in companies with strong competitive advantages run by a strong management team, and tries to buy these stocks at a reasonable price. Power Grid Corporation of India is a key position. It is favoured for its highly visible mid-teens regulated returns on equity, low operational risk due to its criticality in the value chain and reasonable dividend yield. Fufeng Group has a dominant market position in China and benefits from limited competition due to its cost advantage and environmental regulations. The company's capacity expansion plan and a positive outlook on margins further supports its earnings growth prospects.

Manager's Overview

Asia ex Japan equities retreated over the 12-month review period. Concerns about a global economic slowdown and uncertainty around the US-China trade frictions weighed on investor sentiment. Chinese stocks slid amid concerns about a slowdown in economic growth in light of the domestic deleveraging campaign and trade issues with the US. Weak macroeconomic data and the depreciation of the Korean won against the US dollar held back equities in South Korea. Losses in communication services companies weighed on Singaporean and Malaysian equities. On a positive note, equities in India and Taiwan outperformed the broader market.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year. Security selection in the health care and communication services sectors added value. Selected financial holdings also proved rewarding. The position in E.Sun Financial Holding advanced on the back of strong fee income growth, robust cost controls and solid loan growth. Indonesia's Bank Central Asia gained in light of robust loan growth. China's premium liquor producer Kweichow Moutai (A) advanced amid resilient demand for its products. Conversely, concerns around short-term weakness in smartphone demand subdued sentiment towards phone casing manufacturer Catcher Technology. The position is retained for its competitive advantages, which should help it to gain market share as the industry consolidates in favour of stronger players.

The fund is focused on companies in three categories – restructuring candidates where the manager finds catalysts for an improvement in returns; those that have global technology, scale or cost leadership; and strong franchises that benefit from long-term structural drivers. For instance, HDFC Bank and Bank Central Asia have robust franchises, excellent management teams and solid asset quality. Taiwan Semiconductor Manufacturing is held for its growth potential from emerging technologies such as artificial intelligence, the internet of things, automation and gaming. The company is a long-term winner with strong technology, scale and pricing power.

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2019 : AUD 460 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Australian equities advanced over the year. Markets started the period on a positive note amid optimism about healthy domestic economic growth. However, concerns about a potential slowdown in global growth, fast-paced interest rate normalisation in the US and US-China trade frictions unnerved investors towards the latter part of 2018. Thereafter, markets rallied sharply in early 2019 as investor sentiment strengthened amid an easing monetary policy stance globally and on prospects of a potential resolution of US-China trade issues.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year. Information technology holdings Afterpay Touch Group and WiseTech Global added significant value. The former's healthy domestic business and encouraging progress in its overseas expansion initiatives attracted investor interest. The latter's solid product platform and acquisitions aided strong earnings growth and multiple guidance upgrades. The company also raised institutional capital to pursue its growth and acquisition strategy. The preferred position in Goodman Group REIT (real estate investment trust) added value as its development and funds management businesses supported strong earnings growth and guidance. Conversely, engineering firm RCR Tomlinson sought voluntary suspension of its shares as write-downs related to some solar contracts led to management change and prompted a capital raise. Elsewhere, higher raw material prices and US housing market uncertainty impacted James Hardie Industries' earnings guidance over the period.

The manager favours companies that have a superior return profile, strong management teams and healthy balance sheet. Among key holdings, medical device maker ResMed's strong research effort and recent acquisitions are likely to support long-term product innovation and market share gains in connected health care solutions. It also offers a solid returns profile and cash flow generation. Specialty biotherapeutics company CSL has a leading global franchise in the concentrated plasma market and is gaining market share through structural competitive advantage and pricing power.

Manager's Overview

Chinese equities declined at the start of the 12-month period amid concerns about a slowdown in economic activity. Subsequently, prospects of a pause in interest rate hikes in the US, optimism over fresh stimulus measures in China and progress on China-US trade talks boosted Chinese equities in early 2019. During the period, the Chinese government announced plans to cut taxes and fees, fast-track infrastructure projects and increase spending to shore up the slowing domestic economy. Meanwhile, gains in defensively positioned telecommunication service providers and consumer staples companies buoyed Hong Kong equities. Overall, all sectors except consumer staples and real estate ended in negative territory.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year, as selected financials and consumer staples holdings contributed to performance. Hong Kong-based insurance services provider AIA Group ended higher. It received regulatory approval to set up new sales and service centres in China, which is likely to boost growth in the value of its new businesses. High end baijiu maker Kweichow Moutai (A) is likely to benefit from its strong pricing momentum, supported by resilient demand and supply constraints; and product mix upgrades. Shares in China Mengniu Dairy rose as margin expansion stemming from product mix upgrades and higher revenue contribution from its subsidiary China Modern Dairy are likely to boost its earnings. Conversely, durable juvenile products company Goodbaby International Holdings declined on concerns over a lacklustre earnings outlook.

The manager maintains an overweight stance in "New China" sectors as they are less sensitive to macroeconomic cyclicality and short-term policy shifts. These sectors are also expected to witness solid growth in coming years due to technology advancements and changes in consumer behaviour. Macau-based casino operators Sands China and Galaxy Entertainment Group are retained for the resilience of their mass gaming segments and robust product offerings. AIA Group enjoys a unique competitive position in Asia, with high barriers to entry.

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2019 : USD 5,023 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Chinese equities declined over the year. Markets corrected sharply in 2018, amid concerns about a slowdown in economic activity, which drove valuations notably below their long-term average. Subsequently, prospects of a pause in interest rate hikes in the US, policy stimulus measures in China and progress in trade talks with the US attracted investor interest towards Chinese stocks in early 2019. Meanwhile, policymakers committed to a prudent monetary policy and an active fiscal policy approach to support domestic economic activity.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year. Hardware maker Lenovo Group's strong earnings reflected an ongoing turnaround in its datacentre and mobile businesses, and healthy growth in its personal computing segment. Preferred property developers China Resources Land and China Overseas Land & Investment added value in light of their steady profits and sales growth, as well as expectations of policy stimulus in the sector. The high-conviction holding in Gree Electric Appliances of Zhuhai benefited from optimism that stimulus support would boost home appliance sales, as well as from the announcement of a stake sale by the company's controlling shareholders. Conversely, an underweight allocation to Alibaba Group Holding ADR and Tencent Holdings hurt relative performance as their near-term earnings outlook supported share prices. Elsewhere, short-term weakness in earnings due to higher costs hurt shares in Guangshen Railway (H).

The manager focuses on opportunities arising from structural changes underway in China. A key holding in China Life Insurance (H) is a beneficiary of long-term structural growth in the Chinese insurance industry, and its new management team remains focused on initiatives to bolster growth. Railway equipment manufacturer Zhuzhou CRRC Times Electric's railway-related order book is expected to be supported by the government's push towards railway transportation. The fund also retained exposure to high-quality state-owned property firms China Overseas Land & Investment and China Resources Land.

Manager's Overview

Chinese equities declined at the beginning of the 12-month period amid concerns about a slowdown in economic activity. Subsequently, prospects of a pause in interest rate hikes in the US, optimism over fresh stimulus measures in China and progress on China-US trade talks boosted Chinese equities in early 2019. During the period, the Chinese government announced plans to cut taxes and fees, fast-track infrastructure projects and increase spending to shore up the slowing domestic economy. Meanwhile, gains in real estate and utility stocks buoyed Hong Kong equities. Overall, at the sector level, communication services and consumer discretionary stocks lagged the broader market.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year, as selected financials and utility stocks came under pressure. In financials, Industrial & Commercial Bank of China and state-owned coal miner China Shenhua Energy retreated on lacklustre earnings expectations in the near term. Conversely, Hong Kong-based insurance services provider AIA Group ended higher. It received regulatory approval to set up new sales and service centres in China, which is likely to boost growth in the value of its new businesses. Shares in high end baiju maker Kweichow Moutai (A) rose as it is likely to benefit from its strong pricing momentum, supported by resilient demand and supply constraints; and product mix upgrades.

The manager favours the "new China" theme. These sectors are expected to witness solid growth in the coming years due to technology advancements, changes in consumer behaviour and flexible business strategies. Industrial & Commercial Bank of China is a well-managed bank with superior net interest margins compared to its peers and strong capital position. AIA Group enjoys a unique competitive position in Asia, with high barriers to entry. With its strong premier agency channel and long-term protection products, the company is believed to benefit from low penetration and favourable demographic changes in the Asia Pacific ex Japan region.

Manager's Overview

Emerging Asian equities fell over the year. Markets corrected sharply in 2018 amid a host of concerns, including rising interest rates in the US, a slowdown in global growth and growing trade friction between the US and China. The sell-off led to attractive valuations. Subsequently, stocks regained some ground in 2019 as an easing monetary policy stance globally and prospects of a potential resolution of US-China trade issues lifted investor sentiment. Among regional markets, Chinese equities declined over the period due to growth concerns. Weak sentiment also weighed on other regional markets such as Malaysia and Thailand. Conversely, Indian and Indonesian markets advanced, driven by buying activity from foreign institutional investors.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year. The focus on high quality financials proved rewarding. India's HDFC Bank was a key contributor to performance in light of its consistent earnings growth. A series of interest rate increases boosted shares in Bank Central Asia and Bank Rakyat Indonesia Persero. Certain Chinese holdings also added value. In particular, premium liquor producer Kweichow Moutai (A) and cookware maker Zhejiang Supor Cookware delivered healthy results supported by resilient demand for their products. Hong Kong-based insurer AIA Group edged higher after it received approvals to expand into new cities in China, which is likely to boost its footprint. Conversely, muted corporate results weighed on motorcycle and commercial vehicle manufacturer Eicher Motors and real estate internet portal Fang Holdings ADR.

The manager seeks businesses with strong franchises that trade below their intrinsic value, and focuses on unrecognised structural growth, restructuring opportunities and cyclical turnaround stories. Such high-quality companies are able to withstand macroeconomic uncertainty better than their peers. The fund is overweight in the financials and consumer sectors. HDFC Bank and Bank Central Asia are preferred for their strong franchises, quality management teams and solid asset quality. Among consumers, Kweichow Moutai (A) has a well-established aspirational consumer brand with a dominant position in China's high-end liquor market.

Manager's Overview

Equities in the emerging Europe, Middle East and Africa (EMEA) region fell over a period marked by heightened volatility. Concerns over the US-China trade war and slowing economic growth in China unnerved investors to the detriment of risk assets. A strengthening US dollar and the US Federal Reserve's decision to raise interest rates also weighed on equities. High interest rates in the developed world increased concerns over capital outflows from developing countries. Turkish markets fell due to a worsening economic environment. Elsewhere, Russian equities rose after the Robert Mueller report concluded that there was no Russian interference in the 2016 US Presidential elections.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the period, due to stock selection in the materials and communication services sectors and an underweight stance in energy stocks. However, financials holdings supported performance. Within financials, the position in Abu Dhabi Commercial Bank advanced as it announced a merger with Union National Bank and Al-Hilal, solidifying the bank's strong market position. The exposure to Emirates NBD also buoyed performance. However, the holding in insurer Discovery declined. The company revealed that rising life insurance claims and capital investment in its bank and other new businesses negatively impacted its earnings.

Rising populations and income levels drive consumption, which results in many interesting investment opportunities in consumer-related sectors. As a result, the fund has an overweight stance in the consumer discretionary sector. Media company Naspers is among the largest positions in the fund. The South African internet company has stakes in high-growth internet and e-commerce businesses in China and Russia. The fund also holds Absa Group, given its strong position in the corporate banking sector in South Africa. Elsewhere, the fund owns insurer Discovery, which has a unique, innovative business model that encourages customers to remain healthy.

Manager's Overview

Emerging market equities fell over the period. A strengthening US dollar and interest rate increases by the US Federal Reserve (Fed) hurt sentiment. However, as 2018 ended and the US Fed adopted a cautious stance, a more supportive backdrop emerged. Concerns over the US-China trade war and slowing economic growth in China, the world's largest developing country, unnerved investors. The escalation of the trade war between the US and China saw both sides impose tariffs on exports. This resulted in a sell-off across riskier assets. On a positive note, progress in trade talks and encouraging manufacturing data in China lifted sentiment. In Latin America, Brazilian stocks declined as the government re-introduced price controls and subsidies. Encouragingly, political uncertainty ended with the appointment of Jair Bolsonaro as President. Elsewhere, Russian equities rose after the Robert Muller report concluded that there was no Russian interference in the 2016 US Presidential elections.

The fund outperformed the comparative index as a result of strong stock selection, particularly within the financials and consumer discretionary sectors. Within consumer discretionary, the position in China-based sports apparel company Li Ning added value as it reported robust numbers throughout the year despite macroeconomic uncertainty in the country. In the financials sector, the allocation to Bank Central Asia was a top contributor to returns. The Indonesian bank continues to deliver high return on assets, while maintaining a prudent approach to risk management. However, the holding in Baidu detracted from performance.

The vast consumer base in the developing world underpins a multi-year growth opportunity due to rising demand for banking and other financial services. As a result, the fund is overweight in the financials sector. Insurer AIA Group is a play on the structural growth story in the Asian life insurance market. The manager also holds Indonesia-based Bank Central Asia for its strong cash management business and focus on retail banking.

Elsewhere, Russian equities rose after the Robert Muller report concluded that there was no Russian interference in the 2016 US Presidential elections.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the period due to stock selection in the information technology sector, while the underweight stance in energy stocks added relative value. However, financials and consumer staples names supported performance. Within financials, Hong Kong-based AIA Group advanced as it reported solid results, and amid expectations of continued growth, supported by its strong market position in China. Shares in India's HDFC Bank rose as robust loan and deposit growth throughout the year buoyed profits.

The vast consumer base in the developing world underpins a multi-year growth opportunity due to rising demand for banking and a wider range of financial services. As a result, the fund is overweight in the financials sector. The manager holds India's largest private lender HDFC Bank, which has a strong track record, a credible management team and robust growth plans. It is likely to gain from a robust economic environment and government reforms. Insurer AIA Group is a play on the structural growth story in the Asian life insurance market.

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2019 : EUR 459 MILLION

Manager's Overview

European equities ended a volatile 12-month period in positive territory. Tighter financial conditions, ongoing trade tensions, an uncertain political landscape in Spain and a China-led global slowdown negatively impacted investor sentiment. Equities were particularly weak in the fourth quarter of 2018. However, markets rebounded in the first four months of 2019 supported by the emergence of a more accommodative monetary policy stance from major central banks, stronger data releases from China and expectations of a resolution on US-China trade negotiations.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year largely due to strong stock selection. Industrials was the largest contributor to returns, with both stock picking and an overweight allocation adding notable value. Valmet, a developer and supplier of technologies to the paper, pulp and energy industries, added significant value, driven by a series of encouraging quarterly results in 2018. Elsewhere in the sector, transportation infrastructure company Ferrovial and aircraft manufacturer Airbus Group were among the key contributors to returns. Selected holdings in information technology (Altran Technologies) and communication services (Cellnex Telecom) also proved rewarding. The strong outperformance was partially offset by an underweight positioning in materials and selected financials holdings.

The fund is an equally weighted portfolio of the top 30 eurozone analyst ideas, through a portfolio construction process that utilises an optimiser to size positions to maximise expected returns while limiting factor exposures. Capital allocation to individual stocks is limited to 3.5% at purchase for the top 30 names, to prudently manage for stock specific events and avoid over-reliance on risk model assumptions. In terms of sector positioning, industrials is currently the largest overweight. Within the sector, Ferrovial and Dutch construction services company Royal BAM Group are among the key holdings. Consumer staples is the largest sector underweight.

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2019 : EUR 179 MILLION

Manager's Overview

European equities ended a volatile 12-month period in positive territory in euro and sterling terms, but declined in US dollar terms. Tighter financial conditions, ongoing trade tensions and a China-led global slowdown negatively impacted investor sentiment. Equities were particularly weak in the fourth quarter of 2018. Markets rebounded in the first four months of 2019 as investor sentiment was supported by the emergence of a more accommodative monetary policy stance from major central banks, stronger data releases from China and expectations of a resolution on US-China trade negotiations.

As a "passive" or "index tracker" fund, the fund is managed to provide returns that are as close as possible to that of the index, which is a concentrated index of the 50 largest companies in the eurozone. However, the fund incurs costs and expenses that the index does not incur - although it can benefit from securities lending when the index cannot. This means fund returns should be similar to the index, rather than identical. Over the period, the primary A-EUR class of the fund returned +2.5% in net euro terms, outperforming the index, which returned +2.1%. Taxation was a positive source of tracking difference, where the fund's withholding tax treatment is more favourable versus the net total return index.

Geode Capital Management LLC, a leading specialist in the management of index tracking strategies, was appointed as sub-investment manager to the fund on 3 January 2017. The managers endeavour to minimise deviation from the index by using an index tracking technique, which comprises full replication of the companies represented in the index. Please note, the fund's cash position, and investment of cash into a liquidity fund for diversification, does not mean that the fund is under exposed to the index, as such positions are typically equitised with equity index futures contracts. This helps to efficiently manage cashflows in the fund at reduced costs. When taking into account exposure achieved by these futures contracts, the fund's holdings weights more closely match the index.

Manager's Overview

European equities ended a volatile 12-month period in positive territory in euro and sterling terms, but declined in US dollar terms. Tighter financial conditions, ongoing trade tensions and a China-led global slowdown negatively impacted investor sentiment. Equities were particularly weak in the fourth quarter of 2018. Markets rebounded in the first four months of 2019 as investor sentiment was supported by the emergence of a more accommodative monetary policy stance from major central banks, stronger data releases from China and expectations of a resolution on US-China trade negotiations.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year, driven by strong security selection and positive sector allocation. In particular, selected holdings in the information technology (IT) and industrials sectors and the positioning in financials and communication services proved favourable. Among the key contributors, Worldpay (A) benefited from sustained earnings growth as well as the revenue and cost synergies that it has achieved from the merger with US rival Vantiv. Its shares also rose following the company's acquisition by FIS, in a $43 billion deal. In industrials, Experian, one of the top 10 holdings, delivered strong results that led to analyst upgrades to earnings expectations. Edenred, another key position, also performed well. Some of these gains were offset by weaker positioning in consumer staples and the lack of exposure to the utilities sector.

The manager continues to look for quality growth companies that trade below their intrinsic value. The fund has an overweight exposure to the IT, industrials, health care and communication services sectors. Energy, materials and financials remain underweight as the manager is not finding attractive companies where the investment thesis is not dependent on macroeconomic factors or commodity price forecasts. Within IT, Ingenico Group and SAP are the core holdings. The fund holds online market places, including Rightmove, Just Eat and Auto Trader Group, as these businesses are dominant players that offer the best products and get the most internet traffic.

Manager's Overview

European equities ended a volatile 12-month period in positive territory. The period was influenced by tighter financial conditions, ongoing trade tensions and a China-led global slowdown, which hurt investor sentiment. However, markets rebounded in the first four months of 2019 as investor sentiment was supported by the emergence of a more accommodative monetary policy stance from major central banks, stronger data releases from China and expectations of a resolution on US-China trade negotiations.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year, supported by both positive stock selection and sector allocation. In particular, shares in medical technology company Getinge benefited from strong earnings during the fourth quarter of 2018 and first quarter of 2019, driven by an improvement in order intake, sales and profit margins. The management's restructuring efforts, including investment in commercial structures, research and development projects, and quality control measures have started to show results. In industrials, Edenred benefited from sustained organic top-line growth across regions given the robust performance of its core employee benefits business. The holding in chemicals company Linde also added value, as it is well placed to benefit from synergies arising from its merger with Praxair. Conversely, the holding in telecommunication services provider Iliad was the largest detractor from returns. However, the manager remains confident that Iliad will achieve a progressive return to growth in 2019, due to fixed line product launches and easing competition within the mobile segment of its business.

The fund is well diversified, with a focus on individual stock selection and limited sector and style biases. The manager focuses on attractively valued companies that are expected to experience an inflection in returns, but which involve no additional financial risk. The fund's bias towards health care was maintained. Within the sector, a new position was added in biotechnology supplier Lonza Group, which is establishing itself as a leader in the manufacture of drugs for third parties. Conversely, the position in pharmaceutical company Shire was sold following its share price increase post its takeover by Japanese company Takeda.

Manager's Overview

European equities ended in positive territory after a volatile year. Tighter financial conditions, ongoing trade tensions, an uncertain political landscape in Spain and a China-led global slowdown negatively impacted investor sentiment. Equities were particularly weak in the fourth quarter of 2018. However, markets rebounded in the first four months of 2019 supported by the emergence of a more accommodative monetary policy stance from major central banks, stronger data releases from China and expectations of a resolution on US-China trade negotiations.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year as both sector allocation and stock selection supported returns. Consumer discretionary was the largest contributor to performance. Luxury goods conglomerate Kering reported a strong set of quarterly results, primarily driven by the Gucci brand. The lack of exposure to automobiles supported relative returns as automobile companies were negatively impacted by fears that US tariffs could be applied to car imports. Elsewhere, selected holdings in financials (DNB), industrials (Wolters Kluwer) and information technology (SAP) also added notable value. The strong outperformance was partially offset by selected holdings in consumer staples and materials.

In constructing the portfolio, the manager looks for a balance between the quality of a company's business model and the valuation it is given by the market. Companies where the market is under-estimating long-term growth prospects are preferred. The strategy has a considerable bias towards higher quality, higher return companies and this has not changed significantly over the last five years. However, the number of companies held in the portfolio that are cheap compared to history has increased. At a sector level, the biggest overweights are in health care, information technology and industrials stocks, while materials and financials are the largest underweights. The manager prefers relatively defensive business models in cyclical sectors, such as SAP and professional services company Wolters Kluwer.

Manager's Overview

European equities ended in positive territory after a volatile year. Tighter financial conditions, ongoing trade tensions, an uncertain political landscape in Spain and a China-led global slowdown negatively impacted investor sentiment. Equities were particularly weak in the fourth quarter of 2018. However, markets rebounded in the first four months of 2019 supported by the emergence of a more accommodative monetary policy stance from major central banks, stronger data releases from China and expectations of a resolution on US-China trade negotiations.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year as both sector allocation and stock selection supported returns. Consumer discretionary was the largest contributor to performance. Luxury goods conglomerate Kering released a strong set of quarterly results, primarily driven by the Gucci brand. ## FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2019 : EUR 981 MILLION

Manager's Overview

It was a volatile 12-month period for European smaller companies equities. Tighter financial conditions, ongoing trade tensions, and a China-led global slowdown hurt investor sentiment. Equities were particularly weak in the fourth quarter of 2018. Markets rebounded in the first four months of 2019 supported by the emergence of a more accommodative monetary policy stance from major central banks, stronger data releases from China and expectations of a resolution on US-China trade negotiations.

The fund underperformed the comparative index during the year. Weak performance of consumer discretionary and financials holdings and unfavourable positioning in the utilities and industrials sectors detracted from returns. In consumer discretionary, shares in Westwing Group fell after it reported weaker than expected results for 2018 and issued a disappointing outlook for 2019. Shares in Maisons du Monde and Ted Baker were hit by the overall weakness in the retail sector. These losses were partially offset by the position in Takeaway.com which performed well following its acquisition of food delivery operations in Germany from rival business Delivery Hero. Meanwhile, holdings in the communication services sector including 4imprint Group and Team17 Group contributed to returns.

The fund is focused on identifying well-managed, cash generative companies that have clear market leadership, a sustainable competitive advantage and profits driven by strong sales growth. The fund retains the bias towards quality growth stocks with large overweight positions in the consumer discretionary sector. Key holdings in the sector include Takeaway.com, Basic-Fit and Just Eat. The fund is also overweight in the communication services and materials sectors, and is underweight in industrials and real estate. Within communication services, 4imprint Group and Team17 Group are held as both continue to deliver strong growth.

Manager's Overview

Global equities rose over the 12-month period, supported by healthy corporate earnings. However, rising US interest rates, trade tensions, political uncertainty in Europe and concerns about emerging markets led to elevated market volatility. In particular, equities came under pressure in the fourth quarter of 2018 as concerns over global growth intensified. Nonetheless, investor sentiment improved in 2019 amid expectations of a US-China trade deal and the accommodative monetary policy stance in major economies. Notably, the US Federal Reserve signalled a possible end to interest rate hikes at its January meeting amid rising global economic risks.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year. The position in Microsoft performed well on strong growth prospects. Shares in Qualcomm rose on easing worries over litigation post its settlement with Apple, which underscored the value of its intellectual property and leadership position in the fifth-generation (5G) space. Positions in NextEra Energy and Essent Group also contributed to returns. Meanwhile, shares in Mylan fell as increased competition in a generic drugs market impacted its earnings. Japanese health care major Sysmex also declined due to weak results. However, the holding was retained as a large addressable market across geographies, strong competitive positioning and pricing power should provide a solid base for future growth.

Caution is warranted towards risk assets in the current late-cycle environment. Underlying fundamentals have not improved along with the rebound in markets, as risks in the global economy persist. Decelerating below-trend global growth is likely to continue in the near term. In such an environment, a bottom-up investment approach, focused on stock level fundamentals, is best suited to deliver returns. The managers continue to focus on the highest conviction and most relevant ideas generated by Fidelity's global analyst base.

Manager's Overview

Developed equities rose over the 12-month period, supported by healthy corporate earnings. Notably, the US Federal Reserve signalled a possible end to interest rate hikes at its January meeting amid rising global economic risks.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year as certain key holdings were negatively impacted by challenging business conditions. In particular, shares in Panasonic came under pressure as it lowered its earnings outlook, citing weak demand for automobile components and factory equipment in China. The holding in Mylan also held back gains as it reported weak earnings, impacted by increased competition in the generic drugs market. On a positive note, the position in Microsoft performed well due to strong growth prospects. Qualcomm advanced on easing worries over litigation post its settlement with Apple, which underscored the value of its intellectual property and leadership position in the fifth-generation (5G) space. Holdings in Abbott Laboratories and SoftBank Group also proved rewarding.

Global equities rose over the 12-month period, supported by healthy corporate earnings. In particular, equities came under pressure in the fourth quarter of 2018 as concerns over global growth intensified. Notably, the US Federal Reserve signalled a possible end to interest rate hikes at its January meeting amid rising global economic risks.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year, largely due to stock specific disappointments. Japanese health care major Sysmex declined due to weak results. However, the holding was retained as a large addressable market across geographies, strong competitive positioning and pricing power should provide a solid base for future growth. The position in luxury fashion firm Tapestry also held back performance, against a backdrop of weakening global growth momentum. On a positive note, the exposure to Microsoft added value on strong growth prospects. The holding in Merck & Co. also benefited from strong sales. Other contributors included Abbott Laboratories and Salesforce.com.

Caution is warranted towards risk assets in the current late-cycle environment. Underlying fundamentals have not improved along with the rebound in markets, as risks in the global economy persist. Decelerating below-trend global growth is likely to continue in the near term. In such an environment, a bottom-up investment approach, focused on stock level fundamentals, is best suited to deliver returns. The fund invests in companies that are highly rated by Fidelity's research analysts and that meet the fund's Environmental, Social and Governance (ESG) criteria.

Manager's Overview

European equities, as measured by the MSCI Europe Value Index, ended flat in a volatile 12-month period. Tighter financial conditions, ongoing trade tensions, an uncertain political landscape in Spain and a China-led global slowdown negatively impacted investor sentiment. Equities were particularly weak in the fourth quarter of 2018. However, markets rebounded in the first four months of 2019 supported by the emergence of a more accommodative monetary policy stance from major central banks, stronger data releases from China and expectations of a resolution on US-China trade negotiations.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year, largely due to stock-specific disappointments. France-based Societe Generale was negatively impacted by weak results. Nevertheless, the bank is attractively valued, and its cost control measures should help it to improve its return on assets. Shares in steel production company ArcelorMittal also held back gains. On a positive note, food business company Nestle performed well as it continues to make progress in positioning its portfolio towards attractive high-growth categories such as coffee, water and nutrition. Another key position in Roche Holding gained on the back of the positive performance of new drugs such as Ocrevus for multiple sclerosis, as well as its expansion efforts in China. Holdings in Sanofi and BP also contributed to returns.

Lead indicators for the global economy have slowed, but are still in positive territory and a recession seems unlikely in 2019. However, global uncertainties related to Brexit, ongoing trade concerns between the US and its major trading partners, and a slowdown in China could negatively impact the eurozone's export-led economy. In such an environment, a bottom-up investment approach, focused on stock level fundamentals, is best suited to deliver returns. The managers continue to focus on the highest conviction and most relevant ideas generated by Fidelity's global analyst base.

Manager's Overview

French equities, along with broader European stocks, ended a volatile 12-month period in positive territory. Consumer staples and health care were among the top performing sectors, while financials and real estate lagged the broader market. Tighter financial conditions, ongoing trade tensions, an uncertain political landscape in Spain and a China-led global slowdown negatively impacted investor sentiment in 2018. However, markets rebounded in the first four months of 2019 supported by the emergence of a more accommodative monetary policy stance from major central banks, stronger data releases from China and expectations of a resolution on US-China trade negotiations.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year as both stock selection and sector allocation disappointed. The exposure to selected energy, industrials and consumer stocks detracted from performance. Oil services provider Vallourec was the largest detractor from returns, as disappointing cashflows in the third quarter led to renewed fears that it may need to raise capital, given that the company is highly debt laden. Elsewhere, alcohol manufacturer Marie Brizard Wine & Spirits was hurt by weak second quarter results. On a positive note, the underweight positioning in financials and selected health care holdings (Korian and Virbac) supported relative returns.

The fund is managed with a contrarian value style and is currently biased towards mid and small-caps stocks. Communication services is now the largest overweight sector in the portfolio (largely due to MSCI sector reclassification in September 2018), with significant exposure to media and telecommunications stocks such as IPSOS, Technicolor, Solocal Group, Iliad and Altice. The fund remains heavily weighted in the technology space, where growth expectations are high. In the energy sector, the fund maintains a strong overweight stance in the oil services industry, through exposure to Vallourec, Technipfmc and CGG, as the manager believes that investments in this space should ultimately pick up.

Manager's Overview

German equities ended a volatile 12-month period in negative territory. Tighter financial conditions, ongoing trade tensions and a China-led global slowdown hurt investor sentiment. However, markets rebounded in 2019 following the emergence of a more accommodative monetary policy stance from major central banks, stronger data releases from China and expectations of a resolution on US-China trade negotiations.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year, largely due to strong security selection and sector positioning. Stock picking was particularly rewarding in materials and financials. An overweight stance in industrials also added value. Shares in aerospace and defence company Airbus rose significantly as the firm announced very strong results and issued an encouraging earnings outlook for 2019. Shares in insurer Hannover Rueck also advanced amid encouraging results. The holding in chemicals company Linde added value, as the company was well placed to benefit from the synergies arising from its merger with Praxair. Conversely, the position in automobiles component manufacturer Continental fell, as management lowered its 2018 guidance due to a decline in sales expectations and cost increases. However, its shares are attractively valued, and Continental remains a high-quality business with best-in-class profit margins and returns on invested capital.

The manager focuses on investing in a concentrated, differentiated portfolio of attractively priced, high-conviction, quality companies that are expected to grow well above the market average. Currently, the fund is overweight in the health care and consumer discretionary sectors. Key health care positions include molecular diagnostics company Qiagen and kidney dialysis company Fresenius. Both have an attractive growth profile. In consumer discretionary, Porsche Automobil Holding Perpetual (Pref'd) and Takeaway.com are preferred positions. Online food ordering company Takeaway.com is well placed to benefit from synergies resulting from its acquisition of German peer Delivery Hero.

Manager's Overview

Global equities gained in US dollar terms over the review period. Equities started on a weak note as US-China trade frictions, rising US interest rates and political uncertainties in Europe intensified global growth concerns. Nonetheless, investor sentiment improved in 2019 amid expectations of a US-China trade deal and the accommodative monetary policy stance in major economies. Notably, the US Federal Reserve signalled a possible end to interest rate hikes at its January meeting amid rising global economic risks. The European Central Bank announced that it will launch a new targeted subsidised lending programme in September 2019, while pushing back guidance for future interest rate moves at its March meeting. The Bank of Japan clarified its intention to keep interest rates very low for a prolonged period. Chinese authorities also introduced policy measures to support growth. Meanwhile, the UK delayed Brexit after politicians rejected deals to withdraw from the European Union.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the period since launch. The holding in video streaming major Netflix was the key contributor to performance. Its shares gained following an announcement that the company would implement significant subscription rate hikes for its US subscribers. The position in SoftBank Group added to returns as it reported solid results and a ¥600 billion share buyback programme, the largest in its history. The holding in Twitter also gained on upbeat results, driven by strong revenues, user growth and robust profit. Conversely, the allocation to retargeting company Criteo fell on news that Google is considering changes to its advertisement tools, which would make it more difficult to target advertisements through its Chrome browser. Meanwhile, the holding in Activision Blizzard fell as it lowered its 2019 guidance for net bookings and earnings per share.

The communication services sector is a unique combination of companies that enable communication and entertainment as well as those companies that monetise that communication. The only constant in this sector is innovation; which continually leads to new competitors and opportunities. This constant and fast rate of change gives us a unique opportunity to exploit new opportunities within the sector. The fund has an overweight stance in the entertainment and software industries, while the main underweight exposure is in the diversified telecommunication services sub-sector.

Manager's Overview

Global equities gained over the 12-month period. Healthy corporate earnings provided support, while rising US interest rates, trade tensions, political uncertainty in Europe, and concerns about emerging markets elevated market volatility. Equities came under pressure in the fourth quarter of 2018 as concerns over global growth intensified. Nonetheless, investor sentiment improved in 2019 amid expectations of a US-China trade deal and the accommodative monetary policy stance in major economies. At a regional level, equities in the US and Pacific ex Japan advanced, while Japanese and European stocks fell. Emerging market equities also declined, underperforming developed markets.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year. The holding in PVH was a top detractor from returns. The position is retained for its diversified portfolio of global brands and balance sheet optionality. The position in Amorepacific came under pressure as its Innisfree brand continues to struggle. Nonetheless, its diversified portfolio of brands and superior innovation and research & development (R&D) capabilities, along with enhanced focus on luxury cosmetics bode well. Not holding Procter & Gamble also detracted from relative returns. On a positive note, the holding in LVMH Moët Hennessy Louis Vuitton was supported by robust results. The company has strong brand momentum across markets and product lines. Meanwhile, the holding in Puma rallied after Kering completed the distribution of its stake in Puma to shareholders. The lack of exposure to British American Tobacco also aided relative returns.

The manager follows a bottom-up stock picking approach, while monitoring the top-down attractiveness of industries from a risk-reward perspective. The manager focus is on companies with superior execution and strong brands. The manager likes emerging market consumer companies that have a decentralised management structure, and are beneficiaries of growth in these markets. The fund has an overweight stance in the textiles, apparel and luxury goods sub-sectors, with a preference towards global brands with pricing power. The portfolio is underweight in the automobiles and tobacco sub-sectors.

Manager's Overview

Global equities gained over the 12-month period. Healthy corporate earnings provided support, while rising US interest rates, trade tensions and political uncertainty in Europe elevated market volatility. Equities came under pressure in the fourth quarter of 2018 as concerns over global growth intensified. Nonetheless, investor sentiment improved in 2019 amid expectations of a US-China trade deal and the accommodative monetary policy stance in major economies. At a regional level, equities in the US and Pacific ex Japan advanced, while Japanese and European stocks fell. Emerging market equities also declined, underperforming developed markets.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year. The position in Cigna declined on the early termination of its merger with Anthem and its impact on the company's fiscal year 2019 guidance. The allocation to Panasonic also detracted from performance as it lowered its earnings outlook, citing weak demand for automobile components and factory equipment in China. The holding in energy company Baker Hughes a GE Company was weighed down by volatile crude oil prices during the period despite sound fundamentals. On a positive note, the holding in Abbott Laboratories rose on consistently strong results. The company is likely to maintain robust organic growth aided by strong end markets and new product launches. Meanwhile, the position in Shanghai International Airport was supported by robust revenue growth, on the back of upbeat duty-free revenue and an improvement in its margins.

The fund invests in companies where earnings are driven by predictable and long-term structural drivers related to demographics. Accordingly, the portfolio is positioned to harness the benefits of factors such as a growing population, the growth of the middle classes in emerging markets and ageing populations. The managers tend to take a long-term view, targeting the beneficiaries of demographic trends early – seeking out companies with compounding returns, innovative products and services that will address evolving demographic needs.

Manager's Overview

Global equities gained over the 12-month period. Healthy corporate earnings provided support, while rising US interest rates, trade tensions, political uncertainty in Europe, and concerns about emerging markets elevated market volatility. Equities came under pressure in the fourth quarter of 2018 as concerns over global growth intensified. Nonetheless, investor sentiment improved in 2019 amid expectations of a US-China trade deal and the accommodative monetary policy stance in major economies. Financials recorded positive returns but underperformed the broader market. At an industry level, consumer finance and insurance companies were among the key gainers.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year. Key holdings such as Germany-based Commerzbank declined on negative investor sentiment surrounding financials, especially in 2018. The holding in CaixaBank also fell as investors expect interest rates to normalise. Nonetheless, it has a strong management team and successful bancassurance model, which is expected to drive growth in fee income. Meanwhile, the position in KB Financial Group detracted from returns as it posted weak results and missed expectations on non-interest income. On a positive note, the holding in Banco Bradesco, the second largest private bank in Brazil, advanced. The bank continued to deliver strong results and issued an upbeat guidance for loan growth, both of which were well received by investors. Robust results also lifted the holding in SS&C Technologies. Indian private lender Axis Bank, which has low cost of funds and an attractive returns profile also contributed to performance. There is a turnaround potential in light of a change in top management and its focus on improving its asset quality.

The manager is trading cautiously amid macroeconomic uncertainty and has maintained a defensive stance in the fund. There is a strong emphasis on quality of franchise, management and assets in order to avoid any asymmetric risks. Financial technology companies are benefiting from structural factors, including growth in electronic transactions and increasing demand for analysis services, and remain an important theme in the portfolio. Within banks, the manager has a key focus on fees rather than margins, with a strong emphasis on quality and balance sheet strength. The fund also holds promising insurance and reinsurance names.

Manager's Overview

Global equities gained over the 12-months to April 2019. Healthy corporate earnings provided support, while rising US interest rates, trade tensions, political uncertainty in Europe, and concerns about emerging markets elevated market volatility. At a regional level, equities in the US and Pacific ex Japan advanced, while Japanese and European stocks fell. Emerging market equities also declined, underperforming developed markets. Overall, returns in US dollar terms were undermined by its appreciation against the euro, sterling and yen.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year. Selected energy holdings such as Baker Hughes a GE Company and Concho Resources were weighed down by volatile crude oil prices during the period despite solid company fundamentals. Japanese health care equipment and services company Sysmex was another notable detractor due to weak quarterly results. On a positive note, strong stock selection in the information technology sector contributed to returns. Robust quarterly earnings as well as hopes for a resolution of the trade frictions between the US and China (particularly during the latter half of the period) buoyed conviction holdings such as Lenovo Group and Booz Allen Hamilton Holding. Some consumer discretionary names such as Ocado Group also gained on fundamental long-term tailwinds and positive news flow.

The manager believes that stock-specific fundamentals tend to be the key drivers of equity returns over the long term. Consequently, the portfolio continues to focus on businesses that demonstrate strong pricing power, are led by talented management teams and are available at reasonable valuations. Cell tower real estate investment trusts (REITs) American Tower and SBA Communications are among the fund's top active positions. The holdings benefit from long-term sticky contracts that are hedged for inflation and are likely to benefit from multiple tailwinds. The fund also has exposure to health care names with solid product portfolio and pipeline opportunities. Hearing aid major Sonova Holding's continued innovation efforts and a new platform give it a strong competitive edge.

Manager's Overview

Equities came under pressure in the fourth quarter of 2018 as concerns over global growth intensified. The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year. The holding in Abbott Laboratories rose on consistently strong results. The company is likely to maintain robust organic growth aided by strong end markets and new product launches. The position in Danaher rose on strong corporate activity. The company announced the acquisition of General Electric's biopharma business, which will help Danaher to expand its life sciences portfolio. The lack of exposure to Bayer and CVS Health also bolstered relative returns. Conversely, London-based medical technology company Livanova declined on weakness in its NeuroMod and heart valves offerings. However, these issues are transitory in nature. The position in Fresenius Medical Care fell after it issued a profit warning. Nonetheless, its underlying structural growth story is intact, as kidney diseases are accelerating globally.

The manager's investment philosophy is anchored in a belief that the market's ability to forecast earnings is limited, which makes the evaluation of historical performance important. The focus remains on high quality companies with earnings visibility. The manager looks for businesses with high and sustainable returns on invested capital (ROIC), as well as those that could materially improve their returns. The fund is overweight in the health care equipment and supplies sub-sector.

Manager's Overview

Global equities gained over the 12-month period. Healthy corporate earnings provided support, while rising US interest rates, trade tensions and political uncertainty in Europe elevated market volatility. Equities came under pressure in the fourth quarter of 2018 as concerns over global growth intensified. Nonetheless, investor sentiment improved in 2019 amid expectations of a US-China trade deal and the accommodative monetary policy stance in major economies. At a regional level, equities in the US and Pacific ex Japan advanced, while Japanese and European stocks fell. Emerging market equities also declined, underperforming developed markets.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year. The allocation to US-based distributor Fastenal, which is a high-quality business, added relative value. The holding in Ball Corporation rose on accelerating global bevcan (beverage can) volume growth. The position in Danaher also contributed to returns after the company announced the acquisition of General Electric's biopharma business, which will help Danaher to expand its life sciences portfolio. Conversely, selected energy holdings Baker Hughes a GE Company and Concho Resources were weighed down by volatile crude oil prices during the period despite both having robust fundamentals. The position in US exploration and production (E&P) leader EOG Resources also detracted from returns as higher-than-expected capital expenditure (capex) weighed on its shares.

Global industrial activity is witnessing a slowdown in growth, led by the deleveraging in China in 2018 and a slowdown in automobile sales in China and Europe. US continues to expand at a healthy rate, though the growth rate is slowing. Against this backdrop, the fund retained its long-term investment philosophy, and will continue to focus on long-term investments and bottom-up stock selection. The manager will continue to look for reasonably valued, good quality companies that are run by strong management teams where the market is ignoring long-term prospects due to short-term worries.

Manager's Overview

Global equities gained over the period under review. Healthy corporate earnings provided support, while rising US interest rates, trade tensions, political uncertainty in Europe, and concerns about emerging markets elevated market volatility. Equities came under pressure in the fourth quarter of 2018 as concerns over global growth intensified. Nonetheless, investor sentiment improved in 2019 amid expectations of a US-China trade deal and the accommodative monetary policy stance in major economies. At a regional level, equities in the US, Europe and Pacific ex Japan advanced, while Japanese stocks fell. Emerging market equities strengthened, outperforming developed markets. Overall, returns in US dollar terms were aided by its depreciation against the euro and sterling.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the seven-month period since launch. It was repurposed and renamed Fidelity Global Infrastructure Fund in October 2018. Weak security selection in the utilities and energy sectors detracted the most from returns. At a stock level, shares in China Petroleum & Chemical Corporation declined as oil prices came under pressure. Within the communication services sector, holdings in Israeli telecommunications company Bezeq and Smartone Telecommunications fell. The former reported a net loss in the fourth quarter, hurt by a one-off write down in its TV business. On a positive note, the lack of exposure to PG&E Corporation contributed to relative performance as the company filed for bankruptcy following claims related to the California wildfires.

The repurposed fund can now invest in equity securities throughout the world, selected from a universe of infrastructure sectors including, but not limited to, telecommunications, utilities, energy, transportation and social (including educational services and health care facilities). The fund has a sizeable allocation to the telecommunications sector. The fund is underweight in utilities given more attractive valuation opportunities available elsewhere. It retains an overweight exposure to the energy sector.

Manager's Overview

Global equities gained in US dollar terms over the review period. Equities started on a weak note as US-China trade frictions, rising US interest rates and political uncertainties in Europe intensified global growth concerns. Nonetheless, investor sentiment improved in 2019 amid expectations of a US-China trade deal and the accommodative monetary policy stance in major economies. Notably, the US Federal Reserve signalled a possible end to interest rate hikes at its January meeting amid rising global economic risks. The European Central Bank announced that it will launch a new targeted subsidised lending programme in September 2019, while pushing back guidance for future interest rate moves at its March meeting. The Bank of Japan clarified its intention to keep interest rates very low for a prolonged period. Chinese authorities also introduced policy measures to support growth. Meanwhile, the UK delayed Brexit after politicians rejected deals to withdraw from the European Union.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the period since inception. The information technology, communication services and consumer staples sectors were among the primary detractors from performance, while the energy and health care sectors contributed to relative returns. The lack of exposure to social networking provider Facebook was the top individual detractor from relative performance. Facebook's shares rose after the company reported fourth-quarter earnings and revenue that topped consensus estimates, lifted by improved monetisation and engagement metrics. The key individual contributor to performance was the position in US foods producer Tyson Foods. While the company reported mixed third-quarter results, shares rose after it reported earnings that topped consensus estimates, driven by the strength in its beef segment.

At the portfolio level, the managers are maintaining the current strategy of high fundamental buy ratings exposure while seeking to minimise absolute risk, with an expectation of achieving 60%–80% of the volatility of the MSCI World Index in the long term.

Manager's Overview

Global equities rose over the review period, supported by healthy corporate earnings. However, rising US interest rates, trade tensions, political uncertainty in Europe and concerns about emerging markets led to elevated market volatility. In particular, equities came under pressure in the fourth quarter of 2018 as concerns over global growth intensified. Nonetheless, investor sentiment improved in 2019 amid expectations of a US-China trade deal and the accommodative monetary policy stance in major economies. Notably, the US Federal Reserve signalled a possible end to interest rate hikes at its January meeting amid rising global economic risks.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year as certain key holdings were negatively impacted by challenging business conditions. In particular, shares in Mylan fell as increased competition in a generic drugs market impacted its earnings. Japanese health care major Sysmex also declined due to weak results. However, the holding was retained as a large addressable market across geographies, strong competitive positioning and pricing power should provide a solid base for future growth. On a positive note, the position in Microsoft performed well on strong growth prospects. Shares in Qualcomm rose on easing worries over litigation post its settlement with Apple, which underscored the value of its intellectual property and leadership position in the fifth-generation (5G) space. Positions in NextEra Energy and Essent Group also contributed to returns.

Caution is warranted towards risk assets in the current late-cycle environment. Underlying fundamentals have not improved along with the rebound in markets, as risks in the global economy persist. Decelerating below-trend global growth is likely to continue in the near term. In such an environment, a bottom-up investment approach, focused on stock level fundamentals, is best suited to deliver returns. The managers continue to focus on the highest conviction and most relevant ideas generated by Fidelity's global analyst base.

Manager's Overview

Global property markets delivered positive returns during the review period. The demand for residential property in the US was driven by a robust labour market and favourable demand-supply dynamics. In the eurozone, the German housing market was driven by low interest rates and global investor interest. Spanish property stocks came under pressure amid political uncertainty in the country. Elsewhere, concerns over Brexit and political uncertainty weighed on the UK market. Within Asia, real estate markets in Hong Kong and Singapore remained positive. The Japanese market benefited from sustained economic expansion and a relatively stable currency.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year. The overweight stance in Spain and weak security selection in Hong Kong detracted from performance. Japanese real estate company Mitsui Fudosan was the key detractor from returns. Nonetheless, the manager maintains conviction as the company is well placed and is less sensitive to adverse changes in the economy. The position in Spain-based real estate investment trust (REIT) Merlin Properties hampered performance as its annual net profits declined due to lower revaluation of its assets. Some of these losses were partially offset by gains in senior housing business Welltower as its shares rose following stronger than expected third quarter results.

The fund has a sizable allocation to the US and has an overweight stance in Europe. The fund remains underweight in the UK amid Brexit-related uncertainties. At the industry level, the portfolio has an overweight exposure to the residential and offices segments, and a large underweight in retail. A new position was purchased in residential property company Vonovia as it is attractively valued and continues to deliver strong earnings momentum. The manager also bought Embassy Office Parks, India's first REIT, given its favourable demand-supply dynamics and high upside potential for rental growth.

Manager's Overview

Global equities gained over the 12-month period. Healthy corporate earnings provided support, while rising US interest rates, trade tensions, political uncertainty in Europe, and concerns about emerging markets elevated market volatility. Equities came under pressure in the fourth quarter of 2018 as concerns over global growth intensified. Nonetheless, investor sentiment improved in 2019 amid expectations of a US-China trade deal and the accommodative monetary policy stance in major economies. The information technology (IT) sector generated strong returns and was the top performer in the broader market. At a sub-sector level, the IT services industry was the leading gainer.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year. The holding in Qualcomm gained on easing worries over litigation post its settlement with Apple, which underscored the value of its intellectual property and leadership position in the fifth-generation (5G) space. The allocation to Mellanox Technologies rose on news of an acquisition offer by Nvidia. The manager used the rise in its share price to sell the holding and lock-in gains. Meanwhile, the position in Marvell Technology Group advanced as investors remain positive on improving fundamentals in its storage and 5G networking business. Conversely, the position in Baidu fell on weaker earnings expectations due to an increase in investments in user acquisition amid structural challenges in its search category. The holding in Yahoo Japan also declined given rising spending and weak guidance. Nonetheless, its strategic relationship with SoftBank Group is supportive of its growth prospects.

Despite recent volatility, the global technology sector continues to exhibit strong fundamentals, with a variety of attractively valued investment opportunities related to long-term technology themes. Lately, the performance gap within the technology sub-sectors has started to widen, which presents new opportunities. Against this backdrop, the manager employs a fundamental, bottom-up approach, and focuses on structural technological developments to identify quality companies that are well positioned to harness growth. The fund has a key overweight in the interactive media & services industry. The fund also remains overweight in the semiconductors and semiconductor equipment industry. Within this space, the manager has exposure to more defensive names, as well as to stocks that are supported by structural growth opportunities.

Manager's Overview

Chinese equities started the 12-month period on a negative note amid concerns about a slowdown in economic activity. Subsequently, prospects of a pause in interest rate hikes in the US, optimism over fresh stimulus measures in China and progress on China-US trade talks buoyed Chinese equities in early 2019. During the period, the Chinese government announced plans to cut taxes and fees, fast-track infrastructure projects and increase spending to shore up the slowing domestic economy. Meanwhile, real estate stocks and consumer discretionary stocks buoyed Hong Kong and Taiwan markets, respectively. Overall, at the sector level, the communication services and consumer discretionary sectors lagged the broader markets, while defensive utilities and consumer staples ended in positive territory.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year, as selected financials and consumer discretionary stocks came under pressure. Durable juvenile products company Goodbaby International Holdings and Industrial & Commercial Bank of China (H) declined due to lacklustre earnings expectations in the near term. Conversely, high end baijiu maker Kweichow Moutai (A) contributed to returns as it is likely to benefit from its strong pricing momentum and product mix upgrades. Global semiconductor foundry leader Taiwan Semiconductor Manufacturing added value. A new opportunity has opened up for the company as its key US-based rival GlobalFoundries exited from the leading next-generation 7nm semiconductor segment.

The manager continues to focus on areas that can deliver sustainable growth over the next three to five years. As a result of the bottom-up stock selection process, the fund has an overweight stance in China and an underweight allocation to Hong Kong and Taiwan. Taiwan Semiconductor Manufacturing is likely to benefit from structural growth drivers in the high-performance computing and artificial intelligence markets. Industrial & Commercial Bank of China (H) is a well-managed bank with superior net interest margins compared to its peers and strong capital position.

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2019 : EUR 488 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Iberian equities ended a volatile 12-month period in positive territory in euro terms, but declined in US dollar and sterling terms. Tighter financial conditions, ongoing trade tensions, an uncertain political landscape in Spain and a China-led global slowdown negatively impacted investor sentiment. Equities were particularly weak in the fourth quarter of 2018. However, markets rebounded in the first four months of 2019, supported by the emergence of a more accommodative monetary policy stance from major central banks, stronger data releases from China and expectations of a resolution on US-China trade negotiations.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year, driven by positive sector allocation. An underweight stance in financials companies proved favourable as the sector remained out of favour over the period. Not holding Banco Bilbao Vizcaya Argentaria and underweight in Banco Santander contributed strongly to relative returns. Health care holdings, including Almirall and Grifols, were among the leading contributors to returns. Technology company Amadeus IT Group was another strong performer, given its robust results and future growth prospects. On a negative note, the underweight positioning in utilities proved unfavourable as the sector performed well over the period. At a stock level, not holding electric utility company Energias de Portugal and Natural Energy Group detracted the most from relative performance.

The fund remains well diversified, with a preference for long-term structural growth businesses, beneficiaries of health care trends/demographics, renewables companies and attractively valued consumer companies in Spain. The managers look to invest in undervalued companies with strong intrinsic growth potential, higher expected earnings growth and better return profiles than the index as a whole. The largest positions include Grifols, Amadeus IT Group and Industria de Diseno Textil. These companies are well positioned for growth, and the managers believe that the market is underestimating the sustainability of their earnings.

Manager's Overview

Indian equities rose over the year. Markets started on a weak note amid a rise in oil prices, weakness in the Indian rupee and tight liquidity conditions among domestic non-banking finance companies (NBFCs). Global trade tensions and expectations of interest rate normalisation by central banks also hurt sentiment. Subsequently, an improvement in the domestic macroeconomic backdrop and prospects of a resolution of US-China trade issues lifted equities towards the latter half of the period. The Reserve Bank of India started the period on a policy tightening path against the backdrop of healthy economic activity. The central bank changed its stance from 'calibrated tightening' to 'neutral' and cut its policy rates twice in view of subdued inflation and a moderation in GDP growth.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year. The underweight allocation to information technology (IT) companies, particularly Wipro, Infosys and HCL Technologies hurt relative returns. Upbeat near-term earnings and weakness in the Indian rupee supported their shares, given their sizable US dollar earnings. Within financials, the position in Edelweiss Financial Services slid due to tough liquidity conditions among non-banking financial companies (NBFC) and weak capital markets earlier in the period. On a positive note, preferred holdings in HDFC Bank and ICICI Bank added value. The former delivered steady loan and fee income growth, and stable net interest margins. The latter's improving fundamentals, receding asset quality concerns and visibility on its growth strategy following a management change supported its shares.

The fund is positioned to benefit from India's long-term growth and structurally positive domestic consumption trends. The fund is overweight in financials, with a tilt towards private sector banks. Conviction positions in HDFC Bank and Kotak Mahindra Bank have strong management teams, robust balance sheets and conservative underwriting culture. Another preferred holding in Larsen & Toubro has a strong execution track record and is a potential beneficiary of an expected recovery in India's capital expenditure cycle.

Manager's Overview

Indonesian equities advanced over the period. Buying activity by foreign institutional investors and expectations that the incumbent President Joko Widodo would return to power following the general election held in mid-April boosted sentiment. On the monetary policy front, Bank Indonesia kept its benchmark interest rate unchanged in 2019 following a series of interest rate hikes in 2018. At the sector level, financials, utilities and consumer staples stocks were the best performers, while energy companies declined.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year due to rewarding security selection in the financials sector. Bank Tabungan Pensiunan Nasional added value as an improvement in net interest margins and cost efficiencies buoyed its earnings. Among consumer staples, shares in poultry company Charoen Pokphand Indonesia rose on robust earnings. An underweight stance in Matahari Department Store boosted relative performance. Its shares retreated after weakness in same store sales growth weighed on its quarterly earnings. Elsewhere, shares in telecommunication infrastructure provider Sarana Menara Nusantara advanced on the back of a strong growth outlook backed by contract renewals and new fibre business. Meanwhile, an underweight stance in materials stocks Indocement Tunggul and Semen Indonesia hurt relative returns.

The manager believes there are persistent inefficiencies and mispricing opportunities in the Indonesian market that may be exploited through bottom-up, fundamental analysis to generate outperformance for investors. The manager favours long-term winners such as Bank Central Asia for its solid deposit franchise, resilient retail business, a healthy underwriting profile and robust digitisation strategy. Pakuwon Jati is favoured for its dominant position in the retail mall space, with recurring rentals constituting nearly half of the company's revenue stream.

Manager's Overview

Global equities gained over the review period. Healthy corporate earnings provided support, while rising US interest rates, trade tensions, political uncertainty in Europe, and concerns about emerging markets elevated market volatility. Markets came under pressure in the fourth quarter of 2018, as concerns over global growth intensified. Nonetheless, investor sentiment improved in 2019 amid expectations of a US-China trade deal and the accommodative monetary policy stance in major economies. Notably, the US Federal Reserve (Fed) signalled a possible end to interest rate hikes at its January meeting amid rising global economic risks. Against this backdrop, equities in the US and Pacific ex Japan advanced, while Japanese and European stocks fell. Emerging market equities also declined, underperforming developed markets.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year, largely due to US and Japanese equities. In particular, the allocation to a US value strategy detracted from performance as the style remained out of favour. A US core strategy that leverages the stock picking expertise of Fidelity also weighed on performance. Here, security selection in the consumer discretionary and energy sectors held back gains. In Japan, an all-cap strategy hurt returns due to stock selection within the consumer discretionary sector. Losses were mitigated by strategies that invest in European markets. The underlying eurozone strategy contributed to relative performance due to an underweight allocation and security selection in the consumer discretionary and financials sectors. The allocation to emerging market equities and cash further supported returns.

The manager remains overweight in Japan. The outlook for the region is broadly positive given valuations and a supportive policy. The manager also maintained an underweight allocation to the US. While a cautious stance by the US Fed is likely to be positive, the US services sector recorded an unexpected slowdown in April. The US manufacturing sector also grew at its weakest level in two and a half years in April.

Manager's Overview

Italian equities ended a volatile 12-month period in negative territory. Tighter financial conditions, ongoing trade tensions, concerns over Italy's high budget deficit and a China-led global slowdown hurt investor sentiment. However, markets rebounded in 2019 following the emergence of a more accommodative monetary policy stance from major central banks, stronger data releases from China and expectations of a resolution on US-China trade negotiations.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year, largely due to the weak performance of consumer discretionary, financials and industrials holdings. This was partially offset by strong stock picking in the energy sector. At a stock level, shares in apparel company OVS fell, as its sales were negatively impacted as some of its stores were closed for restructuring as well as due to adverse weather patterns. Shares in packaging machinery manufacturer Gima TT also fell. Both the holdings were sold. Shares in machinery company Piovani performed poorly as its top line decelerated at the end of 2018 due to cyclical factors. Despite short-term weakness, Piovani's long-term growth prospects remain strong, given the growth in its food processing machinery division, consolidation in its plastic division and a shift to higher margin products in its spare parts division. On a positive note, oil equipment and services provider Saipem was the largest contributor to returns, buoyed by a strong order intake.

The fund's largest sector exposure is to financials, where the managers favour diversified financials companies such as Banca Generali and Banca Mediolanum over banks. Italian asset gatherers are benefiting from the shift of assets from smaller local commercial banks to dedicated independent wealth managers that can offer better services without the balance sheet risks of smaller commercial banks. The fund is overweight in industrial firms and electrical equipment manufacturer Prysmian is the largest active holding. Its ongoing focus on returns on invested capital is underappreciated by the market, and the company is expected to generate strong free cash flow in 2019.

Manager's Overview

Japanese equities fell over the year. Persistent worries about ongoing trade frictions between the US and China and the increasing impact on global trade and manufacturing weighed on investor sentiment during the period. Nevertheless, stock prices rose over the year-to-date period in 2019, supported by an accommodative monetary policy stance by leading global central banks, including the Bank of Japan, and receding concerns over US-China trade frictions. The Japanese economy recovered in the fourth quarter following the decline in the previous quarter amid a number of natural disasters. The improvement was mainly led by higher capital expenditure and private consumption; however, the outlook remains uncertain. Earnings expectations have moderated and external headwinds may prove challenging in the near term, but a benign domestic economic and policy backdrop and comparatively attractive valuations are supportive of the Japanese market. From a sector perspective, energy, financials and materials were among the biggest decliners, while the communication services and health care sectors recorded positive returns over the year.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year. Strong stock selection in the electric appliances, pharmaceutical and information & communication sectors contributed to returns. However, these gains were mostly offset by the weak performance of selected machinery holdings, such as Komatsu, which fell amid ongoing concerns over the impact of US-China trade frictions. The holding in Yamaha Motor also declined as losses from its weak industrial machinery and robotics sales in China, as well as from its motorcycle business in developed markets offset the continued growth of its oligopolistic marine segment.

The manager continues to focus on stocks with excess return potential via discounted valuations, and support from solid balance sheets and stable cash flows. The fund is positioned to take advantage of low interest rates and a potential pick up in global growth, with overweight positions in the high free cashflow and high dividend yield construction sector, and the economically-sensitive electrical appliances industry at the end of April.

Manager's Overview

From a sector perspective, energy, financials and materials were among the biggest decliners, while the communication services and health care sectors recorded positive returns over the year.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year. The overweight stance in the services sector and strong stock selection in precision instruments and other products sectors contributed to returns. However, these gains were offset by the weak performance of selected names in the machinery segment, which fell owing to ongoing concerns over the impact of US-China trade frictions. At a stock level, security equipment maker Optex was the leading detractor from performance, as it reported weak half-year earnings results due to delayed shipments of security sensors in Japan. Conversely, the holding in Asahi Intecc, a guidewires and catheters maker, contributed to returns, supported by its positive outlook on the back of market share gains.

The manager's focus is on consistent growers within the mid/small cap segments and to identify signs of positive change over the mid-to-long term. The electric appliances, services and machinery sectors remain overweight. The exposure to banks and transportation equipment (automobiles) remains limited given the structural headwinds facing these industries.

From a sector perspective, energy, financials and materials were among the biggest decliners, while the communication services and health care sectors recorded positive returns over the year.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year. Strong stock selection in the information & communication and services sectors contributed to returns, but stock specific factors held back performance from certain holdings. Key contributors included information technology (IT) services group OBIC as its annual results confirmed ongoing high earnings growth. Chemicals company NOF was another key contributor to returns supported by its positive earnings growth outlook on strong sales of surfactants (raw materials for cosmetics and toiletry-related products) and growing demand for drug delivery systems.

The manager looks for companies that operate in a stable competitive environment, with high and sustainable returns on invested capital, and good earnings visibility. As a result, style distribution shows a consistent growth and quality bias. At a sector level, the main overweight positions are in the services, machinery electric appliances and information & communication sectors.

Earnings expectations have moderated and external headwinds may prove challenging in the near term, but a benign domestic economic and policy backdrop and comparatively attractive valuations are supportive of the Japanese market. From a sector perspective, energy, financials and materials were among the biggest decliners, while the communication services and health care sectors recorded positive returns over the year.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year. Strong stock selection in the information & communication sector contributed to returns, but selected stocks in the retail trade segment and the overweight stance in machinery names more than offset these gains. At a stock level, the leading detractor was drug store operator Tsuruha Holdings. Increased costs limited growth in its first-half profits. Nevertheless, its long-term growth potential remains intact, supported by a strong sales outlook, store openings and mergers & acquisitions. On a positive note, the position in Rakusol rose as its mainstay online printing and marketing/sales support service maintained a high level of earnings growth.

The manager's focus is on identifying stock specific growth drivers through detailed global value chain analysis. In line with this approach, the manager remains overweight in the electric appliances, machinery and precision instruments sectors. Banks and expensive defensive sectors (foods, land transportation and power utilities) remain underweight.

Manager's Overview

Latin American equities fell over the year. News flow around the US-China trade war and slowing economic growth in China unnerved investors during the period. Brazilian equities declined, although they recovered in the second half as political uncertainty ended with the victory of Jair Bolsonaro in the final round of Presidential elections. Mexican stocks were weighed down by concerns that the new President Andres Manuel Lopez Obrador may adopt a populist approach to economic policy, following a proposal by the ruling party to cut fees charged by banks.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the period, largely due to stock selection in the utility sector and the underweight stance in energy. The underweight position in Banco Bradesco hampered performance as its share price rose after it reported strong loan growth during the year. The holding in the Brazilian state-owned oil company Petrobras also weighed on relative returns. Some of these losses were offset by the overweight stance in Brazil's largest fashion retailer Lojas Renner as its shares advanced after it reported strong results. The company continues to benefit from the growing formalisation in the retail sector.

The manager has an overweight stance in the consumer discretionary and financials sectors. Within consumer discretionary, Lojas Renner is a key position. In the financials sector, the manager prefers Itau Unibanco Holding ADR, the largest bank in Brazil. It is proactively de-risking its balance sheet. Exchange operator B3 SA - Brasil Bolsa Balcao is another preferred stock, for its integrated business model and dominant market position. Banco do Brasil has ambitions to improve its return on equity through continued cost cutting.

Manager's Overview

Malaysian equities ended in negative territory, mainly due to losses in financials and utility stocks. In particular, financials fell as a deceleration in revenue growth is likely to weigh on their near-term earnings outlook. In key developments, the government introduced measures to address national debt levels, increase revenue and address the need for prudent spending in the recently unveiled Federal Budget for 2019. However, the government announced a wider fiscal deficit for 2019, as it aims to implement policy reforms and balance its revenue capacity and spending commitment, while reducing its debt and liabilities.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year, as selected consumer staples and information technology (IT) stocks contributed to performance. Inspection machine manufacturer ViTrox advanced as it is likely to benefit from the potential deployment of the fifth-generation (5G) network, given its strong exposure to the telecommunications infrastructure industry. Carlsberg Brewery (Malaysia) and Heineken Malaysia rose in light of their robust growth prospects, driven by healthy sales volume growth and cost controls. Both stocks benefited from a crack down by the Customs Bureau, which has reduced the illicit share of the beer market. Conversely, construction services provider IJM Corporation fell amid concerns over high plantation operating costs and rising competitive pressures.

The manager favours businesses that are enduring franchises with sustainable competitive advantages; a reasonable runway of future growth; attractive valuations with a good risk/reward profile; solid balance sheet; and management with integrity and superior capital management ability. Long term winner Carlsberg Brewery (Malaysia) is favoured for its focus on premiumisation. Meanwhile, the conviction position in Riverstone Holdings, a Malaysian manufacturer of health care products, is maintained as it is a beneficiary of capacity expansion and stabilising margins. Mispriced names such as Lafarge Malaysia are preferred on expectations that the revival of infrastructure projects is likely to bolster cement demand.

Manager's Overview

Nordic equities posted positive returns over the year. Real estate, consumer staples and information technology were the top performing sectors, while consumer discretionary and materials declined. Sweden and Denmark were the region's stand-out performers, while Finland lagged the broader market.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year. Stock picking detracted from returns partially offset by positive sector allocation. Selected industrials, including NKT Holding, MPC Container Ships and Solar hampered performance. NKT Holding's shares declined due to disappointing third quarter results and a lower earnings guidance for 2019. However, the manager expects new order activity to increase in the medium term. MPC Container Ships' shares fell on news of an investment acceleration in equipment for treating pollutant emissions of its vessels. The manager views this as a positive development for the medium term. Elsewhere, the overweight positioning in energy and selected holdings in consumer discretionary held back gains. On a positive note, stock selection in health care and an underweight stance in financials added relative value. Medical technology company Getinge was the largest contributor to returns, driven by encouraging quarterly revenues and strong order intake.

The manager follows a disciplined investment process based on systematic scoring of companies on qualitative and quantitative factors. The portfolio is managed with a contrarian-value style with a focus towards mid and small-cap stocks. Industrials is the largest overweight position in the portfolio, with a focus on maritime transportation stocks and some early cyclical stocks. The fund maintains a strong overweight in the energy sector through oil services companies. The fund maintains a strong bias towards Norway to gain from an expected rebound in the exchange rate.

Manager's Overview

Asia Pacific equities declined over the year. Chinese stocks fell amid concerns about a slowdown in economic growth in light of the domestic deleveraging campaign and trade issues with the US. Japanese equities slid as worries about US-China trade issues and the increasing impact on global trade and manufacturing hurt investor sentiment. Meanwhile, weak macroeconomic data and the depreciation of the Korean won against the US dollar held back South Korean equities. On a positive note, Australia and Taiwan outperformed the broader market.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year, in which short-term disappointments held back some holdings amid heightened risk-aversion. Universal Entertainment posted healthy growth in its casino business in the Philippines. However, a short-term delay in the recovery of the Pachislot market weighed on its shares. Korean cosmetics maker Cosmax declined due to concerns over the impact of higher labour costs on its domestic business margins. Regulatory scrutiny on Chinese citizens bringing back cosmetics from Korea for re-selling also hurt its shares. Meanwhile, temporary disruptions and lower-than-expected prices for initial output from its Balamina mine hurt Syrah Resources. On a positive note, biotechnology firm Clinuvel Pharmaceuticals made progress towards US regulatory approval for its drug to treat rare skin disorders. Its strengthening commercial operations reflected solid cash flow generation. The exposure to SoftBank Group also added value and it remains a key position given its strong management, noteworthy execution and promising investments in technology companies globally.

The manager focuses on companies with good long-term growth prospects that are cash generative and have strong management teams. China Pacific Insurance Group (H) is held as it is a potential beneficiary of secular growth in the insurance industry in China. Australian jewellery retailer Lovisa Holdings' global expansion plans are supported by management's strong execution capabilities and focus on store profitability.

Manager's Overview

Singaporean equities declined over the period, dragged down by financials and communication services companies. In noteworthy developments, Singapore delivered an expansionary budget for 2019, outlining measures to boost health care spending for the aging population and provide support to small and medium enterprises. Singapore's central bank slightly tightened its monetary policy in October, but kept its monetary policy unchanged during its April 2019 review meeting as domestic growth and core inflation eased.

The fund performed in line with the comparative index over the year. Security selection in the industrials sector contributed to performance. Encouraging profitability lifted public transportation operator SBS Transit. Aircraft operating leasing company BOC Aviation advanced on expectations that higher delivery of aircrafts would result in an acceleration in revenue growth in the near term. Conversely, selected real estate holdings held back gains. Real estate brokerage house APAC Realty retreated amid concerns over a slowdown in transaction volumes, following the implementation of property cooling measures by the government. Elsewhere, seafood restaurant operator Jumbo Group fell on worries over intensifying cost pressures.

The manager favours businesses that are enduring franchises with sustainable competitive advantages; a reasonable runway of future growth; attractive valuations with a good risk/reward profile; solid balance sheet; and management with integrity and superior capital management ability. The bias towards supermarket operator Sheng Siong and chief ground-handling and in-flight catering service provider SATS is retained for their defensive business models and healthy balance sheets. The conviction position in BOC Aviation is maintained for the resilient nature of its business, high earnings visibility and diversified global operations. Mispriced names such as palm oil producer First Resources is held for its attractive plantation profile and favourable valuations.

Manager's Overview

Global equities gained in US dollar terms over the review period. Equities started on a weak note as US-China trade frictions, rising US interest rates and political uncertainties in Europe intensified global growth concerns. Nonetheless, investor sentiment improved in 2019 amid expectations of a US-China trade deal and the accommodative monetary policy stance in major economies. Notably, the US Federal Reserve signalled a possible end to interest rate hikes at its January meeting amid rising global economic risks. The European Central Bank announced that it will launch a new targeted subsidised lending programme in September 2019, while pushing back guidance for future interest rate moves at its March meeting. The Bank of Japan clarified its intention to keep interest rates very low for a prolonged period. Chinese authorities also introduced policy measures to support growth. Meanwhile, the UK delayed Brexit after politicians rejected deals to withdraw from the European Union.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the period since inception. The position in Brazil-based Sabesp rose on news of the possibility that the state of San Paulo would privatise the company. The holding in Clean Harbors gained as the company's results continued to exceed expectations, supported by an improved industrial backdrop. The allocation to Arcadis also advanced on upbeat results, supported by strong sales growth. More importantly, an improvement in its capital position reinforced investor confidence in the strength of its balance sheet. Conversely, Italian utility company Iren fell as it issued a subdued guidance due to mild climatic conditions. Shares in Guangdong Investments also fell as its profits were weighed down due to the depreciation of the renminbi.

The fund employs a distinctive, replicable bottom-up investment process, focusing on quality and growth, with an overarching emphasis on sustainable investments. This is a thematic Environmental, Social, and Governance (ESG) fund that seeks to deliver long-term capital growth over the market cycle by investing globally in companies involved in the water and waste management sectors. The fund invests across the water and waste value chains, including in companies developing new technologies to meet the ever-growing demand for such products and services.

Manager's Overview

Swiss equities ended a volatile 12-month period in positive territory. The period was influenced by tighter financial conditions, ongoing trade tensions and a China-led global slowdown, which hurt investor sentiment. However, markets rebounded in the first four months of 2019 as investor sentiment was supported by the emergence of a more accommodative monetary policy stance from major central banks, stronger data releases from China and expectations of a resolution on US-China trade negotiations.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year, largely due to industrials holdings. A structural underweight in health care also detracted from relative performance. This was partially offset by strong stock picking in financials and materials. At a stock level, the structural underweight in large-cap companies including food producer Nestle and pharmaceutical manufacturer Novartis hurt relative returns. The underweight is due to UCITS rules, which do not permit more than 10% of the fund's assets to be held in a single stock. Elsewhere, shares in machinery company Georg Fischer fell as investors were worried that the uncertain macroeconomic backdrop may negatively impact its sales in emerging markets and in the automotive segment. On a positive note, shares in Julius Baer Group rose strongly. The wealth manager has attractive structural growth potential due to global wealth creation and high asset retention.

The fund retains a sizable exposure to the health care, industrials, financials and materials sectors. Within health care, the fund's largest overweight is in Lonza Group, an outsourcing provider to the pharmaceuticals and specialty ingredients industries. The stock provides an attractive exposure to the pharmaceuticals industry while eliminating the binary event risks usually associated with developing new drugs. Within industrials, testing and certification company SGS, which provides high quality exposure to the recovering parts of commodities end-markets, is the largest overweight holding.

Manager's Overview

Taiwanese equities fell over the 12-month period. Ongoing trade tensions between Taiwan's key trading partners, the US and China weighed on investor sentiment. Weak guidance from technology heavyweights further subdued sentiment towards technology supply chain companies. Against this backdrop, Taiwanese technology stocks experienced sharp declines, with Apple's supply chain companies falling out of favour. Nonetheless, the consumer discretionary and financials sectors outperformed the broader market in the risk-off environment.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year largely due to rewarding security selection in the information technology (IT) sector. Conviction holdings in smartphone camera module maker Largan Precision and global leader in power and thermal management solutions Delta Electronics advanced as their attractive valuations generated investor interest. Largan is also a beneficiary of the strong adoption of triple-camera and high-end lenses in smartphones, and its inclusion in Samsung's supply chain was encouraging. An underweight stance in Apple supplier Hon Hai Precision Industry added relative value as the stock slid amid muted demand for iPhone. Within financials, E.Sun Financial Holding rose as its quarterly results demonstrated its business strength vs its peers. The exposure to the internet platform Sea ADR proved rewarding as investors recognised its consistent earnings growth and the encouraging prospects for its Taiwanese e-commerce business. Catcher Technology slid due to concerns about an uncertain demand environment for smartphones in the near term.

The manager favours companies with a high return profile and growth execution capability. In particular, semiconductor holdings, such as Largan Precision, Advantech, MediaTek and Taiwan Semiconductor Manufacturing, are favoured for their growth prospects. Their market leadership is supported by their emphasis on technological expertise in their industries.

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2019 : USD 323 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Thai equities declined over the 12-month period amid domestic political uncertainty, slowdown in global growth and ongoing trade tensions between the US and China. Thailand held its general election in March, and Pheu Thai Party won most seats. Although Pheu Thai and Future Forward announced a seven-party alliance soon after the election, they failed to secure a majority, and are unlikely to form the government. On the economic front, the government approved a 20 billion baht stimulus package. Furthermore, it is likely to introduce measures, including tax deductions to spur tourism and aid low income groups. All sectors ended in negative territory, except for utilities and health care.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year, as selected energy stocks disappointed. Holdings in leading liquefied petroleum gas (LPG) trader Siamgas and Petrochemicals and oil refiner Thai Oil declined. The former came under pressure as falling LPG price weighed on earnings. The latter fell out of favour due to a slow recovery in refining gross margins amid weak demand. Printed circuit board (PCB) manufacturer KCE Electronics retreated as weak vehicle sales in the European Union and the US impacted demand for automotive PCBs. On a positive note, Thailand's largest private power generator, Electricity Generating rose in light of healthy growth prospects following the acquisition of Paju Energy, an independent power producer in South Korea.

The manager favours businesses that are enduring franchises with sustainable competitive advantages, a reasonable runway for future growth, attractive valuations with a good risk/reward profile, and superior capital management ability. Convenience chain store operator CP ALL is held for the robust growth prospects for its 7-11 business. Airports of Thailand is retained for its monopoly position and is likely to be a beneficiary of higher tourist arrivals in the long term.

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2019 : GBP 15 MILLION

Manager's Overview

UK equities ended higher in sterling terms over the period under review. Markets started the period on a positive note, but fell sharply towards the end of 2018 due to concerns around weakening economic growth and tightening by central banks, particularly the US Federal Reserve (Fed). However, the US Fed adopted a more accommodative monetary stance and stated that it would not raise interest rates further in 2019, citing a modest outlook for the economy. This alleviated investors' concerns and markets rebounded. On the policy front, the Bank of England raised interest rates by a quarter of a percentage point, from 0.5% to 0.75%, in August 2018. However, it decided unanimously to leave interest rates unchanged at its latest meeting. Overall, the technology, basic materials and health care sectors outperformed, while telecommunications stocks lagged the broader market.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the period since launch. Stock selection within the consumer sectors held back returns. The lack of exposure to beverages group Diageo weighed on relative performance, while the holding in online gaming group GVC Holdings fell largely owing to regulatory concerns. Meanwhile, the position in Royal Mail detracted from returns after the courier company warned that its full-year earnings were expected to fall sharply as it had failed to meet its cost-saving targets. The holding in infrastructure investor John Laing was the leading contributor to performance, supported by its positive outlook.

The deeply unloved status of the UK market has created an exceptionally fertile period for contrarian stock picking. A selective approach remains important. Not all UK stocks are equally attractive, and although many domestic businesses are being unfairly ignored, others are structurally compromised or financially unsound and therefore best avoided. The focus is on buying unloved domestic stocks if the manager sees a balance sheet that can withstand a period of economic weakness, and if the valuation allows some margin of safety.

Manager's Overview

UK equities rose over the 12-month period. Markets started the period on a positive note, but fell sharply towards the end of 2018 due to concerns around weakening economic growth and tightening by central banks, particularly the US Federal Reserve (Fed). However, the US Fed adopted a more accommodative monetary stance and stated that it would not raise interest rates further in 2019, citing a modest outlook for the economy. This alleviated investors' concerns and markets rebounded strongly. On the policy front, the Bank of England raised interest rates by a quarter of a percentage point, from 0.5% to 0.75%, in August 2018. However, it decided unanimously to leave interest rates unchanged at its latest meeting. Overall, the technology, basic materials and health care sectors outperformed, while telecommunications stocks lagged the broader market.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year. Key holdings across sectors contributed to returns, but gains were offset by stock-specific disappointments within the consumer and financials sectors. In particular, the position in online trading company IG Group was negatively impacted by tighter regulations around risky derivatives contracts and low market volatility. Shares in security firm G4S fell as it reported lower-than-expected revenues. On a positive note, the position in Entertainment One, a media and entertainment company, performed well on strong growth prospects. The exposure to plastic piping systems manufacturer Polypipe Group also contributed to performance.

The manager focuses on spotting long term, mispriced growth stories. A new position was purchased in Barrick Gold as the company's merger with Randgold has resulted in industry-leading asset quality, particularly in North America and West Africa. The merger is likely to create significant synergies, which bodes well for the stock. Another position was initiated in ventilation products supplier Volution, which is attractively priced for a quality returns business, and has a strong growth profile.

Manager's Overview

Global equities gained in US dollar terms over the 12-months to April 2019. Healthy corporate earnings provided support, while rising US interest rates, trade tensions, political uncertainty in Europe, and concerns about emerging markets elevated market volatility. At a regional level, equities in the US and Pacific ex Japan advanced, while Japanese and European stocks fell. Emerging market equities also declined, underperforming developed markets. Overall, returns in US dollar terms were undermined by its appreciation against the euro, sterling and yen.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year. Energy holdings such as Marathon Petroleum and Halliburton were weighed down by lower crude oil prices during the period despite solid company fundamentals. Some semiconductor stocks such as ams and SUMCO were negatively impacted by the weakness in the smartphone value chain and the semiconductor markets. On a positive note, favourable security selection in the utilities sector boosted performance. Exelon gained on an improvement in its core business and margins. Conviction health care holdings such as HCA Healthcare and Merck & Co were buoyed by improving earnings boosted by the federal tax reform and robust fundamentals.

The fund invests in three specific types of opportunities – change, value and franchise. The fund has an overweight stance in the communication services and information technology (IT) sectors. In telecommunications, the manager remains positive on key themes, including the fifth-generation (5G) cycle and the opportunities to improve revenue monetisation via higher data traffic as well as potential market consolidation. The fund has exposure to names that offer earnings resilience via exposure to these themes such as T-Mobile US. In IT, the fund has exposure to attractive services businesses supported by innovation, which can deliver robust growth and strong free cash flows. These include companies such as Worldpay and Visa. Conversely, the fund has an underweight stance in the consumer staples and materials sectors.

Manager's Overview

Asia Pacific ex Japan equities retreated over the year. Concerns about a global economic slowdown and uncertainty around the US-China trade frictions, weighed on investor sentiment. Chinese stocks slid amid concerns about a slowdown in economic growth in light of the domestic deleveraging campaign and trade issues with the US. Weak macroeconomic data and the depreciation of the Korean won against the US dollar held back equities in South Korea. Losses in communication services companies weighed on Singaporean and Malaysian equities. On a positive note, equities in India and Australia outperformed the broader market.

The fund generated negative returns over the year. Security selection in China and Malaysia detracted from returns. Camera component manufacturer Sunny Optical Technology experienced short-term margin pressures amid weak demand for smartphones in China and currency depreciation. Nevertheless, the company will continue to benefit from increasing dual/triple camera penetration. The position in China Molybdenum weighed on performance. The company was negatively impacted by uncertainty in the macroeconomic environment and new mining laws in Congo, which will make it expensive for mining companies to operate in the region. Encouragingly, selected information technology (IT) holdings added value. Shares in Appen, Australia's leading global data services provider for artificial intelligence, advanced. Rising market uncertainty prompted investors to favour its strong cash flows, healthy balance sheets and the good execution track record of its management team.

The fund focuses on identifying quality growth stocks that can offer good dividend growth potential and long-term secular growth. The manager favours high-quality IT, health care and real estate stocks. In IT, the manager prefers India's Tata Consultancy Services for its stable management, strong execution track record and consistent market share gains. The fund holds high-quality financials, particularly banks with excellent management, strong capital position and robust asset quality.

Manager's Overview

European equities ended in positive territory over the 12-months period to April 2019. Tighter financial conditions, ongoing trade tensions, an uncertain political landscape in Spain and a China-led global slowdown negatively impacted investor sentiment. Equities were particularly weak in the fourth quarter of 2018. However, markets rebounded in the first four months of 2019, supported by the emergence of a more accommodative monetary policy stance from major central banks, stronger data releases from China and expectations of a resolution on US-China trade negotiations.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year. This was primarily attributable to the significant outperformance of defensive sectors, such as consumer staples and health care, compared to financials and consumer discretionary stocks. Shares in transportation infrastructure company Ferrovial rallied, driven by its robust third quarter results. Its infrastructure segment continued to perform strongly through the quarter. Reinsurance companies Hannover Re and Munich Reinsurance benefited from their defensive earnings growth. While the former benefits from structural cost advantage over its peers, Munich Reinsurance is supported by its steady and conservative management. Conversely, the underweight stance in consumer goods major Nestle detracted from relative performance.

The fund continues to look for good businesses that are able to offer a sustainable and resilient income, have strong balance sheets and good cash conversion rates. The manager prefers quality and income-generating stocks within the financials and industrials sectors, and is underrepresented in the more cyclical areas of the market such as materials and technology. During the period, the manager bought a new holding in integrated oil and gas company BP. It is supported by both structural improvements in its business and a favourable outlook for oil prices. German residential property major Vonovia, was also added to the portfolio. The company's endeavour to expand abroad, particularly to Sweden, provides significant scope for growth.

Manager's Overview

Global equities gained over the 12-months to April 2019. Healthy corporate earnings provided support, while rising US interest rates, trade tensions, political uncertainty in Europe, and concerns about emerging markets elevated market volatility. Equities came under pressure in the fourth quarter of 2018 as concerns over global growth intensified. Nonetheless, investor sentiment improved in 2019 amid expectations of a US-China trade deal and the accommodative monetary policy stance in major economies. At a regional level, equities in the US and Pacific ex Japan advanced, while Japanese and European stocks fell. Emerging market equities also declined, underperforming developed markets. Overall, returns in US dollar terms were undermined by its appreciation against the euro, sterling and yen.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year, primarily due to the market rotation out of cyclical stocks into more defensive names. Our permanent focus on capital preservation and companies with predictable, resilient return profiles proved beneficial in this environment. The strong performance of key positions, including consumer goods major Procter & Gamble (P&G) and professional publisher Wolters Kluwer, added value. P&G posted its biggest growth in five years in the fiscal first quarter, helped by gains in its beauty and health care segments. The gain in organic sales exceeded market expectations, with the US market driving most of the gains.

The fund continues to look for businesses with strong balance sheets, attractive dividend yields and dividend growth prospects that can help achieve longer-term cross-cycle outperformance with lower volatility. The manager remains cautiously optimistic about holdings but continues to maintain a strict valuation discipline. Higher quality stocks within financials and stable and income-generating stocks in the technology space are well represented, while the fund is underweight in more cyclical areas such as materials and energy.

Manager's Overview

Global equities gained over the 12-months to April 2019. Healthy corporate earnings provided support, while rising US interest rates, trade tensions, political uncertainty in Europe, and concerns about emerging markets elevated market volatility. Equities came under pressure in the fourth quarter of 2018 as concerns over global growth intensified. Nonetheless, investor sentiment improved in 2019 amid expectations of a US-China trade deal and the accommodative monetary policy stance in major economies. At a regional level, equities in the US and Pacific ex Japan advanced, while Japanese and European stocks fell. Emerging market equities also declined, underperforming developed markets. Overall, returns in US dollar terms were undermined by its appreciation against the euro, sterling and yen.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year. Strong security selection in the consumer staples and financials sectors contributed to relative returns. The strong performance of key positions, including consumer goods major Procter & Gamble (P&G) and professional publisher Wolters Kluwer, added value. P&G posted its biggest growth in five years in the fiscal first quarter, helped by gains in the beauty and health care segments. The gain in organic sales exceeded market expectations, driven primarily by the US market.

The fund's strategy emphasises a total return approach by identifying companies with strong balance sheets and attractive dividend yields. Protecting and growing the fund's capital base is key to delivering stable and visible income growth as well as outperforming the market across a business cycle. During the period, the manager bought new positions in Informa and Ferrovial. Informa is a global leader in exhibitions and trade shows. Changes in the group's mix of businesses over recent years suggest that its performance should be reasonably resilient in a downturn. Ferrovial is a multinational infrastructure, services and construction group. Its biggest asset is the Canadian Toll Road, which has continued to report robust results.

Manager's Overview

Global equities gained over the review period. Healthy corporate earnings provided support, while rising US interest rates, trade tensions, political uncertainty in Europe, and concerns about emerging markets elevated market volatility. Markets came under pressure in the fourth quarter of 2018, as concerns over global growth intensified. Nonetheless, investor sentiment improved in 2019 amid expectations of a US-China trade deal and the accommodative monetary policy stance in major economies. Notably, the US Federal Reserve (Fed) signalled a possible end to interest rate hikes at its January meeting amid rising global economic risks. Against this backdrop, equities in the US and Pacific ex Japan advanced, while Japanese and European stocks fell. Emerging market equities also declined, underperforming developed markets.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year, largely due to US and European equities. In particular, the allocation to a US value strategy detracted from performance as the style remained out of favour. A US core strategy that leverages the stock picking expertise of Fidelity also weighed on performance. Here, security selection in the consumer discretionary and energy sectors held back gains. The underlying pan European strategy hurt performance as a result of an underweight allocation to the materials and consumer discretionary sectors. The fund's discretionary exposure to global equity sectors also detracted from returns. Here, holdings in global consumer industries and financial services held back returns.

The manager remains overweight in Japan. The outlook for the region is broadly positive given its attractive valuations and supportive policy. The manager also maintained an underweight allocation to the US. While a cautious stance by the US Fed is likely to be supportive, the US services sector recorded an unexpected slowdown in April. The US manufacturing sector also grew at its weakest level in two and a half years in April.

Manager's Overview

Asia Pacific ex Japan equities fell over the 12-month review period. US-China trade tensions, rising US interest rates, political uncertainty in Europe, and concerns about emerging markets weighed on investor sentiment. However, equities recovered some of the losses in 2019 amid expectations of a US-China trade deal and the accommodative monetary policy stance in major economies. Against this backdrop, Chinese, South Korean, Singaporean and Malaysian equities ended lower, while the Australian and Hong Kong markets gained. Within fixed income, Asian US dollar denominated investment grade and high yield bonds generated positive returns, supported by tightening credit spreads in 2019 as risk sentiment improved.

The fund delivered positive returns over the year. The allocation to fixed income assets boosted performance, led by the exposure to Asian high yield and investment grade bonds. The holding in a Chinese high yield debt strategy also enhanced gains. Within equities, the new position in Chinese A-shares contributed to returns. This was offset by the allocation to Asia Pacific ex Japan dividend and Malaysian equity strategies, which weighed on returns. The allocation to alternatives, which includes a selection of investment strategies such as infrastructure, loans, macro themes and real estate, detracted from performance.

The fund maintained a balanced risk profile given the uncertain macroeconomic backdrop. Over the period, the managers reduced the allocation to the Asia Pacific dividend strategy in view of a volatile market environment. The position in an Australian equity strategy was also closed. Instead, the allocation to Asian high yield bonds was raised for their attractive yields, valuations and fundamentals. Chinese government bonds were also introduced in the fund as the asset class is significantly under-owned and offers diversification and attractive yield. Additionally, alternatives are held for their yield enhancement, capital growth and diversification benefits.

Manager's Overview

European equities ended a volatile 12-month period in positive territory. Tighter financial conditions, ongoing trade tensions, an uncertain political landscape in Spain and a China-led global slowdown negatively impacted investor sentiment. Equities were particularly weak in the fourth quarter of 2018. However, markets rebounded in the first four months of 2019 supported by the emergence of a more accommodative monetary policy stance from major central banks, stronger data releases from China and expectations of a resolution on US-China trade negotiations.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year, largely due to the equities segment. The French equity strategy detracted from relative performance due to an underweight allocation and security selection within the consumer discretionary and industrials sectors. However, this was partially offset by the allocation to the underlying eurozone strategy, where favourable positioning in the industrials and information technology sectors supported returns. The allocation to cash also detracted from returns. On a positive note, the fixed income segment generated positive performance, partially offsetting the losses from the equities segment. Here, strong positioning in European bond strategies supported returns.

The managers maintain a broadly neutral stance in European equities. Global uncertainties related to Brexit, ongoing trade concerns between the US and its major trading partners, and a slowdown in China could negatively impact the eurozone's export-led economy. However, the investment team continues to keep a close watch on the activities of the world's major central banks as they maintain a cautious stance.

Manager's Overview

Global equities gained strongly over the 12-month review period. Healthy corporate earnings provided support, while rising US interest rates, trade tensions, political uncertainty in Europe, and concerns about emerging markets elevated market volatility. Equities came under pressure in the fourth quarter of 2018 as concerns over global growth intensified. Investor sentiment improved, and markets rebounded strongly in 2019 amid expectations of a US-China trade deal and the accommodative monetary policy stance in major economies. Notably, the US Federal Reserve signalled a possible end to interest rate hikes at its January meeting amid rising global economic risks. The European Central Bank announced that it will launch a new targeted subsidised lending programme in September 2019, while pushing back guidance for future interest rate moves at its March meeting.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year. Within European equities, the exposure to France and Nordics detracted significantly from returns. The underlying equity holdings in emerging markets also had a negative impact on performance. Elsewhere, within Asia Pacific ex-Japan, the underlying holdings in Asian smaller companies supported returns. The exposure to a US energy infrastructure master limited partnership enhanced gains, as energy stocks rose on the back of a rally in oil prices during the first quarter of 2019. Within fixed income, the holdings in Asian high yield and emerging market local currency bonds contributed to performance.

Over the year, the managers increased the Asian equity exposure. More specifically, the managers added to Asian small-cap and Chinese stocks. The Chinese market continues to be supported by targeted fiscal and monetary policy, and earnings growth also appears encouraging. Within thematic positions, a new holding was purchased in generic pharmaceuticals. The industry has been through a period of consolidation and companies now have more pricing power. The managers also added a small short position in semiconductors in the US where valuations look stretched.

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2019 : USD 7,971 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Global equities gained and outperformed bonds over the period. Healthy corporate earnings supported equity markets, while rising US interest rates, trade tensions, political uncertainty in Europe, and concerns about emerging markets led to some volatility. Equities came under pressure in the fourth quarter of 2018 as concerns over global growth intensified. However, markets rebounded strongly in 2019 amid expectations of a US-China trade deal and the accommodative monetary policy stance in major economies. Among fixed income markets, yields rose initially as the US Federal Reserve increased interest rates, but later fell as pressures on interest rates eased. Credit markets recorded strong performance due to the rally in government bonds.

The fund delivered positive returns over the year and distributed income in line with its objective. Equities were the strongest contributors to absolute returns, followed by investment grade and high yield bonds. Emerging market debt (hard currency) and government bonds also supported returns. Infrastructure holdings added value, particularly social infrastructure holdings. However, positions in emerging market debt (local currency), which were negatively impacted by a stronger US dollar, weighed on returns.

The managers favour a cautious stance overall. While risk assets continue to perform strongly, the investment team believes that fundamentals are lagging and the current equity market momentum is unlikely to continue. The managers increased the allocation to government bonds and investment grade bonds over the year, while taking profits from holdings in European dividend equities and US high yield bonds. The allocations to selected risk assets such as Asian dividend equities and Asian high yield bonds, as well as to emerging market debt (hard currency) were increased in view of attractive yields, valuations and fundamentals. New holdings were purchased in alternative assets to improve diversification and enhance yields. Elsewhere, the managers continue to hedge part of the fund's equity market beta through regional and sector equity short positions. These hedges helped limit the drawdown in late 2018.

Manager's Overview

Global equities gained over the period. Healthy corporate earnings provided support, while rising US interest rates, trade tensions, political uncertainty in Europe, and concerns about emerging markets elevated market volatility. Equities came under pressure in the fourth quarter of 2018 as concerns over global growth intensified. Investor sentiment improved, and markets rebounded strongly in 2019 amid expectations of a US-China trade deal and the accommodative monetary policy stance in major economies. Notably, the US Federal Reserve signalled a possible end to interest rate hikes at its January meeting amid rising global economic risks.

The fund generated positive absolute returns over the year. Within market exposure, fixed income was the largest contributor to returns, followed by equities. Within fixed income, positive returns were driven by US Treasuries and Australian bonds. Australian government bonds performed strongly in 2019 as the Reserve Bank of Australia lowered its growth and inflation forecasts and moved to a more neutral policy outlook. Within equities, the underlying holdings in Japan enhanced gains. Non-directional strategies had an overall negative impact on returns. The investment in listed alternatives added value, while third party alternatives lagged given their value tilt. Thematic positions generated negative returns. The position in European telecommunications underperformed, as did the long position in financials. Meanwhile, the short retail holding performed well.

Over the year, the managers increased the Asian equity exposure. More specifically, the allocation to Asian small-cap and Chinese stocks was raised. The Chinese market continues to be supported by targeted fiscal and monetary policy, and earnings growth also appears encouraging. The US equity exposure was sold as the managers believed its valuations to be high compared to the rest of the world. Within fixed income, the position in UK government bonds (Gilts), which benefited from the uncertainty around Brexit, was reduced. Within thematic positions, the managers bought a value versus growth position in the US.

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2019 : USD 8 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Greater China equities declined over the review period. In China, equities fell as the country's slowing growth and trade tensions weighed on investor sentiment. However, the market recovered some of the losses in 2019 amid expectations of a US-China trade deal and the accommodative monetary policy stance in major economies. Chinese policymakers also announced measures such as a reduction in banks' reserve requirement ratios and tax cuts to support growth. Meanwhile, Hong Kong and Taiwanese stocks gained, largely towards the latter part of the period as risk sentiment improved. Within fixed income, US-dollar denominated Chinese investment grade and high yield bond markets generated positive performance, supported by tightening credit spreads in 2019.

The fund delivered negative returns over the year, largely due to the allocation to equities. A Greater China equity strategy that invests in the Chinese, Hong Kong and Taiwanese markets weighed on performance, due to positions in consumer discretionary and communication service companies. A China-focused equity strategy, driven by its value and contrarian investment approach, hurt performance amid weakness in the country's market. A Taiwanese equity strategy further weighed on returns. On a positive note, the exposure to Chinese and Asian high yield bonds supported performance.

The fund maintained a balanced risk profile in view of a volatile market environment. Over the period, the managers increased the allocation to fixed income assets, led by the exposure to Chinese high yield bonds. Chinese government bonds were added to the portfolio. The asset class is significantly under-owned and offers attractive yield and diversification. The managers also introduced alternative investment strategies, which provide yield enhancement, capital growth and diversification benefits. Meanwhile, the exposure to equities was reduced. The position in Taiwanese equities was sold in view of risks to the country's export-oriented economy from slowing global trade. The holding in Greater China equity strategy was also reduced.

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2019 : USD 106 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Global equities gained and outperformed bonds over the period. Healthy corporate earnings supported equity markets, while rising US interest rates, trade tensions, political uncertainty in Europe, and concerns about emerging markets led to some volatility. Equities came under pressure in the fourth quarter of 2018 as concerns over global growth intensified. However, markets rebounded strongly in 2019 amid expectations of a US-China trade deal and the accommodative monetary policy stance in major economies. Among fixed income markets, yields rose initially as the US Federal Reserve increased interest rates, but later fell as pressures on interest rates eased. Credit markets recorded strong performance due to the rally in government bonds.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year, largely due to the underweight allocation to equities and a preference for bonds. Within equities, an underweight position in North America, the best performing regional equity market over the period, weighed on relative returns. In terms of absolute returns, both equities and bonds added value, with the largest contributions coming from global dividend equities, Asian high yield bond and US investment grade bond strategies. Among alternatives, the allocation to social infrastructure holdings supported performance. In contrast, positions in emerging market debt (local currency), which were negatively impacted by a stronger US dollar, weighed on returns.

While risk assets continue to perform strongly, the investment team believes that fundamentals are lagging and the current equity market momentum is unlikely to continue. Consequently, the managers favour a cautious stance. The allocation to equities was reduced and the exposure to bonds and alternatives was increased over the period. The managers added a new position in Australian government bonds and increased the allocation to investment grade bonds, while taking profits from European dividend equities and US high yield bonds. The allocations to selected risk assets such as Asian equities and Asian high yield bonds, as well as to emerging market debt (hard currency) were increased in view of attractive yields, valuations and fundamentals.

Manager's Overview

Global equities gained over the review period. Healthy corporate earnings provided support, while rising US interest rates, trade tensions and political uncertainty in Europe elevated market volatility. Equities fell sharply in the fourth quarter of 2018 as concerns over global growth intensified. Nonetheless, investor sentiment improved in 2019 amid expectations of a US-China trade deal and the accommodative monetary policy stance in major economies. Fixed income markets posted positive returns over a period that was characterised by a changing monetary policy regime. Led by US Treasuries, sovereign bond yields fell as central banks across the world adopted a cautious monetary policy stance. Credit markets performed positively due to the rally in government bonds, thus offsetting the widening in credit spreads.

The fund delivered positive returns over the year, supported by both of its Beta and Alpha components. Within the Beta component, dividend paying securities and emerging market debt proved rewarding to performance. The allocation to global corporate bonds and high yield also supported returns. In the Alpha component, the allocation to alternatives, a selection of infrastructure, loans and real estate holdings, added notable value.

The fund focuses on delivering capital growth while targeting a specific volatility range. The fund gains broad market exposure via the Beta component, where the asset allocation is determined systematically by a proprietary volatility management model on the basis of risk. Elevated volatility in 2018 led to a gradual shift in the Beta component's allocation, as the fund moved out of Growth and into Defensive assets. However, this was partially reversed over the last three months of the review period as volatility edged lower. In the Alpha component, the fund holds positions that are expected to add value independent of broad market direction. For instance, a long position in Europe ex UK equities was closed and a short position on the market was introduced amid increased political risks in the region.

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2019 : USD 13 MILLION

Manager's Overview

US dollar denominated Asian bonds generated positive returns over the review period, supported by higher coupon income. Political concerns in Italy, US-China trade tensions and sharp moves in Asian currency caused index spreads to widen during the early part of the period. The market inflected later in the period, when China responded with a series of stimulus measures. However, risk sentiment deteriorated again during the last quarter of 2018 amid escalating trade tensions. At the country level, China's economy expanded by 6.6% during 2018, down 0.2 percentage point over the previous year. Markets rallied in the first four months of 2019 driven by progress in China-US trade talks, a pause in interest rate increases by the US Federal Reserve, and attractive valuations after the sell-off in 2018. The continued monetary easing bias with fiscal stimuli from China also supported investor sentiment.

The fund generated positive total returns over the period. Stable coupon income and credit allocation were the biggest contributors to performance. Term structure positioning supported returns. The fund's US dollar duration buoyed performance given a fall in the US Treasury yield curve. The allocation to US dollar Asian high yield bonds boosted returns owing to the tightening of credit spreads and high coupon income. The exposure to US dollar Asian investment grade bonds also proved rewarding. At a sector level, property added value. On the ratings front, the allocation to BB and below rated credits contributed the most to performance. The fund was repurposed on 5 July 2018 and the proposed changes to the investment strategy will result in the fund investing across a broader fixed income universe.

The fund continues to focus on credit quality and liquidity through fundamental analysis and careful credit selection. The fund's US dollar duration exposure is 3.8 years. In addition to its cash holding, the fund has 15-20% market weight in short dated (0-1 year)/near-term callable bonds to ensure a robust liquidity profile and maintain high natural income. This also keeps the fund's overall volatility relatively low.

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2019 : USD 1,105 MILLION

Manager's Overview

US dollar denominated Asian bonds posted positive returns over the 12-month review period, primarily driven by the fall in US Treasury yields even as credit spreads widened. The 10-year US Treasury yields fell to their lowest levels since early 2018 as worries about global growth rose amid weak economic data. Against this backdrop, the US Federal Reserve emphasized that monetary policy will continue to be data dependent and balance sheet reduction could slowdown or end later this year. At a regional level, China announced more policy easing measures as it attempts to revitalise its economy that has suffered from its deleveraging campaign and the US-China trade war. Elsewhere, Standard & Poor's upgraded the sovereign credit rating of the Philippines to BBB+ while revising its credit outlook to 'stable'.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year largely due to term structure positioning and coupon income. The fund's long duration (more sensitive to interest rate changes than the index) position boosted returns as most government bond yields fell. Credit selection detracted from performance as credit specific events weighed on returns. Specifically, the overweight exposure to Tewoo Group Finance detracted from returns as Fitch downgraded the company. The underweight stance in Indonesian government bonds detracted from relative returns as the recent passive easing from the central bank pointed towards more rate cuts. The losses were partially offset by the bias towards China Minmetals and Vanke Real Estate (HK).

In terms of positioning, the fund is overweight credit beta (on duration times spread basis) versus the index, as the manager thinks there is value to be found in selected credits. Moreover, Asian investment grade bonds remain supported by stable fundamentals and a continued favourable technical backdrop given the expectation of relatively lower supply and continuous demand from both institutional and retail investors. The fund retains a cash buffer for potential new issuance and liquidity purposes.

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2019 : USD 5,209 MILLION

Manager's Overview

US dollar denominated Asian high yield bonds generated positive returns over the period supported by higher coupon income. Political concerns in Italy, US-China trade tensions, sharp moves in Asian local currency and a correction in equities caused index spreads to widen meaningfully during the early part of the review period. Markets inflected later in the period as China responded with a series of policy measures that pointed to looser credit conditions. Risk sentiment deteriorated again during the last quarter of 2018, amid escalating trade tensions. At the country level, the Chinese economy expanded by 6.6% during 2018, down 0.2 percentage points from the previous year. Markets rallied in the first four months of 2019 driven by the progress in China-US trade talks, pause in interest rate increases by the US Federal Reserve, and attractive valuations after the sell-off in 2018. The continued monetary easing bias with fiscal stimuli from China also supported investor sentiment.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year. Higher coupon income and term structure positioning supported returns. However, credit selection weighed on performance. At a sector level, the overweight stance in property, in particular the exposure to Tahoe Group added value. Conversely, the allocation to the capital goods sector hurt performance. From a ratings perspective, the exposure to unrated bonds detracted the most from returns. The position in US dollar duration supported returns given a fall in the US Treasury yield curve.

The fund is overweight credit beta as the current valuations offer attractive potential total return driven by income over a 12 to 18 months horizon. It has 8-15% market weight in short dated (<1year)/near-term callable bonds to ensure a robust liquidity profile and maintain high natural income. This also keeps overall volatility relatively low.

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2019 : USD 333 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Chinese high yield bonds posted positive returns over the period, driven by higher coupon income. Credit spreads widened broadly during the early part of the period due to US-China trade tensions and concerns about increased defaults amid tight liquidity conditions in the China. The market inflected as China responded with a series of policy measures that pointed to looser credit conditions. However, risk sentiment deteriorated again during the last quarter of 2018, amid an escalation in trade tensions. The Chinese economy expanded by 6.6% during 2018, down 0.2 percentage points from the previous year. Markets rallied in the first four months of 2019 driven by progress in China-US trade talks, a pause in interest rate increases by the US Federal Reserve and attractive valuations after the sell-off in 2018. The continued monetary easing bias with fiscal stimuli from China also supported investor sentiment.

The fund generated positive returns over the year. Higher coupon income was the primary contributor to performance, while credit allocation weighed on returns. The exposure to the property sector, particularly holdings in China Aoyuan Group and Ronshine China Holdings, proved rewarding. Conversely, the allocation to the capital goods sector hurt performance. The fund's US dollar duration position added value as US Treasury yields fell. From a rating perspective, the exposure to B rated and unrated bonds weighed on returns.

The fund continues to focus on credit quality and liquidity through fundamental analysis and careful credit selection. The managers remain committed to delivering a diversified portfolio with attractive income. The fund's US dollar duration exposure is 2.7 years and is biased towards the 1-5 year maturity period. In addition to its cash holding, the fund has 10-15% market weight in short dated (<1year)/near-term callable bonds to ensure a robust liquidity profile and maintain high natural income. This also keeps the fund's overall volatility relatively low.

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2019 : USD 200 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Offshore renminbi (RMB) investment grade bonds (Dim Sum) generated positive absolute returns supported by high coupon income. Risk sentiment dampened during the early part of the period owing to US-China trade tensions. Chinese authorities announced a number of initiatives to counter the negative impact of trade tensions including tax cuts for individuals and corporates. Sentiment around renminbi assets recovered later in November after the US agreed to put additional trade tariffs on hold. The Chinese economy expanded by 6.6% during 2018, down 0.2 percentage points from the previous year. Investor sentiment improved in the first four months of 2019 due to progress in China-US trade talks, pause in interest rate increases by the US Federal Reserve and continued policy support from China.

The fund generated positive returns in renminbi terms over the year, led by high coupon income. At a sector level, the allocation to quasi sovereigns and property supported performance, while industrial bonds held back gains. Looking at Dim Sum bonds, the exposure to Shimao Property Holdings, added value. The allocation to US dollar denominated bonds contributed the most to returns, as they were buoyed by the decline in US Treasury yields. From a ratings perspective, holdings in BBB and A rated bonds added value.

The fund continues to focus on credit quality and liquidity through fundamental analysis and careful credit selection. The managers remain committed to delivering a diversified portfolio with an attractive income and low credit risk and volatility. The fund has exposure to longer dated onshore bonds, in light of their attractive valuations and low correlation to developed market bonds. Additionally, selected high-conviction China and China-related US dollar denominated bonds are held for their attractive valuations.

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2019 : EUR 174 MILLION

Manager's Overview

European bonds posted positive returns over the period, with core government bonds outperforming corporate bonds. Investors flocked towards safe-haven assets amid political and budget crisis in Italy, Brexit impasse and US-led trade war rhetoric. Business growth slowed to its weakest pace in over two years in December 2018, as a manufacturing-led slowdown showed signs of spreading to the service industry. However, the turn of the year witnessed a sharp turnaround in risk sentiment. At the end of April 2019, credit spreads tightened to August 2018 levels. This was supported by the accommodative monetary policy stance by global central banks, easing concerns over US-China trade frictions and the European Central Bank (ECB) signalling an extension of its Targeted Long-Term Refinancing Operation (TLTRO). Moreover, a delay in the UK's withdrawal from the European Union reassured investors that a disruptive no-deal Brexit may be avoided.

The fund underperformed comparative index over the year. Spreads on euro-denominated investment grade corporate bonds widened significantly during the fourth quarter of 2018, impacting performance. An overweight stance in financials was the top detractor from returns, as investors switched to a risk-off mode due to political concerns in Western Europe. However, the fund's tactical position in euro duration (sensitivity to interest rate changes) during the latter half of the period partially offset the losses, as Italy reached an agreement with Brussels over its 2019 budget.

The managers remain confident on the fundamental picture for European credit markets. The fund's credit beta (sensitivity to credit spreads) was decreased over the period but remained overweight relative to the index. The focus is on issuers who have high capital buffers and are able to withstand significant stress. The fund's duration was reduced amid weak macroeconomic data; however, the managers continue to look into financial credits and crossover names, as they are less vulnerable to interest rate moves.

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2019 : USD 91 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Emerging market bonds posted mixed returns over the 12-month period with hard currency bonds outperforming local currency bonds. A flattening of the US yield curve supported hard currency returns with investment grade bonds outperforming high yield bonds. During most part of 2018, the US Federal Reserve (Fed) was reducing its balance sheet and draining US dollar liquidity out of the market. This, coupled with rising US Treasury yields for the first three quarters of 2018, made it increasingly attractive for US dollars to be repatriated back to the US, which led to a stronger US dollar. Later during 2019, the shift towards an accommodative monetary policy by most major central banks, including the US Fed and the European Central Bank (ECB), as well as policy stimulus from China remained the key drivers for the asset class. After last year's hectic election cycle, 2019 has been shaping up to be the year of political continuity for many emerging market countries. So far, some incumbents have extended their mandates and maintained current policy trajectory, heralding political continuity into 2020. This is a marked change from 2018, which witnessed volatile regime change in several countries including Brazil and Mexico.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year. The overweight position in Nostrum Oil & Gas in the energy sector and the bias against Bangkok Bank in the banks and brokers sector weighed on performance. On a positive note, higher coupon income was the key contributor to performance. On a sector level, the allocation to property, specifically overweight positions in Vanke Real Estate (HK) and Longfor Group Holdings, added notable value. The exposure to the utility sector, in particular, the overweight stance in Light Serviços de Eletricidade enhanced gains. Across the ratings spectrum, the underweight allocation to BBB and above bonds detracted from relative performance. Encouragingly, the exposure to B rated bonds contributed the most to returns.

The fund maintains a flexible approach to its credit spread positioning and has an overweight credit beta position. From a ratings perspective, there is a bias towards high yield bonds. The fund has an overweight US dollar duration position relative to the index, and is biased towards the 5–10 years maturity period.

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2019 : USD 2,319 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Emerging market bonds posted mixed returns over the 12-month review period with hard currency bonds outperforming local currency bonds. A flattening of the US yield curve supported hard currency returns with investment grade bonds outperforming high yield bonds. During most part of 2018, the US Federal Reserve (Fed) was reducing its balance sheet and draining US dollar liquidity out of the market. Most emerging market currencies weakened against the strong US dollar with Argentine peso and Turkish lira being the key laggards during the period.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year, largely due to its duration and credit positioning while coupon income supported returns. Within credit, the fund's exposure to Turkish quasi-sovereign bonds (Türkiye Vakıflar Bankası) and underweight in Brazil weighed on returns. Losses were partially offset by the exposure to CNAC HK Finbridge, a special purpose vehicle (SPV) of ChemChina, which aided performance. The allocation to Nigerian local rates, led by its coupon income, supported returns. The US dollar duration position detracted from returns.

The fund maintains a flexible approach to its credit beta positioning and has an overweight allocation to credit risk versus the index. The portfolio is underweight in emerging market sovereigns and has a bias towards emerging market corporates. The fund has an overweight US dollar duration position relative to the comparative index. A modest allocation to emerging market currencies was maintained.

Manager's Overview

Emerging market bonds posted mixed returns over the 12-month review period with hard currency bonds outperforming local currency bonds. A flattening of the US yield curve supported hard currency returns with investment grade bonds outperforming high yield bonds. During most part of 2018, the US Federal Reserve (Fed) was reducing its balance sheet and draining US dollar liquidity out of the market. This, coupled with rising US Treasury yields for the first three quarters of 2018, made it increasingly attractive for US dollars to be repatriated back to the US, which led to a stronger US dollar. Most emerging market currencies weakened against the strong US dollar with Argentine peso and Turkish lira being the key laggards during the period.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year. An underweight allocation to Russian nominal duration and the exposure to the very short-end of Argentine local duration contributed to returns, while an overweight allocation to Indonesian local duration weighed on returns. Within emerging market currencies, an underweight position in the Brazilian real supported relative performance. Conversely, an overweight position in the Argentine peso weighed on returns.

The fund's key long emerging market local duration positions are in Israel, South Africa and Indonesia. Meanwhile, the fund has underweight duration positions in Hungary and Poland. Within emerging market currencies, the fund has an overweight position in the Peruvian sol, a long position in the Nigerian naira, an underweight position in the Thai baht and a short position in the Indian rupee.

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2019 : USD 761 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Emerging market bonds posted mixed returns over the 12-month review period with hard currency bonds outperforming local currency bonds. A flattening of the US yield curve supported hard currency returns with investment grade bonds outperforming high yield bonds. During most part of 2018, the US Federal Reserve (Fed) was reducing its balance sheet and draining US dollar liquidity out of the market. This, coupled with rising US Treasury yields for the first three quarters of 2018, made it increasingly attractive for US dollars to be repatriated back to the US, which led to a stronger US dollar. Later, the shift towards an accommodative monetary policy by most major central banks during 2019, including the US Fed and the European Central Bank (ECB), as well as policy stimulus from China remained the key drivers for the asset class. Most emerging market currencies weakened against the strong US dollar with Argentine peso and Turkish lira being the key laggards during the period.

The fund posted positive total returns over the period, supported by coupon income, while currency positioning detracted from returns. Within credit, the exposure to Turkish quasi-sovereign bonds (Türkiye Vakıflar Bankası) and Argentina's sovereign bonds weighed on returns. However, the allocation to CNAC HK Finbridge, a Special Purpose vehicle (SPV) of ChemChina, aided performance. Within currency positioning, the long position in the Argentine peso detracted from returns, while a favourable position in the Mexican peso supported performance. The fund's US dollar duration position added further value.

The fund's strategic allocation guides overall beta decisions, with tactical allocation driving alpha generation. Tactically, the managers remain overweight in terms of duration times spread. The fund currently has a tactical underweight position in emerging market real rates and is overweight in nominal duration. The fund has long exposure to the Mexican peso, Peruvian sol and Brazilian real and short positions in the Thai baht and Indian rupee.

Emerging Markets Inflation-linked Bond Fund <sup>4</sup>

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2019 : USD 75 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Emerging market bonds posted mixed returns over the period with hard currency bonds outperforming local currency bonds. A flattening of the US yield curve supported hard currency returns with investment grade bonds outperforming high yield bonds. During most part of 2018, the US Federal Reserve (Fed) was reducing its balance sheet and draining US dollar liquidity out of the market. This, coupled with rising US Treasury yields for the first three quarters of 2018, made it increasingly attractive for US dollars to be repatriated back to the US, which led to a stronger US dollar. Later in 2019, the shift towards an accommodative monetary policy by most major central banks, including the US Fed and the European Central Bank (ECB), as well as policy stimulus from China remained the key drivers for the asset class. Over the period, most emerging market currencies weakened against the strong US dollar with the Argentine peso and Turkish lira being the key laggards.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year. The long position in Brazilian real duration generated positive returns in local currency terms. However, the weakening of the Brazilian real held back gains. The exposure to Chilean breakeven added value, as breakevens widened. The short duration position in US Treasury (through futures) detracted from returns as the US yield curve flattened.

The fund maintained its long real duration position and has an overweight position in Brazil and Thailand and a breakeven position in Chile. The short US dollar nominal duration was flattened. The fund has key nominal duration positions in Serbia, Peru and South Africa.

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2019 : EUR 760 MILLION

Manager's Overview

European bonds posted positive returns over the period, with core government bonds outperforming corporate bonds. Investors flocked towards safe-haven assets amid political and budget crisis in Italy, Brexit impasse and US-led trade war rhetoric. Business growth slowed to its weakest pace in over two years in December 2018, as the manufacturing-led slowdown showed signs of spreading to the service industry. However, the turn of the year witnessed a sharp turnaround in risk sentiment. At the end of April 2019, credit spreads tightened to August 2018 levels. This was supported by the accommodative monetary policy stance by global central banks, easing concerns over US-China trade frictions and European Central Bank (ECB) signalling an extension of its Targeted Long-Term Refinancing Operation (TLTRO). Moreover, a delay in the UK's withdrawal from the European Union reassured investors that a disruptive no-deal Brexit may be avoided.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year. Spreads on euro-denominated investment grade corporate bonds widened significantly during the fourth quarter of 2018, impacting performance. An overweight stance in financials was the top detractor from returns, as investors switched to a risk-off mode amid political concerns in Western Europe. However, the fund's tactical position in euro duration (sensitivity to interest rate changes) during the latter half of the period partially offset the losses, as Italy reached an agreement with Brussels over its 2019 budget.

The managers remain confident on the fundamental picture for European credit markets. The fund's credit beta (sensitivity to credit spreads) was decreased over the period but remained overweight relative to the index. The focus is on issuers who have high capital buffers and are able to withstand significant stress. The fund's duration was reduced in light of weak macroeconomic data. However, the managers continue to look into financial credits and crossover names, as they are less vulnerable to interest rate moves.

Manager's Overview

The European high yield market posted positive returns over the period amid a cautious stance by the US Federal Reserve (Fed) and the European Central Bank (ECB). The macroeconomic environment remained muted, as business growth slowed to its weakest pace in over two years in December 2018, and as the manufacturing-led slowdown showed signs of spreading to the service industry. However, the turn of the year witnessed a sharp turnaround in the risk sentiment, driven by the accommodative monetary policy stance by global central banks and easing concerns over US-China trade frictions. Additionally, the ECB signalled an extension of its Targeted Long-Term Refinancing Operation (TLTRO). During the first quarter of 2019, European economic growth was stronger than expected, driven by resilient domestic demand.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year. The underweight stance in the consumer non-cyclical and communications sectors detracted the most from performance. Conversely, the bias towards debt collectors and utility names partially offset these losses. The exposure to ContourGlobal added significant value after it announced the acquisition of two natural gas cogeneration plants in Mexico with long term contracts expected to be earnings before interest, tax, depreciation and amortization (EBITDA) accretive in the first full year of operation. In terms of ratings, holdings in lower rated credits contributed to performance, but these gains were more than offset by an underweight position in BB rated securities.

The European high yield market is expected to benefit from the ECB's accommodative stance and the low default environment given conservative financial policies. However, the market is likely to be impacted by regional macroeconomic conditions, due to worries over Italy, continued Brexit-related uncertainties and elections to the European Parliament. Consequently, the manager has reduced the fund's exposure to BB-rated securities. The allocation to debt collectors was maintained, as they provide ample alpha opportunities.

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2019 : GBP 248 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Fixed income markets posted positive returns over the 12-month review period as most central banks sounded a cautious note towards the latter half of the period. While government bond yields rose in the first half as the US Federal Reserve continued to raise interest rates, the trend reversed in the second half. Sovereign bond yields fell, led by US Treasuries, reflecting a combination of weak economic data and continued uncertainty over US-China trade negotiations. The moves in the US debt market rippled out into other bond markets as well, with yields on German bunds and UK government bonds (Gilts) edging lower over the period. Meanwhile, credit markets posted positive returns due to the rally in government bonds, offsetting the impact of widening in credit spreads.

The fund posted positive returns over the year with interest rate strategy aiding returns. Specifically, the exposure to the US dollar, euro and sterling interest rate risk contributed to performance. This was partially offset by the credit strategy given the broad-based widening of credit spreads. A bias towards lower rated investment grade and high yield bonds weighed on returns. However, the fund's cautious stance towards higher-beta sectors helped cushion the losses.

The build-up of various headwinds such as emerging late-cycle signs, deteriorating credit fundamentals and fading central bank support is likely to pose a challenge. Therefore, the managers maintain a cautious stance in credit, preferring investment grade bonds over high yield bonds. On the duration front, the fund remains skewed towards US dollar duration as US Treasuries tend to have the lowest correlation to equities. Outside of this, the managers are tactically constructive on Australian rates and maintain a modest exposure to UK and euro rates.

Manager's Overview

Fixed income markets witnessed a period of two halves during the review period. Yields rose in the first half in line with US Treasuries as the US Federal Reserve (Fed) increased interest rates, but fell in the second half as major central banks shifted towards an accommodative monetary policy stance. The shift in the US Fed's monetary policy stance was in response to concerns about US growth and inflation, and external factors, such as slowdown in China and weak oil prices. Growth in the eurozone remained muted, leading the European Central Bank (ECB) to keep its policy rates unchanged. The central bank indicated that it will hold rates steady at least through the end of 2019. Meanwhile, the Bank of England raised interest rates in August 2018 after backtracking on expected interest rate rises in a couple of previous meetings amid disappointing economic data.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year. An overweight position in US dollar duration (sensitivity to interest rate changes) contributed to performance as US government bonds gained, following an accommodative policy stance of the US Fed. These gains were partially offset by an underweight stance in the euro and yen duration. At a sector level, the exposure to the consumer sectors added significant value, led by Volkswagen and HCA. An overweight position in financials also contributed to returns. In terms of ratings, conviction holdings boosted performance.

Global growth is slowing down amid strong headwinds and China remains the primary source of global activity in the near term. Global central banks will remain cautious as the US economy is gradually decelerating, while the European economy remains soft with subdued inflation. Consequently, the fund maintained its overall short duration position; the Norwegian krone was an exception. The fund is underweight corporate bonds, but the managers continue to monitor the asset class closely for better opportunities. The focus is also on high-conviction credits with solid fundamentals.

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2019 : USD 148 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Fixed income markets witnessed a year of two halves. Yields rose in the first half in line with US Treasuries as the US Federal Reserve (Fed) increased interest rates, but fell in the second half as major central banks shifted towards an accommodative monetary policy stance. The shift in the US Fed's monetary policy stance was in response to concerns about US growth and inflation, and external factors, such as slowdown in China and weak oil prices. Growth in the eurozone remained muted, leading the European Central Bank (ECB) to keep its policy rates unchanged. The central bank indicated that it will hold rates steady at least through the end of 2019. Meanwhile, the Bank of England raised interest rates in August 2018 after backtracking on expected interest rate rises in a couple of previous meetings amid disappointing economic data.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year. An underweight stance in financials detracted the most from performance. The lack of exposure to Wells Fargo and Goldman Sachs hampered relative returns. An underweight position in technology & communications company Verizon also weighed on performance. In terms of ratings, not holding A and BBB rated securities held back gains. This was partially offset by tactical positioning in AAA and AA rated credits.

Global growth is slowing down amid strong headwinds and China remains the primary source of global activity in the near term. Global central banks are likely to remain cautious as the US economy is gradually decelerating, while the European economy remains soft with subdued inflation. Consequently, the fund's long credit beta (sensitivity to changes in credit risk) was reduced largely by selling BBB rated bonds. The managers also trimmed the overweight stance in emerging market bonds. At a sector level, the focus is on banks and consumer names.

Manager's Overview

Fixed income markets witnessed a year of two halves. Yields rose in the first half in line with US Treasuries as the US Federal Reserve (Fed) increased interest rates, but fell in the second half as major central banks shifted towards an accommodative monetary policy stance. The shift in the US Fed's monetary policy stance was in response to concerns about US growth and inflation, and external factors, such as slowdown in China and weak oil prices. Growth in the eurozone remained muted, leading the European Central Bank (ECB) to keep its policy rates unchanged. The central bank indicated that it will hold rates steady at least through the end of 2019. Consequently, credit markets recorded another period of strong performance as credit spreads tightened across regions.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year. The fund's defensive positioning, specifically an underweight stance in B and BB rated securities, held back returns. An underweight position in HCA and the lack of exposure to PetSmart detracted from relative performance. However, these losses were partially offset by an overweight position in US credits, such as Fresh Market and JBS USA Finance, which added value.

The turn of the year witnessed a strong rebound in the global high yield market, as demand for yield remains strong amid the accommodative stance adopted by global central banks. US corporate fundamentals remain weak, while the European high yield market is expected to benefit from the ECB's cautious stance and the low default environment given conservative financial policies. However, the market is likely to be impacted by regional macroeconomic conditions, given worries over Italy, continued Brexit-related uncertainties and elections to the European Parliament. At a sector level, the managers favour China's property space at the expense of basic industry and capital goods.

Manager's Overview

Fixed income markets witnessed a year of two halves. Yields rose in the first half in line with US Treasuries as the US Federal Reserve (Fed) increased interest rates, but fell in the second half as major central banks shifted towards an accommodative monetary policy stance. The shift in the US Fed's monetary policy stance was in response to concerns about US growth and inflation, and external factors, such as slowdown in China and weak oil prices. Growth in the eurozone remained muted, leading the European Central Bank (ECB) to keep its policy rates unchanged. The central bank indicated that it will hold rates steady at least through the end of 2019. Meanwhile, the Bank of England raised interest rates in August 2018 after backtracking on expected interest rate rises in a couple of previous meetings amid disappointing economic data.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year. Hybrid bonds rallied, with corporate hybrids outperforming contingent convertibles (CoCo). Against this backdrop, the bias against CoCos weighed on relative returns. An underweight stance and security selection in insurance corporate hybrid bonds also detracted from relative performance. However, the exposure to banking credits helped to offset these losses. The holdings in fundamentally strong Italian banks, such as Intesa and UniCredit, were among the top contributors to returns.

Growth is likely to slow down amid strong headwinds and China remains the primary source of global activity in the near term. Global central banks are likely to remain cautious as the US economy is gradually decelerating, while the European economy remains soft with subdued inflation. The allocation to CoCo was increased, but remains underweight given the inherent volatility in the lower parts of the capital structure. The focus is on issuers who have high capital buffers and can withstand significant stress. The managers also continue to invest in new issues at attractive valuations.

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2019 : USD 373 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Fixed income markets posted positive returns over the 12-month period that was characterised by a changing monetary policy regime. The markets witnessed a period of two halves. Yields rose in the first half in line with US Treasuries as the US Federal Reserve (Fed) increased interest rates but fell in the second half as major central banks shifted towards an accommodative monetary policy stance. Yields on 10-year US Treasuries touched its lowest level in almost 16 months. The moves in US debt rippled out into other bond markets as well, with yields on German bunds and UK government bonds (Gilts) edging lower over the period. Meanwhile, credit markets recorded strong performance due to the rally in government bonds, thus offsetting the widening in credit spreads.

The fund posted positive returns over the year. The interest rate position contributed to performance with a skew towards US dollar duration adding value as yields fell over the period. Meanwhile, favourable security selection in the consumer non-cyclical and financial sectors were the key contributors to performance. The allocation to Takeda Pharmaceutical and Bank of America aided returns. However, these gains were partially offset by the exposure to credits such as Digicel and Telecom Italia in the communication sector.

A broad-based shift towards a more accommodative stance by developed market central banks still remains in place. Therefore, the focus is on identifying "quality yield" in a risk-efficient manner, rather than simply chasing "yield at all costs". The rise in market volatility and focus on downside protection resulted in a reduction in the exposure to the riskier areas of the market. The exposure to global investment grade credit was increased, reflecting the broader preference for 'up-in-quality' trades across the portfolio. The managers reduced the allocation to inflation-linked bonds, while marginally increasing the position in government bonds.

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2019 : USD 1,177 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Inflation-linked bonds underperformed their nominal counterparts over the 12-month review period. In particular, inflation breakevens tightened in the US and Europe, led by the slump in oil prices, concerns over a slowdown in global growth, stock market volatility and a broader deterioration in risk sentiment. However, UK inflation-linked bonds outperformed nominal bonds. UK inflation breakevens continued to trade on Brexit news and edged higher, driven by a depreciating sterling. Meanwhile, yields on inflation linked bonds fell in line with their nominal counterparts. Global government bond yields fell amid a risk-off environment, supported by the cautious monetary policy stance adopted by central banks globally.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year, largely due to the short real duration (sensitivity to real interest rate changes) position in sterling as yields on UK inflation linked bonds edged lower. The fund's long inflation breakeven position in euro weighed on performance as inflation breakevens reduced. Moreover, the short inflation breakeven position in sterling hurt performance as inflation expectations widened. However, these losses were partially offset by the long real duration position in the euro. Security selection in credits such as Naturgy and Thames Water Utilities also aided returns.

Over the year, the fund moved from a long to a short inflation breakeven position in sterling as the Consumer Price Index (CPI) was expected to fall once the effect of currency depreciation from Brexit fades. Concerns over RPI (Retail Price Index) reforms and the potential for positive Brexit news supports this position. The fund moved tactically to a neutral inflation breakeven position in the US dollar as inflation breakevens appeared expensive. The managers maintain moderate exposure to high-quality investment grade corporate bonds.

Manager's Overview

Fixed income markets posted positive returns over the 12-month period that was characterised by a changing monetary policy regime. The markets witnessed a period of two halves. Yields rose in the first half in line with US Treasuries as the US Federal Reserve (Fed) increased interest rates but fell in the second half as major central banks shifted towards an accommodative monetary policy stance. Yields on 10-year US Treasuries touched its lowest level in almost 16 months. The moves in US debt rippled out into other bond markets as well, with yields on German bunds and UK government bonds (Gilts) edging lower over the period. Meanwhile, credit markets recorded strong performance due to the rally in government bonds, thus offsetting the widening in credit spreads.

The fund posted positive returns over the year. The fund's interest rate position contributed to performance with a skew towards US dollar duration adding value as yields fell over the period. Meanwhile, security selection in the consumer non-cyclical and financial sectors supported performance. For instance, the allocation to Mitsubishi UFJ Financial Group and UnitedHealth Group aided returns. However, these gains were partially offset by the exposure to credits such as Digicel and Dr. Peng Holding Hong Kong in the communication sector.

A broad-based shift towards a more accommodative stance by developed market central banks still remains in place. Therefore, the focus is currently on identifying "quality yield" in a risk-efficient manner, rather than simply chasing "yield at all costs". The rise in market volatility and the focus on downside protection resulted in a reduction in the exposure to riskier areas of the market. The allocation to global investment grade credit was increased, reflecting the broader preference for "up-in-quality" trades across the portfolio. The allocation to inflation-linked bonds was reduced.

Manager's Overview

Yields rose in the first half in line with US Treasuries as the US Federal Reserve (Fed) increased interest rates but fell in the second half as major central banks shifted towards an accommodative monetary policy stance. The moves in the US debt rippled out into other bond markets as well, with yields on German bunds and UK government bonds (Gilts) edging lower over the period. Meanwhile, credit markets recorded strong performance due to the rally in government bonds, thus offsetting the widening in credit spreads.

The fund posted positive returns over the year with its duration (sensitivity to interest rate changes) position being the key contributor to performance. US dollar, euro and sterling duration positions supported returns, as government bonds posted gains over the period. The real duration position added value as yields on inflation-linked bonds edged lower. However, these gains were partially offset by the short duration stance in the Canadian dollar via futures. Credit exposure also hurt returns as credit spreads widened across major regions. Selected securities in the banking (Sumitomo Mitsui Financial Group) and telecommunication (Wind Tre) sectors supported performance.

The managers slightly increased the fund's duration exposure, mainly through US dollar interest rate risk as the outlook for US growth was subdued. The fund's inflation exposure was increased, and the real duration position was maintained through the US Treasury inflation-linked bonds. However, a small exposure to euro real duration was sold. The rise in market volatility and focus on downside protection resulted in a reduction in the exposure to riskier areas of the market. The managers continued to prefer investment grade corporate bonds over high yield bonds.

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2019 : USD 1,075 MILLION

Manager's Overview

US corporate bonds outperformed government bonds over the 12-month period. Yields rose in the first half in line with US Treasuries as the US Federal Reserve (Fed) increased interest rates, but fell in the second half of the period as major central banks shifted towards an accommodative monetary policy stance. The shift in the US Fed's monetary policy stance was in response to concerns about US growth and inflation, and external factors, such as a slowdown in China and weak oil prices. On the economic front, GDP for the first quarter of 2019 came in at 3.2% against consensus expectations of 2.5%, one of the best starts to a year since 2015. This robust growth was despite the longest government shutdown in the history of the US, which ended on 25 January 2019. However, the Institute for Supply Management (ISM) manufacturing Purchasing Managers' Index (PMI) fell in April to the weakest level since October 2016, reflecting subdued increases in new orders and employment.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year, largely due to credit selection and interest rate strategy. Favourable credit selection in the consumer sectors (Volkswagen and HCA) added significant value. An overweight stance in basic industry also contributed to returns. From a ratings perspective, the holding in high-conviction securities boosted relative performance. An overweight position in US dollar duration (sensitivity to interest rate changes) added value as US government bonds gained, following the US Fed's accommodative stance.

Growth is likely to slow down amid strong headwinds and China remains the primary source of global activity in the near term. The US Fed is likely to remain cautious as the US economy is gradually decelerating, while the European economy remains soft with subdued inflation. Consequently, the managers moved the fund to an overall short duration position from a long position during first half, and tactically managed US dollar duration. The managers maintained an underweight stance in corporate bonds but continue to monitor the asset class for better opportunities.

Manager's Overview

The US high yield market posted positive returns over the year, as the US Federal Reserve (Fed) shifted towards an accommodative monetary policy stance. The shift in the US Fed's monetary policy stance was in response to concerns about US growth and inflation, and external factors, such as a slowdown in China and weak oil prices. On the economic front, GDP for the first quarter of 2019 came in at 3.2% against consensus expectations of 2.5%, one of the best starts to a year since 2015. This robust growth was despite the longest government shutdown in the history of the US, which ended on 25 January 2019. However, the Institute for Supply Management (ISM) manufacturing Purchasing Managers' Index (PMI) fell in April to the weakest level since October 2016, reflecting subdued increases in new orders and employment.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year. At a sector level, holdings in gaming, food & drug retail and homebuilders held back gains, while the exposure to the health care, banks & thrifts and technology sectors were the top contributors to performance. From an issuer standpoint, holdings in Melco Resorts & Entertainment ADR and Penn National Gaming hampered returns. On a positive note, the bias towards Ally Financial, Valeant Pharmaceuticals International and Talen Energy Supply boosted performance. Security selection in CCC and BB-rated bonds also added significant value.

The de-risking undertaken at the end of the third and fourth quarter of 2018 remained largely intact. The fund ended the period modestly overweight CCC-rated bonds and underweight in higher quality credits such as BB and B-rated bonds. It also had a small position in bank loans and equities, and a bias towards banks & thrifts, energy and utilities. Conversely, the largest underweights were homebuilders, automobiles and telecommunications.

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2019 : AUD 120 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Australia's economic growth slowed significantly in the second half of 2018, led by weakness in household spending. Subsequent data suggests that growth picked up in the first quarter of 2019. Continued job gains, tightening labour market conditions and an unexpected surge in retail sales in February compared to the previous month point to surprising resilience in household spending. However, sluggish wage growth, falling house prices and high debt continued to weigh on consumer sentiment. Inflation slowed sharply in the first quarter on weak petrol prices and a lack of wage pressure. The Reserve Bank of Australia (RBA) kept its cash rate unchanged in April at an all-time low of 1.5%, where it has been for over two years.

The fund's relatively long weighted average maturity (WAM) was maintained in order to pick up incremental yield over the term premium. Yield pick-up was the main driver of returns as the fund's credit risk was kept to a minimum. The manager holds a large portion of the portfolio in highly liquid securities in accordance with the key aim of maintaining liquidity and capital preservation. At the end of the review period, the fund's WAM stood at 43 days.

The portfolio strategy remains conservative. The focus on credit quality is high, with exposure to issuers rated Aa3 or higher at 48.8%. The portfolio is also well diversified across regions. Issuers in the fund are domiciled in Australia, France, Netherlands and Japan among others. A high level of liquidity is maintained, with 25.9% of net assets maturing in 7 days or less.

Manager's Overview

Eurozone economy remained muted over the period. Business growth slowed to its weakest pace in over two years in December 2018, as a manufacturing-led slowdown showed signs of spreading to the service industry. However, the turn of the year witnessed a sharp turnaround in investor sentiment, supported by the accommodative monetary policy stance by global central banks, easing concerns over US-China trade frictions and the European Central Bank (ECB) signalling an extension of its Targeted Long-Term Refinancing Operation (TLTRO). In the first quarter of 2019, European economic growth was stronger than expected, driven by resilient domestic demand, which continues to benefit from a strong labour market. On the monetary policy front, the ECB indicated that it will hold interest rates steady at least through the end of 2019. Moreover, a delay in the UK's withdrawal from the European Union reassured investors that a disruptive no-deal Brexit may be avoided.

The fund prioritised yield enhancement along with security of capital and a strong liquidity profile, while adhering to its strict credit quality guidelines. The managers hold a large portion of the portfolio in highly liquid securities, in accordance with the key aim of maintaining liquidity and capital preservation. At the end of the review period, the weighted average maturity (WAM) stood at 49 days.

The portfolio strategy remains conservative. The focus on credit quality remains high, with exposure to issuers rated Aa3 or higher at 46.8%. The portfolio is also well diversified across regions; issuers in the fund are domiciled in core eurozone countries, the UK, the US and Japan. A high level of liquidity is maintained, with approximately 35.8% of net assets maturing in 7 days or less.

Manager's Overview

News flow surrounding the UK's negotiations to exit the European Union (EU) dominated headlines during the 12-month review period. The last quarter of 2018 saw Prime Minister Theresa May delaying the vote on the Brexit deal in Parliament amid lack of consensus, even as the UK and the EU reached an in-principle agreement. In April, EU leaders granted the UK a six-month extension until 31 October after British MPs failed to agree on a way forward, thus reducing the chances of a no deal Brexit. The Bank of England (BoE) is likely to wait for greater clarity regarding Brexit before making any further changes to its monetary policy. Earlier, the BoE raised interest rates in August 2018 after backtracking on the expected interest rate rises at a couple of previous meetings amid disappointing economic data. The UK economy slowed to 1.4% in 2018 as Brexit worries hurt business investment and exports suffered from global weakness. The economy picked up in the first three months of 2019 after manufacturers' stockpiling ahead of Brexit helped to boost growth.

The fund prioritised security of capital and a strong liquidity profile along with yield enhancement, while adhering to its strict credit quality guidelines. The managers hold a large portion of the portfolio in highly liquid securities, in accordance with the key aim of maintaining liquidity and capital preservation. At the end of the review period, the fund's weighted average maturity (WAM) stood at 26 days.

The portfolio strategy remains conservative. The focus on credit quality is high, with exposure to issuers rated Aa3 or higher at 42.9%. The portfolio is also well diversified across regions. Issuers in the fund are domiciled in core eurozone countries, the UK and Japan. A high level of liquidity is maintained, with 27.0% of net assets maturing in 7 days or less.

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2019 : USD 1,768 MILLION

Manager's Overview

US Treasury yields rose in the first half of the 12-month review period as the US Federal Reserve (Fed) increased interest rates, but fell in the second half as major central banks shifted towards an accommodative monetary policy stance. In addition to concerns about domestic US growth, external factors, such as the slowdown in China and weak oil prices, accounted for the change in monetary policy stance by the Fed. The US economy expanded at a faster pace than expected and posted one of the best starts to a year since 2015. This robust growth was despite the longest government shutdown in the history of the US, which ended on 25 January 2019. However, the Institute for Supply Management (ISM) manufacturing Purchasing Managers' Index (PMI) fell in April to the weakest level since October 2016, reflecting subdued increases in new orders, production and employment.

The fund prioritised security of capital and a strong liquidity profile along with yield enhancement, while adhering to its strict credit quality guidelines. The managers hold a large portion of the portfolio in highly liquid securities in accordance with the key aim of maintaining liquidity and capital preservation. At the end of the review period, the fund's weighted average maturity (WAM) stood at 42 days.

The portfolio strategy remains conservative. The focus on credit quality remains high, with the exposure to issuers rated Aa3 or higher at 45.1%. The portfolio is also well diversified across regions. Issuers in the fund are domiciled in core eurozone countries, the UK and Japan. A high level of liquidity is maintained, with 32.5% of net assets maturing in 7 days or less.

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2019 : USD 20 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Global equities gained over the review period. Healthy corporate earnings provided support, while rising US interest rates, trade tensions and political uncertainty in Europe elevated market volatility. Equities fell sharply in the fourth quarter of 2018 as concerns over global growth intensified. Nonetheless, investor sentiment improved in 2019 amid expectations of a US-China trade deal and the accommodative monetary policy stance in major economies. Fixed income markets posted positive returns over a period that was characterised by a changing monetary policy regime. Led by US Treasuries, sovereign bond yields fell as central banks across the world adopted a cautious monetary policy stance. Credit markets performed positively due to the rally in government bonds, thus offsetting the widening in credit spreads.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year, as global real estate, US and Japanese equities weighed on returns. In particular, the allocation to a US value strategy detracted from performance as the style remained out of favour. A US core strategy that leverages the stock picking expertise of Fidelity also hurt performance. Here, security selection in the consumer discretionary and energy sectors detracted from relative returns. Within real estate, the overweight stance in Spain and weak security selection in Hong Kong detracted from performance. The position in Spain-based real estate investment trust (REIT) Merlin Properties also weighed on relative returns as its annual net profits declined due to lower revaluation of its assets. The allocation to cash contributed to returns. Strong strategy selection in fixed income supported performance, driven by the exposure to a US dollar bond strategy.

The fund follows a monthly migration path towards the final portfolio, which will consist of 100% cash at the end of 2020. The exposure to global market neutral equities was increased for diversification in light of rising volatility. The allocation to UK fixed income securities was also raised.

In particular, the allocation to a US value strategy detracted from performance as the style remained out of favour. A US core strategy that leverages the stock picking expertise of Fidelity also weighed on performance. Here, security selection in the consumer discretionary and energy sectors held back gains. Losses were mitigated by strategies that invest in European markets. The underlying eurozone strategy contributed to relative performance due to an underweight allocation and security selection within the consumer discretionary and financials sectors. The allocation to cash also contributed to returns. The underlying European bond strategy detracted from returns due to an overweight stance in financials. However, this was partially offset by strong performance from the Asian high yield strategy.

The fund follows a dynamic asset allocation model, which will consist of 100% cash at maturity. The monthly migration path towards the final portfolio is set to have an increasing exposure to bonds and cash, and a decreasing weight in equities over time until maturity. In line with this, the allocation to equities was reduced, while the exposure to bonds was increased.

Manager's Overview

Global equities gained over the review period. Healthy corporate earnings provided support, while rising US interest rates, trade tensions, political uncertainty in Europe, and concerns about emerging markets elevated market volatility. Markets came under pressure in the fourth quarter of 2018, as concerns over global growth intensified. Nonetheless, investor sentiment improved in 2019 amid expectations of a US-China trade deal and the accommodative monetary policy stance in major economies. Notably, the US Federal Reserve signalled a possible end to interest rate hikes at its January meeting amid rising global economic risks. Against this backdrop, equities in the US and Pacific ex Japan advanced, while Japanese and European stocks fell. Emerging market equities also declined, underperforming developed markets.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year, largely due to US and Japanese equities. In particular, the allocation to a US value strategy detracted from performance as the style remained out of favour. A US core strategy that leverages the stock picking expertise of Fidelity also weighed on performance. Here, security selection in the consumer discretionary and energy sectors held back gains. In Japan, an all-cap strategy hurt returns due to stock selection within the consumer discretionary sector. Losses were mitigated by strategies that invest in European markets. The underlying eurozone strategy contributed to relative performance due to an underweight allocation and security selection within the consumer discretionary and financials sectors.

The fund follows a dynamic asset allocation model, which will consist of 100% cash at maturity. The monthly migration path towards the final portfolio is set to have an increasing exposure to bonds and cash, and a decreasing weight in equities over time until maturity. In line with the dynamic asset allocation model, the portfolio remains fully invested in equities.

Manager's Overview

Global equities gained over the review period. Healthy corporate earnings provided support, while rising US interest rates, trade tensions, political uncertainty in Europe, and concerns about emerging markets elevated market volatility. Markets came under pressure in the fourth quarter of 2018, as concerns over global growth intensified. Nonetheless, investor sentiment improved in 2019 amid expectations of a US-China trade deal and the accommodative monetary policy stance in major economies. Notably, the US Federal Reserve signalled a possible end to interest rate hikes at its January meeting amid rising global economic risks. Against this backdrop, equities in the US and Pacific ex Japan advanced, while Japanese and European stocks fell. Emerging market equities also declined, underperforming developed markets.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year, largely due to US and Japanese equities. In particular, the allocation to a US value strategy detracted from performance as the style remained out of favour. A US core strategy that leverages the stock picking expertise of Fidelity also weighed on performance. Here, security selection in the consumer discretionary and energy sectors held back gains. In Japan, an all-cap strategy hurt returns due to stock selection within the consumer discretionary sector. Losses were mitigated by strategies that invest in European markets. The underlying eurozone strategy contributed to relative performance due to an underweight allocation and security selection within the consumer discretionary and financials sectors.

The fund follows a dynamic asset allocation model, which will consist of 100% cash at maturity. The monthly migration path towards the final portfolio is set to have an increasing exposure to bonds and cash, and a decreasing weight in equities over time until maturity. In line with the dynamic asset allocation model, the portfolio remains fully invested in equities.

Manager's Overview

Global equities gained over the review period. Healthy corporate earnings provided support, while rising US interest rates, trade tensions and political uncertainty in Europe elevated market volatility. Equities fell sharply in the fourth quarter of 2018 as concerns over global growth intensified. Nonetheless, investor sentiment improved in 2019 amid expectations of a US-China trade deal and the accommodative monetary policy stance in major economies. Fixed income markets posted positive returns over a period that was characterised by a changing monetary policy regime. Led by US Treasuries, sovereign bond yields fell as central banks across the world adopted a cautious monetary policy stance. Credit markets performed positively due to the rally in government bonds, thus offsetting the widening in credit spreads.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year, largely due to the liquid assets segment. Within the equity segment, the allocation to a US value strategy detracted from performance as the style remained out of favour. The underlying eurozone strategy contributed to relative performance due to an underweight allocation and security selection within the consumer discretionary and financials sectors. A preference towards European fixed income also supported performance.

The fund follows a dynamic asset allocation model. The monthly migration path towards the final portfolio is set to have an increasing exposure to bonds and cash, and a decreasing weight in equities over time until maturity. In line with this, the majority of the fund's assets are invested in cash and highly liquid short-term bonds. The fund retains a marginal allocation to bonds and equities.

Fixed income markets posted positive returns over a period that was characterised by a changing monetary policy regime. Led by US Treasuries, sovereign bond yields fell as central banks across the world adopted a cautious monetary policy stance. Credit markets performed positively due to the rally in government bonds, thus offsetting the widening in credit spreads.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year, largely due to the equities segment. In particular, the allocation to a US value strategy detracted from performance as the style remained out of favour. A US core strategy that leverages the stock picking expertise of Fidelity also weighed on performance. Here, security selection in the consumer discretionary and energy sectors held back gains. In Japan, an all-cap strategy hurt returns due to stock selection within the consumer discretionary sector. The underlying strategy selection within Europe and emerging markets detracted from relative performance. Within the fixed income segment, the US dollar bond strategy contributed to returns, largely due to credit selection and interest rate strategy. At a sector level, favourable credit selection in the consumer sectors was one of the top contributors to performance.

The fund follows a dynamic asset allocation model. The monthly migration path towards the final portfolio is set to have an increasing exposure to bonds and cash and a decreasing weight in equities over time until maturity. In line with this, the allocation to equities was reduced, while the exposure to bonds was increased.

Manager's Overview

Global equities gained over the review period. Healthy corporate earnings provided support, while rising US interest rates, trade tensions, political uncertainty in Europe, and concerns about emerging markets elevated market volatility. Markets came under pressure in the fourth quarter of 2018, as concerns over global growth intensified. Nonetheless, investor sentiment improved in 2019 amid expectations of a US-China trade deal and the accommodative monetary policy stance in major economies. Notably, the US Federal Reserve signalled a possible end to interest rate hikes at its January meeting amid rising global economic risks. Against this backdrop, equities in the US and Pacific ex Japan advanced, while Japanese and European stocks fell. Emerging market equities also declined, underperforming developed markets.

Manager's Overview

Global equities gained strongly over the period. Healthy corporate earnings provided support, while rising US interest rates, trade tensions, political uncertainty in Europe, and concerns about emerging markets elevated market volatility. Equities came under pressure in the fourth quarter of 2018 as concerns over global growth intensified. Investor sentiment improved in 2019 amid expectations of a US-China trade deal and the accommodative monetary policy stance in major economies. Notably, the US Federal Reserve signalled a possible end to interest rate hikes at its January meeting amid rising global economic risks.

The fund generated positive absolute returns. Within market exposure, fixed income was the largest contributor to performance, followed by equities. Within fixed income, positive returns were driven by Asian high yield and Australian bonds. The general risk appetite and investors' ongoing search for yield boosted Asian high yield bonds. Australian government bonds performed strongly in 2019 as the Reserve Bank of Australia lowered its growth and inflation forecasts and moved to a more neutral policy outlook. Within equities, the underlying holdings in Japan and Pacific ex-Japan supported performance. Non-directional strategies had a positive impact on returns. The investments in listed alternatives added value, while third party alternatives lagged given their value tilt. Thematic positions generated negative returns. The long position in financials underperformed. Meanwhile, the short retail holding performed well.

Over the period, the managers increased the Asian equity exposure. More specifically, the allocation to Asian small-cap and Chinese stocks was raised. The Chinese market continues to be supported by targeted fiscal and monetary policy, and earnings growth also appears encouraging. The US equity exposure was sold, as the managers believed its valuations are high compared to the rest of the world. Within fixed income, the position in UK government bonds (Gilts), which benefited from the uncertainty around Brexit, was reduced.

Manager's Overview

Asia ex Japan equities retreated over the 12-month review period. Concerns about a global economic slowdown and uncertainty around the US-China trade frictions, weighed on investor sentiment. Chinese stocks slid amid concerns about a slowdown in economic growth in light of the domestic deleveraging campaign and trade issues with the US. Weak macroeconomic data and the depreciation of the Korean won against the US dollar held back equities in South Korea. Losses in communication services companies weighed on Singaporean and Malaysian equities. On a positive note, equities in India and Taiwan outperformed the broader market.

The fund generated negative returns over the year. Selected positions in the information technology (IT) and industrials sectors detracted from returns. Concerns around short-term weakness in smartphone demand subdued sentiment towards phone casing manufacturer Catcher Technology. The position is retained for its competitive advantages, which should help it to gain market share as the industry consolidates in favour of stronger players. Malaysia's financial services provider CIMB Group Holdings reported weak results amid a tepid economic backdrop. The position is retained for its strong franchise and optimistic outlook from current levels. On a positive note, shares in Taiwan-based financial company E.Sun Financial Holding advanced on the back of strong fee income growth, robust cost controls and strong loan growth.

The fund is focused on companies in three categories – restructuring candidates where the manager finds catalysts for an improvement in returns; those that have global technology, scale or cost leadership; and strong franchises that benefit from long-term structural drivers. For instance, HDFC Bank and Bank Central Asia have robust franchise, excellent management team and solid asset quality. Taiwan Semiconductor Manufacturing is held for its growth potential from emerging technologies such as artificial intelligence, the internet of things, automation and gaming. The company is a long-term winner with strong technology, scale and pricing power.

Manager's Overview

US equities rose during the review period, as expectations of a truce in US-China trade frictions and strong corporate earnings supported stocks. However, market returns were weighed down by a sharp decline in the fourth quarter of 2018, amid the longest US government shutdown in history. Despite this, overall market conditions remain favourable, supported by upbeat corporate earnings and robust economic data. The US Federal Reserve (Fed) increased its benchmark interest rate three times by a total of 0.75%, to range between 2.25% and 2.50%. The US Fed also signalled a possible end to interest rate hikes. At a sector level, information technology (IT) consumer staples and utilities stocks were among the leading gainers.

The fund delivered positive returns over the period. Primarily, holdings in the IT sector contributed to returns. Positions such as Microsoft and Salesforce.com, both of which are software companies with growing cloud-related businesses, were among the notable contributors to performance. However, the position in 2U, a software company that partners with leading academic institutions to develop online degree programs, detracted from returns amid concerns around new entrants into the online education space.

The manager's approach tends to be more value-oriented than growth-oriented. The emphasis is on high-return businesses with sustainable, long-term advantages. The manager avoids expensive, aggressive-growth companies with weaker characteristics. A key theme in the manager's approach is mean reversion. With enough research, the manager believes that it is possible to find compelling opportunities to buy - or avoid - individual stocks whose prices may be well out of line with their historical trends.

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2019 : USD 5 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Emerging market equities fell over the period. A strengthening US dollar and interest rate increases by the US Federal Reserve (Fed) hurt sentiment. However, as 2018 ended, the US Fed adopted a more cautious stance, which provided some support to the market. Meanwhile, concerns over the US-China trade war and slowing economic growth in China, the world's largest developing country, unnerved investors. The escalation of the trade war between the US and China saw both sides impose tariffs on exports. This resulted in a sell-off across riskier assets. Subsequently, progress in trade talks and encouraging manufacturing data in China lifted sentiment. In Latin America, Brazilian stocks declined as the government re-introduced price controls and subsidies. Encouragingly, political uncertainty ended with the appointment of Jair Bolsonaro as President. Elsewhere, Russian equities rose after the Robert Muller report concluded that there was no Russian interference in the 2016 US Presidential elections.

The fund generated positive returns over the period on account of stock selection in the financials and consumer discretionary sectors. Key contributors included Latin American e-commerce major MercadoLibre, which is set to receive new investments, with the bulk coming from online payment provider PayPal. Through the investments, MercadoLibre is seeking to improve and expand its e-commerce platform. However, the holding in Brazil's Vale ADR, a leading iron-ore miner, fell after its CEO and three other executives resigned following a dam collapse in January.

The manager has an overweight stance in the information technology (IT) and consumer discretionary sectors. Within the IT sector, key holdings include Japanese optical sensor manufacturer Keyence, while Alibaba Group Holding ADR, China's largest e-commerce company, is the leading position within the consumer discretionary sector. At a country level, the fund has key holdings in India and Brazil, which are benefiting from economic reforms and rising incomes.

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2019 : USD 46 MILLION

Manager's Overview

US equities rose during the review period, as expectations of a truce in US-China trade frictions and strong corporate earnings supported stocks. However, market returns were weighed down by a sharp decline in the fourth quarter of 2018, amid the longest US government shutdown in history. Despite this, overall market conditions remain favourable, supported by upbeat corporate earnings and robust economic data. The US Federal Reserve (Fed) increased its benchmark interest rate three times by a total of 0.75%, to now range between 2.25% and 2.50%. The US Fed also signalled a possible end to interest rate hikes. At a sector level, information technology (IT) consumer staples and utilities stocks were among the leading gainers.

The fund generated positive absolute returns over the period. Strong stock selection in the IT sector was the primary driver of returns. The holding in e-commerce platform Shopify rose as merchant and subscription solutions revenue on its platform grew strongly. Other notable contributors included communications chipmaker Qualcomm. Its shares gained as management shelved plans to buy NXP Semiconductors amid opposition from Chinese regulators, and instead authorised up to $30 billion in stock repurchases. However, the position in Charles Schwab, a leading bank and brokerage firm underperformed during the period.

Looking ahead, various economic indicators suggest caution is warranted and the global economy appears to be in a late-cycle phase, even as the US continues to outperform. With late-cycle headwinds of rising energy prices, higher interest rates and overall labour inflation coming off recent highs, the manager thinks that the positive effects from these market moves would help cushion any economic slowdown. The manager continues to look for investments that have the potential to outgrow the market and beat expectations. The fund is especially focused on the IT sector. Within this sector, one theme the manager likes is the transformation of software companies from a license-plus maintenance model of revenue collection to a subscription-based model. Other large sector exposures include health care, financials and energy.

The US Fed also signalled a possible end to interest rate hikes. At a sector level, information technology (IT) consumer staples and utilities stocks were among the leading gainers.

The fund delivered positive returns over the year. Key contributors included Verizon Communications, which is one of our largest holdings. Its shares gained as the broadband and telecommunications major topped analysts' estimates for both revenue and earnings. The position in Chicago-based utilities group Exelon also added value. The company specialises in nuclear power, as well as solar, wind, gas and hydroelectric generating power plants. Its shares gained as regulatory support for nuclear generation continued to improve.

With factors like peaking leading economic indicators, rising credit spreads, robust employment, high profit margins and tough credit costs pointing to potentially peak economic conditions, it is important to think about adding more conservatism into fund positioning, especially as broad market valuations have not bottomed out. The manager is optimistic about the longer term, however, as value investing tends to outperform over time – even though value has struggled for much of the past decade due to anemic global economic growth. The manager continued to look for attractively valued companies with strong competitive positions and good earnings growth prospects.

Manager's Overview

European equities ended a volatile 12-month period in negative territory in US dollar terms. Tighter financial conditions, ongoing trade tensions, an uncertain political landscape in Spain and a China-led global slowdown negatively impacted investor sentiment. Equities were particularly weak in the fourth quarter of 2018. However, markets rebounded in the first four months of 2019, supported by the emergence of a more accommodative monetary policy stance from major central banks, stronger data releases from China and expectations of a resolution on US-China trade negotiations.

The fund generated positive returns over the year under review, primarily due to the robust performance from information technology, industrials, health care and consumer discretionary holdings. Enterprise software company SAP was the largest contributor to returns. Its shares rose strongly after the company reported strong first quarter results, raised its 2019 profit outlook and announced its target of a 500 basis point expansion in operating margins over 2019–2023. Elsewhere, the exposure to Swiss pharmaceutical company Roche Holding, publishing company Wolters Kluwer and luxury goods conglomerate Kering added notable value. The strong performance was partially offset by positions in materials and communication services.

In constructing the portfolio, the manager looks for a balance between the quality of a company's business model and its market valuation. The preference is for companies where the market is under-estimating long-term growth prospects. The strategy has a considerable bias towards higher quality, higher return companies and this has not changed significantly over the last five years. However, the number of companies held in the portfolio that are cheap compared to history has increased. At a sector level, the biggest weights are in health care and industrials stocks, while real estate, materials and utilities are among the least owned sectors. The manager prefers relatively defensive business models in cyclical sectors, such as information technology stock SAP and professional services company Wolters Kluwer.

Manager's Overview

Global equities gained over the review period. Healthy corporate earnings provided support, while rising US interest rates, trade tensions, political uncertainty in Europe, and concerns about emerging markets elevated market volatility. Markets came under pressure in the fourth quarter of 2018, as concerns over global growth intensified. Nonetheless, investor sentiment improved in 2019 amid expectations of a US-China trade deal and the accommodative monetary policy stance in major economies. Notably, the US Federal Reserve signalled a possible end to interest rate hikes at its January meeting amid rising global economic risks. Against this backdrop, equities in the US and Pacific ex Japan advanced, while Japanese and European stocks fell. Emerging market equities also declined, underperforming developed markets.

The fund generated positive returns over the year, driven by US and Chinese equity strategies. A US core strategy that leverages the stock picking expertise of Fidelity contributed to returns due to strong positioning in the health care sector. The allocation to US value and growth oriented strategies had a positive impact on performance. In Japan, an all-cap strategy weighed on returns due to stock selection within the consumer discretionary sector. The underlying pan European strategy detracted from performance, largely due to an underweight allocation to the materials and consumer discretionary sectors. Within global strategies, the underlying developed world equity strategy and a strategy that invests in the highest conviction ideas of Fidelity's research analysts supported performance.

Over the period, a new position in an emerging markets strategy that focuses on Chinese consumer stocks was added to the portfolio. An all-cap strategy that focuses on selecting quality companies with a growth bias was also purchased. Meanwhile, holdings in two Japanese strategies were sold.

Manager's Overview

US equities rose during the review period, as expectations of a truce in US-China trade frictions and strong corporate earnings supported stocks. However, market returns were weighed down by a sharp decline in the fourth quarter of 2018, amid the longest US government shutdown in history. Despite this, overall market conditions remain favourable, supported by upbeat corporate earnings and robust economic data. The US Federal Reserve (Fed) increased its benchmark interest rate three times by a total of 0.75%, to now range between 2.25% and 2.50%. The US Fed also signalled a possible end to interest rate hikes. At a sector level, information technology (IT) consumer staples and utilities stocks were among the leading gainers.

The fund generated positive absolute returns over the year. Media and communication services company Comcast, one of the fund's largest holdings, was the top contributor to returns. Comcast remained attractive for its resilient business model, strong recurring cash flow, disciplined management team and attractive valuation. Meanwhile, the holding in Qualcomm contributed to performance. Its shares gained as management at the communications chipmaker shelved plans to buy NXP Semiconductors amid opposition from Chinese regulators, and instead authorised up to $30 billion in stock repurchases. Financial services company State Street was a notable detractor from returns. Its shares fell owing to negative investor sentiment around the financials sector for much of the review period. The position in British American Tobacco, which faced competitive and regulatory challenges, also held back gains.

At the end of the period, the fund's two main sector exposures were in energy and financials. In the energy sector, the manager has been emphasising high-quality integrated energy companies, which, compared to exploration and production companies, are attractive for their strong balance sheets and diversified business models. In the financials sector, the manager continued to find opportunities, as many companies enjoy heightened profitability in a rising interest rate environment, even as more of the benefit has been priced into the stocks.

Manager's Overview

Asia Pacific equities declined over the year. Chinese stocks fell amid concerns about a slowdown in economic growth in light of the domestic deleveraging campaign and trade issues with the US. Japanese equities slid as worries about US-China trade issues and the increasing impact on global trade and manufacturing hurt investor sentiment. Meanwhile, weak macroeconomic data and the depreciation of the Korean won against the US dollar held back South Korean equities. On a positive note, equities in Australia and Taiwan outperformed the broader market.

The fund generated negative returns over a year in which short-term disappointments held back some holdings amid heightened risk-aversion. The holding in Universal Entertainment posted healthy growth in its casino business in the Philippines. However, a short-term delay in the recovery of the Pachislot market weighed on its shares. Korean cosmetics maker Cosmax declined due to concerns over the impact of higher labour costs on its domestic business margins. Regulatory scrutiny on Chinese citizens bringing back cosmetics from Korea for re-selling also hurt its shares. Meanwhile, temporary disruptions and lower-than-expected prices for initial output from its Balama mine hurt Syrah Resources. On a positive note, biotechnology firm Clinuvel Pharmaceuticals made progress towards US regulatory approval for its drug to treat rare skin disorders. Its strengthening commercial operations reflected solid cash flow generation. The exposure to SoftBank Group also added value and it remains a key position given its strong management, noteworthy execution and promising investments in technology companies globally.

The manager focuses on companies with good long-term growth prospects that are cash generative and have strong management teams. China Pacific Insurance Group (H) is held as it is a potential beneficiary of secular growth in the insurance industry in China. Australian jewellery retailer Lovisa Holdings' global expansion plans are supported by management's strong execution capabilities and focus on store profitability.

Manager's Overview

Fixed income markets posted positive returns over a 12-month period that was characterised by a changing monetary policy regime. Yields rose in the first half of the period, in line with US Treasuries as the US Federal Reserve (Fed) increased interest rates, but fell in the second half as major central banks shifted towards an accommodative monetary policy stance. Yields on 10-year US Treasuries reached the lowest level in almost 16 months. The moves in US debt rippled out into other bond markets as well, with yields on German bunds and UK government bonds (Gilts) edging lower over the period. Meanwhile, credit markets recorded strong performance due to the rally in government bonds, thus offsetting the widening in credit spreads.

The fund posted positive returns over the period. US taxable investment-grade debt, particularly US Treasuries, added value as yields declined amid concerns that the economy could slow down in 2019. However, overall market volatility led to wider credit spreads. In this environment, the preference for corporate bonds and the underweight stance in US Treasuries and government securities hurt relative returns. Meanwhile, the conviction allocation to commercial mortgage-backed securities (CMBS) and asset-backed securities (ABS) added some value. Security selection supported returns. In particular, selected positions in bonds issued by industrial firms enhanced gains, particularly holdings in consumer non-cyclical and energy companies as oil prices advanced in the second half of the period.

The managers continue to closely monitor trade negotiations between the US and China. They think the growth story in Europe appears more uncertain and continue to find value in multiple segments of the US bond market. The fund is positive on corporate bonds overall. The managers are looking for opportunities among structured products, and added exposure to ABS.

Manager's Overview

US corporate bonds outperformed government bonds over the 12-month period. Yields rose in the first half in line with US Treasuries as the US Federal Reserve (Fed) increased interest rates but fell in the second half of the period as major central banks shifted towards an accommodative monetary policy stance. The shift in the US Fed's monetary policy stance was in response to concerns about US growth and inflation, and external factors, such as a slowdown in China and weak oil prices. On the economic front, GDP for the first quarter of 2019 came in at 3.2% against consensus expectations of 2.5%, one of the best starts to a year since 2015. This robust growth was despite the longest government shutdown in the history of the US, which ended on 25 January 2019. However, the Institute for Supply Management (ISM) manufacturing Purchasing Managers' Index (PMI) fell in April to the weakest level since October 2016, reflecting subdued increases in new orders and employment.

The fund posted positive returns over the year, largely due to credit selection and interest rate strategy. Favourable credit selection in the consumer sectors (Volkswagen and HCA) added significant value. An overweight stance in basic industry also contributed to returns. From a ratings perspective, the high conviction holdings boosted performance. The fund's exposure to US dollar duration (sensitivity to interest rate changes) added value as US government bonds gained, following the US Fed's accommodative stance.

Growth is likely to slow down amid strong headwinds and China remains the primary source of global activity in the near term. The US Fed is likely to remain cautious as the US economy is gradually decelerating, while the European economy remains soft with subdued inflation. Consequently, the managers reduced the duration in the second half, while tactically managing US dollar duration. The exposure to high conviction securities was reduced, and the managers continue to monitor the asset class for better opportunities.

Manager's Overview

US high yield market posted positive returns over the year, as the US Federal Reserve (Fed) shifted towards an accommodative monetary policy stance. The shift in the US Fed's monetary policy stance was in response to concerns about US growth and inflation, and external factors, such as a slowdown in China and weak oil prices. On the economic front, GDP for the first quarter of 2019 came in at 3.2% against consensus expectations of 2.5%, one of the best starts to a year since 2015. However, the Institute for Supply Management (ISM) manufacturing Purchasing Managers' Index (PMI) fell in April to the weakest level since October 2016, reflecting subdued increases in new orders and employment.

The fund posted positive returns over the year, primarily driven by security selection. The positioning across credit performed well, with security selection in CCCs and BB-rated bonds adding significant value. At a sector level, exposures to healthcare, banks & thrifts and technology were the top contributors to performance, while holdings in gaming, food & drug retail and homebuilders held back gains. From an issuer standpoint, the bias towards Ally Financial, Valeant Pharmaceuticals International and Talen Energy Supply boosted performance. Conversely, holdings in Melco Resorts & Entertainment ADR and Penn National Gaming hampered returns.

US economic data releases were clouded by issues such as the government shutdown, delayed tax refunds and disturbed supply chains due to ongoing US-China trade tensions. Consequently, the de-risking undertaken at the end of the third and fourth quarter of 2018, remained largely intact. In terms of ratings, the manager prefers high rated securities, such as BB and B-rated credits. At a sector level, there is a bias towards banks & thrifts, energy and utilities. The fund also maintains adequate liquidity to invest in attractive new opportunities.

Manager's Overview

Asia Pacific ex Japan equities retreated over the period. Concerns about a global economic slowdown and uncertainty around the US-China trade frictions, weighed on investor sentiment. Chinese stocks slid amid concerns about a slowdown in economic growth in light of the domestic deleveraging campaign and trade issues with the US. Weak macroeconomic data and the depreciation of the Korean won against the US dollar held back equities in South Korea. Losses in communication services companies weighed on Singaporean and Malaysian stocks. On a positive note, equities in Taiwan and Australia outperformed the broader market.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year. Security selection in the materials and consumer discretionary sectors detracted from returns. Shares in diamond technologies firm Sarine Technologies fell amid disappointing results. Competitive pressures due to the rise of lab-grown diamonds and the US-China trade dispute, which dampened the company's critically important Chinese market, weighed on returns. The position was sold. Worries about slower economic growth and weaker consumer sentiment negatively impacted the position in global luggage retailer Samsonite International. Encouragingly, sporting goods and athletic shoes manufacturer Li Ning advanced on the back of strong sales momentum. The new 'China Li Ning' franchise will enable the company to tap into a newer market.

The fund is focussed on quality companies with strong cashflows, excellent management and sustainable competitive advantages. Overall, the fund is overweight in consumer and information technology (IT) stocks. The manager prefers the position in China Mengniu Dairy as its product premiumisation strategy is expected to lead to faster earnings growth. Taiwan Semiconductor Manufacturing is held for its growth potential from emerging technologies such as artificial intelligence, the internet of things, automation and gaming. The company is a long-term winner with strong technology, scale and pricing power. Polly Kwan took over the portfolio's management from John Lo in April 2019.

Manager's Overview

Emerging market equities fell over the period. A strengthening US dollar and interest rate increases by the US Federal Reserve (Fed) hurt sentiment. However, as 2018 ended and the US Fed adopted a cautious stance, a more supportive backdrop emerged. Concerns over the US-China trade war and slowing economic growth in China, the world's largest developing country, unnerved investors. The escalation of the trade war between the US and China saw both sides impose tariffs on exports. This resulted in a sell-off across riskier assets. On a positive note, progress in trade talks and encouraging manufacturing data in China lifted sentiment. In Latin America, Brazilian stocks declined as the government re-introduced price controls and subsidies. Encouragingly, political uncertainty ended with the appointment of Jair Bolsonaro as President. Elsewhere, Russian equities rose after the Robert Muller report concluded that there was no Russian interference in the 2016 US Presidential elections.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the period, driven by stock selection in financials and consumer staples stocks. However, the underweight stance in the energy sector detracted from performance. Within financials, the allocation to AIA Group and HDFC Bank boosted returns. Hong Kong-based AIA Group advanced after it reported solid results, and amid expectations of continued growth, supported by its strong market position in China. The holding in India's HDFC Bank rose as robust loan and deposit growth during the year buoyed profits.

The vast consumer base in the developing world underpins a multi-year growth opportunity due to rising demand for banking and a wider range of financial services. As a result, the fund is overweight in the financials sector. The manager holds India's largest private lender HDFC Bank, which has a strong track record, a credible management team and robust growth plans. It is expected to gain from a robust economic environment and government reforms. Insurer AIA Group is a play on the structural growth story in the Asian life insurance market.

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2019 : EUR 41 MILLION

Manager's Overview

European equities ended a volatile 12-month period in positive territory. Tighter financial conditions, ongoing trade tensions, an uncertain political landscape in Spain and a China-led global slowdown negatively impacted investor sentiment. Equities were particularly weak in the fourth quarter of 2019. However, markets rebounded in the first four months of 2019, supported by the emergence of a more accommodative monetary policy stance from major central banks, stronger data releases from China and expectations of a resolution on US-China trade negotiations.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year largely due to strong stock selection. Industrials was the largest contributor to returns, where both stock picking and an overweight allocation added notable value. Valmet, a developer and supplier of technologies to the paper, pulp and energy industries, was the largest contributor to returns driven by a series of encouraging quarterly results in 2018. Elsewhere in the sector, transportation infrastructure company Ferrovial and aircraft manufacturer Airbus Group were among the key contributors. Selected holdings in information technology (Altran Technologies) and communication services (Cellnex Telecom) also proved rewarding. The strong outperformance was partially offset by an underweight positioning in materials and selected financials.

The fund is an equally weighted portfolio of the top 30 eurozone analyst ideas, through a portfolio construction process that utilises an optimiser to size positions to maximise expected returns while limiting factor exposures. Capital allocation to individual stocks is limited to 3.5% at purchase for the top 30 names, to prudently manage for stock specific events and avoid over-reliance on risk model assumptions. In terms of sector positioning, industrials is currently the largest overweight. Within the sector, Ferrovial and Dutch construction services company Royal BAM Group are among the key holdings. Consumer staples is the largest sector underweight.

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2019 : EUR 72 MILLION

Manager's Overview

European equities ended in positive territory after a volatile year. Tighter financial conditions, ongoing trade tensions, an uncertain political landscape in Spain and a China-led global slowdown negatively impacted investor sentiment. Equities were particularly weak in the fourth quarter of 2019. However, markets rebounded in the first four months of 2019, supported by the emergence of a more accommodative monetary policy stance from major central banks, stronger data releases from China and expectations of a resolution on US-China trade negotiations.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year as both sector allocation and stock selection supported returns. Consumer discretionary was the largest contributor to performance. Luxury goods conglomerate Kering reported a strong set of quarterly results, primarily driven by the Gucci brand. The lack of exposure to automobiles supported relative returns as automobile companies were weak on fears that US tariffs could be applied to car imports. Elsewhere, selected holdings in financials (DNB), industrials (Wolters Kluwer) and information technology (SAP) added notable value. The strong outperformance was partially offset by selected positions in consumer staples and materials.

In constructing the portfolio, the manager looks for a balance between the quality of a company's business model and the valuation it is given by the market. Companies where the market is under-estimating long-term growth prospects are preferred. The strategy has a considerable bias towards higher quality, higher return companies and this has not changed significantly over the last five years. However, the number of companies held in the portfolio that are cheap compared to history has increased. At a sector level, the biggest overweights are in health care, information technology and industrials stocks, while materials and financials are the largest underweights. The manager prefers relatively defensive business models in cyclical sectors, such as SAP and professional services company Wolters Kluwer.

Manager's Overview

European smaller equities ended a volatile 12-month period in negative territory. However, larger companies generated positive returns in euro and sterling terms, but declined in US dollar terms. Tighter financial conditions, ongoing trade tensions, and a China-led global slowdown negatively impacted investor sentiment. Equities were particularly weak in the fourth quarter of 2018. Markets rebounded in the first four months of 2019, supported by the emergence of a more accommodative monetary policy stance from major central banks, stronger data releases from China and expectations of a resolution on US-China trade negotiations.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year, driven by the strong performance of holdings in the communication services and materials sectors. An underweight position in financials also contributed to relative performance. Communication services stocks including Future, 4imprint Group and Schibsted were among the largest contributors to returns. In materials, Nevsun Resources performed strongly following its acquisition by Zijin Mining at a substantial premium. The position was sold following its strong share price performance. Conversely, weaker performance of consumer discretionary and technology holdings detracted from returns. Within consumer discretionary, positions in Maisons du Monde, XXL and Ted Baker were negatively impacted by the overall weakness in the retail sector.

The fund is focused on identifying well-managed, cash generative companies that have clear market leadership, a sustainable competitive advantage and profits driven by robust sales growth. The fund retains a bias towards quality growth stocks with large overweight positions in the consumer discretionary sector. Key holdings include Takeaway.com, Basic-Fit and Puma. The fund also has an overweight stance in the communication services and materials sectors, and is underweight in industrials and real estate stocks. Within communication services, 4imprint Group and Team17 Group are held as both continue to deliver strong growth.

Manager's Overview

Global equities gained over the 12-months to April 2019. Healthy corporate earnings provided support, while rising US interest rates, trade tensions, political uncertainty in Europe, and concerns about emerging markets elevated market volatility. At a regional level, equities in the US and Pacific ex Japan advanced, while Japanese and European stocks fell. Emerging market equities also declined, underperforming developed markets.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year. Selected energy holdings such as Baker Hughes and Concho Resources were weighed down by volatile crude oil prices during the period despite solid company fundamentals. Japanese health care equipment and services company Sysmex was another notable detractor from performance due to weak quarterly results. On a positive note, favourable stock selection in the information technology sector contributed to returns. Robust quarterly earnings as well as hopes of a resolution to trade tensions between the US and China, particularly during the latter half of the period, buoyed conviction holdings in Lenovo Group and Booz Allen Hamilton Holding. Some consumer discretionary names such as Ocado Group also gained on fundamental long-term tailwinds and positive news flow.

The manager believes that stock-specific fundamentals tend to be the key driver of equity returns over the long term. Consequently, the portfolio continues to focus on businesses that demonstrate strong pricing power, are led by talented management teams and are available at reasonable valuations. Cell tower real estate investment trusts (REIT) American Tower and SBA Communications are among the fund's top active positions. The holdings benefit from long-term, sticky contracts that are hedged for inflation and are likely to benefit from multiple tailwinds. The fund also has exposure to health care names with solid product portfolio and pipeline opportunities. Hearing aid major Sonova Holding's continued innovation efforts and a new platform give it a strong competitive edge.

Manager's Overview

Global equities gained over the 12-months to April 2019. Healthy corporate earnings provided support, while rising US interest rates, trade tensions, political uncertainty in Europe, and concerns about emerging markets elevated market volatility. Equities came under pressure in the fourth quarter of 2018 as concerns over global growth intensified. Nonetheless, investor sentiment improved in 2019 amid expectations of a US-China trade deal and the accommodative monetary policy stance in major economies. At a regional level, equities in the US and Pacific ex Japan advanced, while Japanese and European stocks fell. Emerging market equities also declined, underperforming developed markets. Overall, returns in US dollar terms were undermined by its appreciation against the euro, sterling and yen.

The fund recorded positive returns and performed in line with the comparative index during the period. Strong stock selection in the information technology sector and an overweight stance in health care contributed to returns during the period. At a portfolio level, the exposure to Qualcomm supported performance. Its shares gained as management at the communications chipmaker shelved plans to buy NXP Semiconductors amid opposition from Chinese regulators, and instead authorised up to $30 billion in stock repurchases. However, the underweight stance in the communication services sector weighed on relative performance.

The manager focuses on ensuring that the portfolio is suitably allocated between sectors. The manager believes that a bottom-up security selection approach is meaningful in the prevailing backdrop, and will complement the stock picking of the sector portfolio managers with additional positions, where appropriate.

Manager's Overview

Japanese equities fell over the year. Persistent worries about ongoing trade frictions between the US and China and the increasing impact on global trade and manufacturing weighed on investor sentiment. Nevertheless, stock prices rose over the year-to-date period in 2019, supported by an accommodative monetary policy stance by leading global central banks, including the Bank of Japan, and receding concerns over US-China trade frictions. The Japanese economy recovered in the fourth quarter following the decline in the previous quarter amid a number of natural disasters. The improvement was mainly led by higher capital expenditure and private consumption; however, the outlook remains uncertain. Earnings expectations have moderated and external headwinds may prove challenging in the near term, but a benign domestic economic and policy backdrop and comparatively attractive valuations are supportive of the Japanese market. From a sector perspective, energy, financials and materials were among the biggest decliners, while the communication services and health care sectors recorded positive returns.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year. Strong stock selection in the services and information & communication sectors contributed to returns, while the underweight allocation to banks added relative value. However, these gains were offset by the weak performance of selected names in the machinery sector, such as Komatsu and Makita, which fell owing to ongoing concerns over the impact of US-China trade frictions. At a stock level, the position in drug store operator Tsuruha Holdings fell as its lacklustre first-half profits weighed on sentiment. Recruitment and staffing company Recruit Holdings was the leading individual contributor to returns as profits across its business segments rose.

The manager looks to identify globally competitive growth companies. In line with this approach, the fund remains overweight in the electric appliances, machinery and precision instruments sectors. Conversely, banks and expensive defensive sectors (foods, land transportation and power utilities) continue to be underweight.

Manager's Overview

European high yield bonds posted positive returns over the year amid a cautious monetary policy stance by the US Federal Reserve (Fed) and the European Central Bank (ECB). The macroeconomic environment remained muted, as business growth slowed to its weakest pace in over two years in December 2018, and as the manufacturing-led slowdown showed signs of spreading to the service industry. However, the turn of the year witnessed a sharp turnaround in the risk sentiment, driven by the accommodative monetary policy stance by global central banks and easing concerns over US-China trade frictions. Additionally, the ECB signalled an extension of its Targeted Long-Term Refinancing Operation (TLTRO). During the first quarter of 2019, European economic growth was stronger than expected, driven by resilient domestic demand.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year, primarily driven by favourable credit selection in the utility and communications sectors. The exposure to ContourGlobal Power Hlgs added significant value after it announced the acquisition of two natural gas cogeneration plants in Mexico, with long term contracts expected to be earnings before interest, tax, depreciation and amortization (EBITDA) accretive in the first full year of operation. Conversely, an overweight stance in energy was the top detractor from performance. In terms of ratings, holdings in lower rated credits contributed to performance. This was partially offset by an underweight position in BB-rated securities.

The European high yield market is expected to benefit from the ECB's accommodative stance and the low default environment given conservative financial policies. However, the market is likely to be impacted by regional macroeconomic conditions, due to worries over Italy, continued Brexit-related uncertainties and elections to the European Parliament. Consequently, the managers have reduced the exposure to BB-rated securities. The allocation to debt collectors was increased, as they provide ample alpha opportunities.

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2019 : USD 37 MILLION

Manager's Overview

US high yield market posted positive returns over the year, as the US Federal Reserve (Fed) shifted towards an accommodative monetary policy stance. The shift in the US Fed's monetary policy stance was in response to concerns about US growth and inflation, and external factors, such as a slowdown in China and weak oil prices. On the economic front, GDP for the first quarter of 2019 came in at 3.2% against consensus expectations of 2.5%, one of the best starts to a year since 2015. This robust growth was despite the longest government shutdown in the history of the US, which ended on 25 January 2019. However, the Institute for Supply Management (ISM) manufacturing Purchasing Managers' Index (PMI) fell in April to the weakest level since October 2016, reflecting subdued increases in new orders and employment.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year. The underweight stance in the technology and communications sectors detracted the most from relative performance. Conversely, the bias towards consumer non-cyclical and favourable credit selection in the energy sector partially offset these losses. At an issuer level, the exposures to the US-based JBS USA Finance and Pilgrim's Pride were the top contributors to returns. In terms of ratings, not holding lower rated credits detracted from relative performance.

US economic data releases were clouded by issues such as the government shutdown, delayed tax refunds and disturbed supply chains due to ongoing US-China trade tensions. With markets expected to remain volatile, the managers need to monitor upcoming data to get more clarity. Meanwhile, credit markets are likely to be driven primarily by macroeconomic trends as well as the US Fed's monetary policy stance. From a sector perspective, the fund is overweight in the basic industry and property sectors. Conversely, the largest underweight positions are in capital goods and communications. The managers also maintain high liquidity to invest in new attractive opportunities. The fund retains its underweight stance in CCC-rated bonds, albeit at a lower level than a year ago, and is overweight in BBB-rated securities.
